OFF TO SEA AGAIN LAST NIGHT

In a fog so thick that objects 100 feet ahead were barely visible, two steamships, one a transatlantic liner and the other a coastwise ship, sailed from their North River piers on time yesterday. One was the White Star liner Adriatic, bound for the Mediterranean, while the other was the Old Dominion liner Hamilton, headed for Norfolk. On the Adriatic were about 1,600 passengers, among them J. Pierpont Morgan and ex-United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, while the Hamilton's passenger list showed fifty passengers, of whom thirty-two were in the first cabin.

The Adriatic backed out of her pier at the foot of Nineteenth Street on the stroke of noon, her scheduled sailing hour. An hour and a half later a wireless message said that Capt. Hayes's big ship was fast in the mud of the Red Hook flats just off the southeastern end of Governors Island. As for the Hamilton, she ventured out into the stream at 3 o'clock, and in less than two hours Fort Wadsworth reported her as an unexpected and much damaged visitor. Capt. Nelson of that ship had lost his bearings, it appeared, and being far inshore suddenly made out through the blanket of fog and dead ahead three little United States Army vessels berthed alongside the Government piers.

It was a time for quick action, and Capt. Nelson rang for full speed astern in order to avoid a collision with the Federal craft. As it was he did scrape one of the vessels, but that was nothing compared to the damage inflicted a moment later when the port bow of the Hamilton crashed into the stone pier, injuring the ship sufficient to cancel the voyage and send her back to her pier for survey and repairs.

Sixaola Not Aground.

About the time the news of the Hamilton's experience off Fort Wadsworth reached Manhattan a report was received that the United Fruit Company passenger steamship Sixaola, from Colon and Port Limon, was aground off Fort George, S. I. This report, however, turned out to be baseless, and the Sixalao was found later peacefully riding the waves outside the Hook, waiting for the fog to lift, when her skipper sent word he would lose no time in bringing his seventy passengers to New York.

The Adriatic, next to the Olympic the largest ship in the International Mercantile Marine fleet, departed on a cruise to take her as far East as Alexandria. Twenty minutes before noon it was said that practically all the 1,600 passengers, of whom 400 were first, 300 second class, and 900 steerage were on board.

At that time the Jersey shore on the other side of the river was invisible, and about the only evidence that the river was still there was the occasional tooting of the sirens of ferryboats and tugs feeling their way cautiously through the thick haze. Mr. Morgan arrived at the ship soon after 11 o'clock, and was joined there by his daughter, Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, wife of the ex-Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and little Miss Helen Morgan Hamilton, who are going across the sea with him.

P. A. S. Franklin, Vice President and the executive head in America of the International Mercantile Marine, was among those at the pier to see Mr. Morgan off. Mr. Morgan, it was said afterward, called the attention of one of the Adriatic's officers to the unusually thick conditions prevailing, and asked him whether he thought it was safe to venture out in such a fog. The officer, as the story goes, assured him that he was certain it was all right and went to the bridge to ask Capt. Hayes what he thought of the outlook. Presumably Capt. Hayes said it was all right, for twenty minutes later the big siren of the Adriatic was blowing a warning to other craft that might be in the stream and was backing out of her berth preparatory to beginning her voyage.

Liner Soon Lost to View.

Before she reached midstream the liner was lost to view. A strong tide was running down stream, and when he got the ship turned around and south Capt. Hayes in order to avoid its full midstream force and to make slower speed easier to maintain swung the liner in toward the Manhattan shore.

Down the Hudson the Adriatic proceeded at snail-like speed, and Capt. Hayes announced that as soon as he arrived at a point about 500 yards west of the Staten Island ferry route, off Bedlow's Island, he intended to anchor and await the clearing of the atmosphere before proceeding to sea. Off Bedlow's he gave the order, but the anchors did not hold, and when the Adriatic finally came to a stop she was about 300 yards east of the Staten Island ferry lanes and was resting peacefully in two or three feet of good Red Hook mud. It was about 2,000 yards distant from the Governors Island mainland and at a point about opposite the foot of Van Brunt Street, Brooklyn.

It was a sad anchorage for so proud a ship as the Adriatic, but the passengers were game as well as philosophical and refused to become irritated. Capt. Hayes assured them that the liner was as safe and sound as she was when she backed out of her pier, and that at high tide he was certain that the ship would work her way, unassisted, back into deep water.

The first tug to come along and discover the ship's predicament was the ferryboat Gowanus, bound from 39th St., Brooklyn, to South Ferry. Her skipper megaphoned that he would be mighty glad to lend a helping hand, for a consideration, but Capt. Hayes shouted back his thanks and said he would get free without outside help, and so the Gowanus proceeded on her way. Incidentally, and indicative of the brand of fog that prevailed, the Gowanus consumed two and a half hours in her voyage from Brooklyn to Manhattan, whereas in clear weather she easily makes the trip in thirty minutes.

Franklin Goes to Adriatic.

The news that the Adriatic was in trouble was received at the White Star Line offices about 2 o'clock, and the company immediately commissioned two powerful wrecking tugs to go alongside the liner in order to be ready in the event outside help was required to pull the ship back into deep water. Mr. Franklin himself went out to the ship on a tug to learn what the situation was. He returned with a smile on his face, and said that the Adriatic would work herself out of the mud just as soon as the water was deep enough.

Later the newspaper reporters went out on another tug to take a view of the big liner. After sailing around an hour they finally discovered her. Capt. Hayes was on the bridge. The skipper is a good-natured soul, even when his command is in the mud, and he readily answered all questions. Here is what he said:

"I went aground at 1:30 P. M., if I was

The British cruiser Natal, which brought home the body of Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, will remain in port two weeks to repair the damage she suffered on the passage from Portsmouth. The crew is painting the ship's hull, repairing topmasts and gear, and cleaning up ship generally, while the armorers are rebending two plates on the starboard bow that were smashed in by the furious seas.

According to the stories told by the officers and men yesterday, the cruiser almost went to Davy Jones's locker on the night of Monday, Dec. 23, when she was two days from the Irish coast. The northwest gale blew ninety miles an hour, and the seas rose over the foretop, crashing down on the decks and giving the ship a list of 40 degrees to port, which jammed the men of the watch below who were sleeping in their hammocks against the deck above their heads, and kept them in that position, much to their alarm.

The sudden lurch to port was caused by two guns breaking loose. Two searchlights were smashed, a cutter was blown from the davits away into the sea to leeward, the fore and maintopmasts were broken off, and the wireless apparatus carried away. At midnight the Natal was hit on the starboard bow by a mountainous sea, which stove in two of her plates and let the water into her lower deck in tons. Capt. Greaterex thought of turning the ship and running back to the Irish coast to refit, but was advised not to try the experiment by Lieut. Hall, a naval reserve officer from the merchant marine, who had served in the Atlantic trade. He said it would be fatal to make the attempt in such a heavy beam sea. The speed of the Natal was reduced to 7 knots instead of her usual cruising speed of 16 knots. The seams in the quarterdeck were opened up by the strain, and the water leaked through so much that the officers had to sleep in oilskins. Necessary repairs were made, and Christmas Day brought some decent weather.

When the Natal arrived off the coast of Newfoundland on Monday, Dec. 30, the Captain wanted to enter the Harbor of St. John's and refit before coming on to New York, but it was too foggy, and he had to "carry on," as they say in the navy.

The Natal belongs to what is called in the British Navy the Particular Service Squadron, ships of which are always detailed for services similar to the Natal's present errand. The Natal probably will escort King George when he pays his visit to Canada next year. The ship carries a crew of 600 officers and men.

ALARMED BY SPECIE THEFTS.

British Underwriters Stirred by Another Big Gold Robbery.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The Daily Telegraph says that underwriters at Lloyd's are beginning to feel seriously disturbed over what for a long time has been regarded as one of their most profitable risks. The news was received yesterday that a box of specie valued at £5,000 ($25,000) disappeared while on the way from Berlin to Hamburg, whence it was to be shipped by the steamer Capblanco to Rio de Janeiro.

So far only very meagre particulars of the robbery have been given out, but the fact that so large a sum has mysteriously disappeared within so short a time of the previous big robbery of specie is certainly disquieting. Everything points to the theory that a clever international gang of daring criminals has means of ascertaining when important gold shipments are being made. Within two months a sum of £15,000 ($75,000) has fallen into lawless hands without the police of this country or the Continent having apparently any clue to the thieves.

Losses of this kind have been frequent of late. It is said, indeed, in insurance circles that there have been some gold robberies—smaller, it is true, but nevertheless serious—which have not been made public; and the underwriters are said to be considering the advisability of making further increase in the premium they charge for the insurance of specie shipments.

SHERIFF TO SELL CHURCH.

Preacher Has Judgment for Back Pay and Wants the Money.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Jan. 7.—Having failed to reach an agreement with the Rev. Alexander Waddell, former pastor of the Union Presbyterian Church, as to his claim upon the congregation for arrears in salary, the Presbytery of Philadelphia has decided to abandon its attempt to prevent a Sheriff's sale. As a result the church structure, at Sixty-fifth Street and Woodland Avenue, it is probable, will be sold by the Sheriff in the first week of February. If the church building is sold in order to pay the pastor's salary, it will be the first case of the kind here.

Mr. Waddell, whose pastoral relations with the Union Church were dissolved by the Presbytery in November last, demanded payment of the full amount of his salary, $1,400 a year, for a long period, the total amount, with interest, being about $7,500. Mr. Waddell obtained a judgment for that amount last July. To satisfy that judgment the Sheriff's sale of the church property is now threatened.

The congregation divided into factions seven years ago. The Presbytery decided in December, 1911, that it was time for the minister to leave. Mr. Waddell appealed to the Synod of Pennsylvania. There could then be no action until the synod met at Butler, Penn., in October last. The synod sustained the action of the Presbytery.

OPERATED ON HIMSELF.

Dr. Beck's Effort Not a Success, So He Went to Hospital.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 7.—Desperate by reason of pain, Dr. W. M. Beck of Clarkfield, Minn., stood before a mirror in his office, made an incision just below his left jaw, cut away the flesh from the point of the chin, treated the bone, and then sewed up the wound.

The operation, however, failed to eradicate a growth which threatened to destroy the bone, and to-day he went to a hospital, where another operation was performed.

MONEY TRUST HUNT TURNS TO INSURANCE

WITNESS MAY BE INDICTED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—An effort to show a close working alliance between the big life insurance concerns and certain leading financiers in New York was the chief feature of the Money Trust inquiry before the Pujo Committee to-day.

Darwin P. Kingsley, President, and John A. McCall, Jr., of the New York Life; Charles A. Peabody, President of the Mutual Life; William A. Day, President of the Equitable Life; F. H. Eckert, Treasurer, and G. B. Woodward, Third Vice President, of the Metropolitan Life, were questioned at length.

Particular emphasis was laid on the failure of policy holders to interest themselves in elections, and the conclusion, broadly intimated by Samuel Untermyer, that the officers of these concerns could perpetuate their power. The witnesses were also asked about their handling of the millions at their disposal each year, and whether these funds were not used to aid the plans of J. P. Morgan, George F. Baker, and others.

A threat to punish a recalcitrant witness was also a feature of the inquiry. George G. Henry, of the firm of William Salomon & Co., who formed the syndicate which made large sums out of the California Petroleum Corporation, refused point blank to tell the names of certain bankers who shared in the profits. He did so under advice of ex-Senator John C. Spooner of New York. The House will be asked to have Mr. Henry indicted.

Bankers' Letters Made Public.

The committee to-day received information from J. Pierpont Morgan, which he was unable to give when he testified, showing that the firm had deposits of upward of $162,000,000 on Nov. 1 last in its two American banking houses—J. P. Morgan & Co. of New York and Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia. The data also included the correspondence between Mr. Morgan's son, James Stillman of the National City Bank, and George F. Baker of the First National Bank, under which Messrs. Stillman and Baker are pledged at any time to take off Mr. Morgan's hands one-half of the stock control of the Equitable Life Assurance Society which Mr. Morgan bought from Mr. Ryan. Young Mr. Morgan wrote as follows:

> Dear Mr. Stillman: Referring to your conversation of to-day, I understand that my father has the right at any time to call upon you to take one-quarter of the Equitable stock purchased by him from Mr. Ryan at the terms on which it was bought by him, viz.: cost and 5 per cent. interest. Your confirmation at the foot will be entirely sufficient. Yours very sincerely,
>
> J. P. MORGAN, Jr.

Mr. Stillman's confirmation, written on the same sheet of paper, follows:

> Dear Mr. Morgan: I hereby confirm your understanding. I had the impression that the rate of interest since the date of the Ryan purchase was to be 4 per cent., but whether that or 5 per cent. I leave entirely to your father or yourself to decide without further conference with me. Yours sincerely,
> JAMES STILLMAN,
> By J. A. STILLMAN, Attorney.

The letter to Mr. Baker was almost in the same words, and he merely wrote at the bottom:

Henry Refuses to Answer.

Mr. Henry was the first witness. Continuing his testimony about the California Petroleum Company, he testified that there was a fourth firm participating with the Salomon, Hallgarten, and Lewisohn firms in the organization of that syndicate. It had not been mentioned before. It had a 12½ per cent. participation. When Mr. Untermyer asked for the name of this firm Mr. Henry refused to give it.

"I don't wish to say," he testified, "because we told this firm at the time that its name would not appear publicly in the transaction. It is a matter of more or less common knowledge. I have no other reason for not disclosing their names. We are not ashamed of them, nor they of us."

Having formed the syndicate for the acquisition of $10,000,000 preferred and $7,500,000 common stock of the California Petroleum Corporation, Mr. Henry testified, Salomon & Co. arranged to market the securities. Two sub-syndicates were formed, each to take $5,000,000 preferred and $2,500,000 common for $5,000,000 plus accrued dividends of the preferred. One sold out to a London syndicate. The formation of the sub-syndicates, Mr. Henry said, left Salomon & Co. and their associates a cash profit of $1,784,328 and 25,729 shares of common stock worth $2,572,846.

Mr. Henry said that Salomon & Co. became associates in the New York sub-syndicate, in which there were 103 other participants. Among these underwriters were three banking institutions, two of which were in New York City, one outside; fifteen officers of seven National banks, of which four were in New York, two in Chicago, and one in Detroit; six officers of four trust companies, of which three trust companies were in New York City and one in Chicago, and three officers of State banks outside of New York. Banking institutions and officers got $1,085,000 of a total of $10,000,000 of underwriting.

Bankers' Names Also Held Back.

"If," Mr. Untermyer asked, after Mr. Henry had refused point blank to name the National bank officers who were in the underwriting, "there is nothing dishonorable or improper in the fact of officers of National banks participating in the syndicate, in securities that are to be listed on the Exchange, and on which the banks are to loan money, why do you hesitate to give their names?"

"Because," retorted Mr. Henry, "the relations between the banker and his client, while perhaps not privileged like those between lawyer and client, doctor and patient, are nevertheless confidential, and it is recognized by all honorable and decent business men that they should not tell the names of their customers unless compelled."

"You think you should maintain secrecy with respect to the officers of the National bank which takes a participation in a syndicate for the marketing of stock on the Exchange on which his bank may be called on to loan money?" Mr. Untermyer asked.

"I certainly do," replied the witness. "I would like to read a memorandum prepared for me by Senator Spooner regarding my declination to answer the question."

SHERIFF DESCENDS ON POLYCLINIC HOSPITAL

Sheriff Julius Harburger received a writ of attachment yesterday against the personal property of the New York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital, 341 to 351 West Fiftieth Street. The writ was signed by Samuel Rosenzweig, attorney for Nathan J. and Moses M. Packard, who hold a judgment against the hospital for $13,505.03. The Packards were assignees of Samuel Rosoff, an excavating contractor, who did part of the work for the erection of the new hospital building.

The writ of attachment called for the seizure and sale of the hospital's ambulances, apparatus, surgical instruments, and furniture. Sheriff Harburger said he was loath to execute the writ, and sent two of his Deputies, Thomas F. Winters and Nathan Metzger, to make a pro forma attachment. The Sheriff said:

"I have sixty days allowed me under the writ to sell any property which I may find to levy upon. I do not wish to disturb in any way the operations of the hospital. I should think the law would exempt surgical instruments and apparatus from seizure, but my counsel, Albert Blumenstiel, says not.

"My ideas of humanity prevent me from attempting to take any of the instruments or furniture out of the hospital. I have not tried to take even the ambulances, which are included in the writ. The hospital's ambulance service takes in the district bounded by the Hudson River, Forty-second Street, Sixth Avenue, Fifty-ninth Street, Central Park West, and Ninety-second Street. I would not think of depriving this district of this ambulance service.

Deputies on the Ambulances.

"The three motor ambulances of the hospital are worth $4,000 apiece, I am informed, almost enough to satisfy the judgment. Part of the time to-day my deputies have been going out with them, sitting on the seats with the chauffeurs, in constructive possession, while they answered calls. Another of my men has been on the spot, in the hospital building, exercising a constructive possession of the property within the building, but not interfering in any way with its use to relieve human suffering."

Henry Staton of 80 Broadway, the hospital's attorney, made a formal demand on Sheriff Harburger yesterday to remove his men. Mr. Staton said that the hospital had no property on which to levy. He declared that while the building cost $650,000, the hospital had assets of only $417,373. Mr. Staton said that the instruments and apparatus in the hospital were the property of individual physicians and that the furniture had been given to doctors individually and put by them in the hospital, without the hospital corporation ever getting title to it. He also declared that the instruments and apparatus were exempt from seizure as tools of a profession. Mr. Blumenstiel, for the Sheriff's legal department, said that exemption of professional tools might be claimed by an andividual, but not by a corporation.

The New York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital was founded in 1881 and moved into its new quarters last year. Its new twelve-story building has accommodations for 300 patients and its dispensary has 100,000 visits a year from out-patients. Some 20,000 students have been in attendance at its classes and clinics in the past thirty years. Its ambulance service has been among the most active in the city.

Dr. John A. Wyeth, Secretary of the corporation, founder of the institution, and President of the medical Faculty, said last night that the ambulances were presents to him personally, and had been loaned by him to the hospital, without ever having been turned over to the institution as its property.

What the Hospital Says.

The position of the hospital with regard to the Packard claim was outlined by one of its board last night. This was that Contractor Rosoff failed to complete his excavation, according to the specifications, and then put in a bill for $23,000, which included a number of extras. This the hospital corporation refused to pay, on the ground that it was extortionate. When Rosoff assigned his claim to the Packards and they sued, the hospital defended the suit. The hospital trustees regarded the verdict in favor of the Packards for $13,000 as excessive, and instructed their attorney to appeal. This appeal had not yet come to trial.

Attorney Rosenzweig, for the Packards, said that in case the Sheriff could discover no personal property which he could sell to satisfy the claim, he would proceed against the real property and have that sold to meet his judgment. He announced that before taking this step he would ask to have the trustees of the hospital examined in supplementary proceedings to fix the ownership of the ambulances, &c.

DOCTORS MAKE AFFIDAVITS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NASSAU, New Providence, Jan. 7.—William Rockefeller, with his wife and son, William G. Rockefeller, arrived here on Friday, Jan. 3, on the steamer Miami from Miami, Fla. Mr. Rockefeller is suffering from nervous trouble, and it is an exertion for him even to speak. Acting under his physicians' orders, he is keeping very quiet and spends most of his time in his rooms at the Hotel Colonial. He may almost be said to be traveling incognito, but it was not long before his arrival here became known.

Mr. Rockefeller thinks the climate of Nassau will suit him admirably, and he expects to give it a fair trial. He will probably remain here for several weeks. He has been taking walks in the town, and went for a trip on the harbor this afternoon to see the marine gardens.

Members of Mr. Rockefeller's family will not say anything about his intentions as to testimony desired by the Pujo Money Trust Committee. They decline to permit any one to see Mr. Rockefeller.

Doctors Tell of His Afflictions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Sworn affidavits by Dr. Samuel Waldron Lambert and Dr. Walter F. Chappell, family physicians of William Rockefeller, were filed to-day with Chairman Pujo of the Money Trust Committee, stating that Mr. Rockefeller's physical condition was such that his life would be endangered by any effort, strain, or excitement. These affidavits were sworn to yesterday in New York City before Francis N. Gilbert, a notary public, and mean that Mr. Rockefeller, who is now understood to be at Nassau, in the Bahamas, will not appear before the Pujo Committee next Monday, Jan. 13, the date on which he is required to respond to the subpoena, the service of which has been accepted by his counsel.

Coming in sworn form from such recognized specialists as Drs. Lambert and Chappell, these affidavits are accepted in Washington as meaning that the Pujo Committee will have to forego its desire to take the testimony of Mr. Rockefeller. Chairman Pujo, however, announced to-day that "the committee has concluded that after service or acceptance of service the question of the witness's physical condition is a matter to be ascertained by the committee through its own agencies and instrumentalities and its own expert representatives, if it sees fit." But it has not yet been decided to send other physicians to Nassau to examine Mr. Rockefeller, and the affidavits are generally accepted here as closing the incident.

> Walter F. Chappell, being duly sworn, deposes and says:
> I am a physician, having my office in the City of New York, at No. 7 East Fifty-fifth Street. I have been in active practice for more than thirty years.
> I make a specialty of diseases of the ear and throat. I am Professor of Clinical Laryngology in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Medical Department of Columbia University, and am surgeon of the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital of New York.
> During the past eleven years I have been in almost constant attendance upon Mr. William Rockefeller, whose city address is at No. 689 Fifth Avenue, New York.
>
> Mr. Rockefeller has been suffering from a gouty inflammation of the larynx and windpipe accompanied by swellings on the vocal cords. This has necessitated, at various times, six operations, the last one being of a more serious character. Since this operation Mr. Rockefeller has had intermittent attacks of oedema of the larynx, accompanied by some stenosis and spasms. This condition is brought on by talking, excitement, or disturbance of the stomach, and a severe attack would terminate fatally.
>
> Since the last operation Mr. Rockefeller has also been unable to speak above a whisper, and cannot express himself in that way for more than a few moments with safety. I have advised complete rest of the larynx, or, in other words, "the silent treatment."
>
> Mr. Rockefeller is in his seventy-second year, and, under my advice, he has carefully avoided all excitement or strain since the last operation. It would not only be an act of inhumanity to subject him to the excitement incident to his examination as a witness at this time, but, in my judgment, it would actually endanger his life.
> WALTER F. CHAPPELL, M. D.

Trembling of Hands and Head.

Dr. Lambert, who is Dean of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in his affidavit says he has acted as general physician for Mr. Rockefeller for about two years, having first attended him during an attack of pneumonia. He goes on:

> I have read the affidavit of Dr. Walter F. Chappell and I am familiar with the conditions of Mr. Rockefeller's throat, referred to in the said affidavit, and know that they are therein correctly described.
>
> Mr. Rockefeller has a distinctly pronounced gouty tendency, and a further condition, to which Dr. Chappell does not refer in his affidavit, is the tremor habit of shaking of the head and hands, which has existed ever since I have attended upon Mr. Rockefeller, and is the result of his advanced years and general condition.
> This shaking of the hand makes it very difficult for him to write continuously without great effort for more than a few minutes. In the present highly sensitive and critical condition of his throat, any effort or strain or excitement might produce a condition that would not only imperil Mr. Rockefeller's life but might very reasonably be expected to cause his sudden death.

Chairman Pujo made the following statement to the committee when he put these affidavits into the record:

"The affidavits will be submitted to the committee, and counsel for Mr. Rockefeller will be notified of its action. I want to say that the portion of the affidavit of Dr. Chappell dealing with the question of sociology, whether it would be an act of inhumanity to bring Mr. Rockefeller before the committee, is gratuitous and is aside from the issue presented. I will state at the outset that the committee has concluded that, after service or acceptance of service, the question of the witness' physical condition is a matter to be ascertained by the committee through its own agencies and instrumentalities and its own expert representatives if it sees fit."

YALE BARS WEDDED ATHLETE.

"Lefty" Flynn, Who Married a Chorus Girl, Cannot Return to College.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 7.—Maurice B. ("Lefty") Flynn, the Yale athletic star, who was married yesterday to Irene Leary of the Winter Garden chorus, was to-day barred from the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale, because of the notoriety connected with his wedding.

"There is no rule whereby a student marrying under usual circumstances should be prevented from returning to college," explained Director Chittenden, "but a marriage that took place under such conditions as that of Flynn will not result in continuance of membership. Flynn stood well in his studies, although he was ill last year, and for that reason did not keep up in some of his work."

Flynn is the most valuable all-around athlete at Yale. His loss will be a heavy blow to Yale's chances in football, baseball, and track athletics next season.

SUICIDE GIVES BANQUET.

Painter Invites Friends to See Him Die, and Shoots Himself.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—Marcelin Ader, a young painter of Bordeaux, who had many times threatened suicide without convincing anybody that he was in earnest, last night invited friends to a banquet, saying that it would be his last, and that they would witness his exit from the world.

Ader's friends, believing his reference to suicide was only a jest, spent a merry evening. After dinner Ader produced a revolver and said he had no cartridges. One of his friends, still thinking that he was joking, provided them. The painter then loaded the revolver, clinked glasses with his guests, and, putting the weapon to his forehead, blew out his brains.

COLOMBIA'S HOPE IN HAGUE.

Ex-President Reyes Thinks Panama Question May Be Arbitrated.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—Gen. Reyes, ex-President of Colombia, sailed from Cherbourg to-day to visit the United States and make a tour of the South American republics. In an interview he said:

"I am hopeful of securing the submission to the Hague tribunal of Colombia's differences with the United States over the manner in which the latter acquired Panama territory. We were not fairly treated in that transaction. We don't ask the United States to pay us any sum for damages, but other recognition should be given us. We believe Panama should pay a portion of our national debt."

LEGISLATORS FOR SUFFRAGE.

Committees of Both Branches Report Amendment Favorably.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—The annual woman suffrage hearing before the Legislature probably will be abandoned this year. The Senate and Assembly Judiciary Committees reported favorably to-day the Wagner-Goldberg woman suffrage constitutional amendment, and the leaders planned to make the measure a special order for Jan. 15. There was no dissenting vote in either committee. The bill is expected to pass with little opposition.

Certain qualifications for voters prescribed in the original bill were eliminated. As reported, the bill simply strikes from the constitutional qualifications for voters the word "male."

The Senate Committee also reported favorably the Wagner bill advocating ratification of the Federal Constitutional amendment for the election of United States Senators by popular vote.

THREE DIE IN YACHT WRECK.

Special to The New York Times.

TITUSVILLE, Fla., Jan. 7.—Landing at Cape Canaveral to-day after a rough trip in a small power boat, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Chesebrough of New York, accompanied by four men of their yacht Huntress, told of the explosion of their vessel Monday off Cape Canaveral, east of this city, and the loss of three of their seamen. The accident occurred at 4 o'clock Monday morning, when the Huntress was on the way from New York to Miami, where Mr. and Mrs. Chesebrough were to pass the Winter.

Immediately after the explosion, which riddled the handsome craft, causing her to sink, the small power launch was boarded and the survivors shoved off and proceeded to Canaveral.

The cook, steward and a seaman were killed in the explosion, their bodies not being recovered.

The Huntress was ninety feet long. Her owner is a member of the New York Yacht Club. The yacht cost $30,000. Mr. Chesebrough is the youngest son of Robert A. Chesebrough, the vaseline manufacturer of New York. Mrs. Chesebrough's jewelry was lost in the wreck.

PARCEL POST ON THE WING.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Harry M. Jones, the young aviator who flew in an aeroplane from Saugus to the inauguration of Gov. Foss, was sworn in as a letter carrier by Postmaster Mansfield this morning and received permission from the Post Office Department to carry mail to Boston, Providence, New London, New Haven, Bridgeport, and New York. He will confine himself to parcel post mail. His bundle for each trip will be limited to twenty-five pounds.

Jones is to start from Franklin Park to-morrow morning. He has arranged no schedule, and was in doubt to-night whether the predicted high winds would permit the trip. He said his route to New York would follow the line of railroad through Mansfield and Attleboro to Providence closely, and thence the Shore line to New York City. As a safeguard against drowning, if he falls into the water of Long Island Sound, he will be provided with non-sinkable clothing.

The avaitor will make a trip from Boston with New York as his objective, stopping in Providence and the other cities to deliver and pick up mail. He has two plans in view to follow his arrival in New York, one to continue down the coast, the other to try a New York-to-Portland flight.

POWERS FORBID RENEWAL OF WAR

The Times Officially Authorized to State That They Will Serve Notice on Turkey.

HAVE AGREED ON ACTION

To Make Direct Representations to the Porte and to the Peace Delegates in London.

80,000 SICK IN ADRIANOPLE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is officially authorized to state that the powers have agreed to take immediate joint action with a view to giving Turkey to understand that they would view a resumption of hostilities with the utmost displeasure.

The action of the powers will take the form of identical steps at Constantinople and London.

At the Turkish capital the representations will be made directly to the Porte, and in London to the Turkish peace delegates by members of the Ambassadors' conference.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 8.—As neither the Turks nor the allies show signs of abandoning their uncompromising attitude, the powers have decided to take immediate action to prevent a renewal of the war. The Ambassadors conferred with Sir Edward Grey at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon to consider the steps to be taken, but the exact nature of their proposed course of action is unknown.

According to The Daily Mail, they do not propose to mediate. Mediation involves in diplomacy the assent of both disputing parties, and the Balkan States have not asked the powers to adopt this course.

"Ever since the peace negotiations began," says The Daily Mail, "the representatives of the powers in Constantinople have striven to persuade the Ottoman Government to make peace on the terms proposed by the allies and have counseled the surrender of Adrianople. The threats of the Young Turks and the Military Party have made futile these efforts of diplomacy.

"In the opinion of the powers the moment has arrived when more direct and urgent methods are demanded. All are agreed that some pressure must be used in the hope of helping the Turkish Government to make up its mind to face the realities of defeat in the field. Kiamil Pasha may yield to pressure what he refused to persuasion. At any rate, he will be in a position to say to the people of Turkey that he surrendered Adrianople, not to their enemies, but to the powers of Europe.

"This is the only solution that seems possible at the moment. Whether it will succeed or fail depends on the unknown factor of the Government in Constantinople. The hope of peace rests on the powers. There is every reason to believe that they are united in their determination to prevent a renewal of hostilities, and that in Constantinople they will speak with one voice."

Turkish-Bulgar Conference.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 7. — Nazim Pasha, the Minister of War, and Noradunghian Effendi, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, went to-day by special train to meet the Bulgarian Commander in Chief, Gen. Savoff. They returned to Constantinople this evening.

The object of the meeting has not been divulged.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 8.—A Sofia dispatch gives reports from Adrianople to the effect that the rations in the invested town have been reduced to one-fourth. Eighty thousand persons are sick and without medical aid or the means of obtaining warmth.

On Monday Turkish and Bulgarian delegates met to discuss terms of capitulation. The Turks demanded that they be allowed to retain their arms. The Bulgarians refused to grant this.

A message from headquarters, adds the dispatch, requests that thirty civil servants be sent immediately to occupy the principal public posts at Adrianople.

Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, made the following statement in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the possibility of intervention by the powers should the peace plenipotentiaries fail to reach an agreement:

"This subject is in course of receiving the attention of the Powers, but I cannot make any public statement as to their views or decisions, except such as may be made by common consent."

The Balkan delegates were unofficially informed yesterday that the Ambassadors at Constantinople were continuing to exert pressure on the Porte in order to induce it to come to terms with the Balkan States.

That the Turkish Government had firmly decided not to make any new proposals for peace was asserted in a news agency dispatch from Constantinople yesterday, while "No surrender of Adrianople" remains the watchword of Rechad Pasha and his colleagues of the Turkish Peace Delegation. "If Adrianople should fall," said Rechad Pasha yesterday, "it would be owing to famine, and only owing to famine. The Bulgarians would not, therefore, be able to attribute the fall of the fortress to a feat of arms. As to the further sittings of the conference, I can only say that the allies themselves suspended them."

Rechad went on to say that the question of further negotiations was now in the hands of the Turkish Government.

Some difficulties are being met with at the Ambassadorial conference in London, and the question of the frontiers of Albania has been abandoned for the moment, as it has been found impossible to reconcile the desire of Austria for an extended Albania with the suggestions of Russia for narrowing the boundaries of the new State.

Discuss Question of Islands.

The Ambassadors yesterday began the discussion of the Aegean Islands question. They examined a long, detailed memorandum presented by the Greek Premier, M. Venizelos, in which he enumerated all the racial, historical, geographical, and cultural reasons in favor of the annexation of these islands to Greece. Furthermore, he pointed out, Greece had sacrificed men and money to conquer the archipelago, and the Greek colors were now flying over all the islands except those temporarily occupied by Italy.

In the memorandum Premier Venizelos expressed the belief that the principal reason why the islands should be annexed to Greece lay in the fact that by this means it would be possible to conclude with Turkey a peace that was really permanent and would not be disturbed by further Greek aspirations; that this would complete the national unity, while on the other hand, if some of the islands where the Greek element predominates remained in the hands of Turkey or were detached from Greece in some autonomous form, agitation would not end until all were united to the fatherland.

The Servians and Montenegrins also are preparing memoranda, which will be presented to the Ambassadors at the end of the week. Servia will ask to be allowed to occupy the eastern part of the Sanjak of Novi-Bazar and the whole region eastward from the River Drin to Lake Ochrida, besides Monastir, which the Servians captured after a fierce battle.

Montenegro's memorandum will ask for permission to occupy the western part of the Sanjak of Novi-Bazar, Ipek, and the districts of Jakova and Scutari, with about twenty miles more of the coast of the Adriatic to the mouth of the River Drin.

Montenegro will declare that the permanent occupation of Scutari is a question of life or death; that public opinion in Montenegro is so stirred that it will be impossible to persuade the people to renounce what they consider their just right. The memorandum will give the Ambassadors to understand that if Scutari is not awarded to Montenegro a revolution will follow, which will result in the fall of the monarchy and the union of Montenegro and Servia, to which the two countries, of the same race, speaking the same language, and with the same history, have long aspired.

Balkan Zollverein Planned.

This project is entirely independent of the proposed Balkan Federation, which has practically been agreed to in the form of a Zollverein, enabling the Balkan States to regulate their trade and tariff.

Political union of the States will require greater study. It is believed in some quarters that if federation is achieved a solution will be found for the question which has arisen over Salonika whereby Salonika would become the capital of the federation. It would thus not belong to any State, but would occupy a special position with relation to all the States.

The Balkan plenipotentiaries attended special dinners last night to celebrate Christmas. The Greeks dined at the Greek Legation and the Montenegrins with the Servians as the guests of M. Gruitch, the Servian Chargé d'Affaires. Great enthusiasm reigned, and toasts were drunk to the respective countries and armies.

The tension between Austria and Russia has lessened as a result of an exchange of explanations regarding the military measures that both powers have taken. Austria is said to have convinced Russia that her present military strength is less than that of either Russia or Germany.

Turkey succeeded yesterday in arranging a short loan in London. Secrecy regarding the terms is maintained, but it is explained that it is not a war loan, but a small sum to relieve the pressing necessities of the Government. The fact that a loan was made is taken as an indication that the peace prospects are good.

SOFIA, Jan. 7.—There is no foundation for the statement published abroad that Bulgaria and Rumania have reached an agreement by which Bulgaria cedes a strip of territory to Rumania.

M. Theodoroff, the Bulgarian Minister of Finance, has departed for St. Petersburg on financial business.

ROME, Jan. 7.—Prominence is given in the newspapers here to a statement that the members of the Triple Alliance—Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Italy—have decided to support a project for a settlement of the Balkan difficulty by which Turkey shall retain the islands of Chios, Mitylene, Cos, and Rhodes, as well as those in the immediate vicinity of the Dardanelles, in return for the cession of Adrianople to Bulgaria.

VIENNA, Jan. 7.—Diplomats here believe that the powers will not intervene in the peace negotiations while the present situation exists, but will continue to give friendly advice to both sides.

Formal mediation will be undertaken, in their opinion, only if both parties request it or the negotiations break down.

aground at all. I am free now (it was then 6 P. M.) and I am going away from here as soon as the weather clears."

At 6:35 o'clock the Adriatic was safely back into navigable water, and a few minutes later she got under way and steamed to a safe and sane anchorage to the west of Bedlow's Island. At 9:30 o'clock she got under way again for the Mediterranean.

Among the passengers who enjoyed the stay in the Red Hook mud, in addition to Mr. Morgan and ex-Senator Aldrich, were Mrs. Aldrich and the Misses Aldrich, the Count and Countess Jean de la Greze, Mrs. Michael Cudahy, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Doubleday, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Phipps, Jr.

As for the Hamilton, like the Adriatic she got away on schedule time, and the last those on shore heard of her was the scream of her siren as she slowly felt her way through the fog. An hour later the vessel was off Staten Island, and everything was going fine. Fort Hamilton was then just thirty-two minutes away. Fort Hamilton was the very last thing that Capt. Nelson wished to see in the way of scenery, and great was his surprise when at 4:32 o'clock he spied those three little army vessels dead ahead.

On Board the Hamilton.

"I saw the three boats ahead," said Capt. Nelson last night, "and backed full speed astern and in swinging the Hamilton's port bow crashed into the stone pier. The damage done is about two feet above the water line. As soon as the fog lifted the Hamilton was able to return to her pier under her own steam and without assistance."

The gash in the Hamilton's bow looked to be about five feet long and two feet wide. It was not thought that the ship was taking any water. The passengers who were on board will be sent to Norfolk on another of the Old Dominion liners to-day. Among the passengers were: A. Lavalett, Mrs. W. Bussey, D. O'Brien, G. McLain, Frank Sinlivitz, J. Wofford, W. H. Terrill, B. R. Beedy, Mrs. C. Parks, S. O. Harmon, William Donahue, Mrs. Ernest Pinckney, F. J. Heath, Thomas Spencer, Otto Zuber, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Plotkin, J. Prendergast and J. Perkinson, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. G. Verbeck of Whitestone, L. I.; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Feltman of Suffolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayden of Catskill, and C. S. Sullivan of Chicago.

As for incoming ships, only one was reported passing in Sandy Hook all day yesterday, and that was the Old Dominion liner Madison from Norfolk, a sister ship of the Hamilton. Among those reported as anchored outside Sandy Hook and waiting for clear weather before venturing in were the Cunarder Carmania from Liverpool, the Atlantic Transport liner Minnewaska from London, the Anchor liner California from Glasgow, the Hamburg-American liner Hamburg, which got in before daylight yesterday but had to anchor off Quarantine; the Ward liner Saratoga from Havana, and the United Fruit Company's ship the Sixaola.

MORE OPENED PAPERS EXPOSE DIX PARDONS

DIX ANGERED BY CRITICISM

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—More light was shed on the pardon policy pursued by Gov. Dix when the sealed papers were opened to-day in the case of Louis J. Abrams, a self-confessed mock auctioneer, who after pleading guilty and being sentenced to thirty days in prison last December, worked upon the sympathies of the Chief Executive and obtained a pardon after serving about a week of his sentence.

A cursory examination of the papers in the Abrams case would indicate that while Mr. Dix was Governor it would be possible for a criminal to negotiate for a pardon even before sentence had been pronounced.

That is what Abrams did. His counsel, Gustavus A. Rogers, former Assistant Corporation Counsel, sent a man named Beardmore to Albany to enlist the sympathy of Gov. Dix before Abrams decided to plead guilty to the offense of which he was accused. Gov. Dix was away at the time, but his Military Secretary, Commander Eckford Craven de Kay, was on the job in the Executive Chamber. A letter subsequently written to Mr. Rogers by Commander de Kay refers to "our side of the matter."

Commander De Kay said this afternoon that this communication had no connection whatever with the Abrams pardon, but had to do with a proposed appointment which Mr. De Kay did not take the trouble to specify in his talk with the newspaper men. The visit of Mr. Beardmore to Commander De Kay occurred on Nov. 22, last year—a week before Abrams pleaded guilty.

In a statement made public after the pardon had been issued, Gov. Dix asserted that mercy had been asked for Abrams "in strong letters of indorsement from many prominent firms, among which were the International Silver Company and A. A. Vantine & Co." From the papers it appears that these two firms, but no others actually had written the Governor. The firms said merely that Abrams had paid his bills.

There was absolutely nothing else in the letters to show that he was a proper object of mercy. There were some other letters testifying to the good character of the mock auctioneer. These were all couched in about the same language, unmistakably indicating that they had been framed by the attorneys who were retained to get him out.

Commander De Kay became very cross after Abrams had been pardoned, and the newspapers began to criticise the Governor for having fallen such an easy victim to the representations made on behalf of the mock auctioneer. The papers revealed to-day showed that in a letter to the lawyer, Rogers, De Kay sharply criticised THE NEW YORK TIMES, The New York World, and their publishers for daring to find fault with one of the worst abuses of the pardoning power on record. This is the letter.

Executive Offices,
Albany, N. Y., Dec. 16, 1912.

Gustavus Rogers, Esq., 160 Broadway, New York City:

My dear Mr. Rogers—I have your letter dated Dec 14, inclosing a letter to Gov. Dix, which I shall place in the Abrams record, after calling it to the Governor's attention. It is indeed hard to have such disagreeable results come from efforts to do justice. I inclose herewith editorial from The (Albany) Knickerbocker Press, showing that the matter is still being harped upon.

McEntee, the Albany representative of The New York Sun, filed our statement in its entirety with his paper, so that they really gave the most complete account last Friday. THE TIMES gave about half of it, but that is as much as could be expected from that paper.

To my mind the attitude of THE NEW YORK TIMES, owned by Ochs, whose name speaks for itself, is absolutely inexplicable. Likewise the virulent attacks in The New York World, owned and edited by the Pulitzers. Aside from all the consideration that Gov. Dix, during his incumbency, has given to those in whom these people profess to be interested, I should think that "Morty" Schiff and his family would be ashamed to look the Governor in the face.

Very truly yours,
ECKFORD CRAVEN DE KAY,
Military Secretary to the Governor.

[Mr. Ochs of THE TIMES has never made, directly or indirectly, any suggestion or any public or private matter to Gov. Dix, or to any one connected with him, except impersonally through the columns of THE TIMES.]

It was not only the newspapers which criticised Gov. Dix for commuting the sentence of the mock auctioneer. Jeremiah T. Mahoney and Harry T. Rice, Commissioners of Accounts in New York City, had been conducting a crusade for the purpose of stamping out the criminal practices of auctioneers of the type represented by Abrams. The day after the sentence of the latter had been commuted, in a fashion which virtually amounted to a full pardon, they joined in a communication to Gov. Dix, taking him to task severely for letting Abrams out and hampering them in their work. In the letter they fully exposed the career of the mock auctioneer.

Among the papers in the Abrams file is a letter from Gov. Dix to Mayor Gaynor, in which the Governor took exception to what the two Commissioners had done. Mr. Dix wanted the two Commissioners "effectively disciplined" for venturing to protest against his use of the pardoning power. Here is the letter:

Executive Offices,
Albany, N. Y., Dec. 12, 1912.

The Hon. William J. Gaynor, New York:

My Dear Mayor Gaynor: I desire to take vigorous exception to the action of one Jeremiah T. Mahoney and Harry T. Rice, Commissioners of Accounts of the City of New York, in addressing to me a letter of criticism and complaint in regard to my action in granting commutation of sentence to one Louis J. Abrams on Dec. 10. I do not feel that the members of a subordinate city department are in any way called upon to communicate any such correspondence to the Governor of the State, and particularly in this instance is their action out of place, inasmuch as Mr. Mahoney was advised on Thursday, the 5th, that application for executive clemency was to be made, and he did not see fit to send any communication to this office asking to be heard.

I inclose herewith copy of the statement which I am this day giving to the press, and trust that you will see fit to effectively discipline your Commissioners of Accounts for what I consider their unwarranted action.

Very truly yours,
JOHN A. DIX, Governor.

In his application for mercy Abrams did not make much show of repentance. He averred his good character, in proof of which he wrote that he had never been convicted of a crime before. His plea of guilty on this occasion he assured the Governor was due to an error of judgment on his part. He had not expected to get the full penalty. Another man had pleaded guilty to the same offense and had been let off with a fine, so Abrams jumped at the chance to get off lightly, and did not even stop to consult his lawyer. He lamented this afterward, for in his application he declared: "I believe that I had a technical defense, if not a real one."

Abrams pleaded with the Governor not on moral grounds, but on the ground that to keep him in prison for thirty days would mean ruin. "It would be the destruction of every hope and ambition on which I based the future happiness of my wife and children," wrote the convicted auctioneer, adding that the sentence would automatically revoke his license.

Mrs. Abrams supplemented the plea by asserting that she did not know how she would be able to pay rent on their store, at 30 East Twenty-third Street, with her husband in jail, and intimating that the landlord had already threatened to dispossess them. A business man who joined in the plea for mercy said the imprisonment of the auctioneer had come at the height of the best selling season and it would be a shame not to let him out.

The offense to which Abrams pleaded guilty consisted not only in selling goods at a fake auction, but in hiring a man at $2 a day to be present and bid up the prices. He pleaded guilty on Nov. 29 last year, and was sentenced by Justice Steinert of Special Sessions on Dec. 4 to thirty days' imprisonment and a fine of $100. On Dec. 10, after Abrams had served one week in jail, Gov. Dix commuted the sentence to seven days and a fine.

Commander de Kay said this evening that his letter was a confidential matter, and should not have been filed with the papers in the Pardon Clerk's office. He added that the purpose of it was to have Rogers take steps to stop the criticism against the Governor. Commander de Kay said that Gov. Sulzer had made "a serious mistake" in exposing to the public view the pardon papers, which had always been considered private. He expressed the belief that serious consequences would follow, aside from the effect the Governor's action might have on a sensational public.

vice of counsel that the committee is without jurisdiction to require the information called for upon the grounds:

First—That the subject matter is one in respect to which the Congress is without power to legislate;

Second—That the question is an unlawful intrusion into the private affairs of a citizen under the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution;

Third—Generally, that the committee is not lawfully entitled to compel the information called for.

Chairman Pujo notified the witness that while the committee appreciated the fact that he had testified without evasion as to such questions as had been answered, the committee "would regret that it would have to take the action it has decided to take" and submit his name to the Banking and Currency full committee for determination in turn whether the House should be asked to certify it to the District Attorney for indictment.

Mr. Henry then testified that before the underwriters had agreed to take stock in the syndicate the stock had already been sold at a profit of 9.8 per cent., or $500,000; that the underwriters put up no money, and never had possession of the stock. The underwriters' profits, he admitted, were practically a present in this particular transaction.

He was asked how Lewisohn Brothers made a market for the stock.

"By giving buying orders on a scale down and selling orders on a scale up," he answered.

"That was done to give appearance of activity in the stock?"

Control of Insurance Concerns.

John C. McCall, Second Vice President of the New York Life Insurance Company, said it was a mutual concern. In 1908 there were 900,000 policyholders. Of these sixty-two voted at the annual meeting. He did not know whether these were agents of the company. In 1909 thirty-two policyholders voted, and in 1911 forty-one voted. He had no knowledge of what banking houses his company bought securities from, and referred the committee to the Finance Committee for that information.

Charles A. Peabody, President of the Mutual, said that in 1908 there were about 600,000 policyholders in the Mutual and 93 voted at the annual election. In 1909 130 votes were cast. In 1911 there were between 600,000 and 700,000 stockholders and 13,527 votes were cast.

"Was there a contest at that election?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"Yes," said Mr. Peabody; "ballots were sent out by the company."

Mr. Peabody was unable to say how many agents the company had or what influence they exercised in an election.

"Doesn't that indicate to your mind that the administration of a mutual insurance company is largely a self-perpetuating institution?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"No. Not necessarily."

"Do you know of any instance when the administration of a mutual company, with the agency force behind it, has been dislodged at an election?"

Mr. Peabody knew of no such instance.

Mr. Untermyer elicited that in 1905 the insurance companies were commanded within five years to dispose of their holdings of certain stocks, and that time has since been extended five years.

"Seventeen thousand two hundred and ninety-four shares," Mr. Peabody answered.

"How much did you own in 1906?"

"Much more, twice that amount."

Mr. Peabody further said that in 1911 the company sold 17,294 shares at $200 a share to James Stillman. At the same time the Equitable Assurance Society disposed of half of its holdings in the Bank of Commerce, amounting to 25,000 shares, to George F. Baker.

Mr. Peabody said that the Mutual had annually available for investment about $25,000,000 in new business and about $15,000,000 in the turning over of old investments.

Judge W. A. Day, President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, explained that in 1906 an amendment to the company's charter provided for the election of 28 Directors out of 52 by the policy holders. He said that out of 500,000 policy holders usually between 25 and 50 voted. A most extraordinary effort to get out a vote procured only 22,000 ballots.

The witness further said his company holds about 25,000 shares of stock in the Bank of Commerce. In 1911, he said, the same amount was sold by the company to George Baker. About $5,000,000 was paid for the stock.

Mr. Untermyer went over the list of stocks held by the Equitable, and the efforts made to dispose of them. He discussed the sale of stock in the Mercantile Trust Company to Benjamin F. Strong of the Bankers' Trust Company for $9,000,000. Mr. Day said he did not know that Mr. Strong was acting for the Bankers' Trust, and that he knew nothing of the voting trusts under which the Bankers' Trust Company and the Guaranty Trust Company were operated.

Frederick H. Ecker, Treasurer of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, said it had sold since 1906 about 2,500 or 3,000 shares of stock and has about 40,000 shares, valued at about $7,000,000 or $8,000,000.

George B. Woodward, Third Vice President of the Metropolitan Company, described the election methods of the Metropolitan. He said the company had between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 individual stockholders. In 1909, 8,677 votes were cast by them. In 1910, 28,627 voted, and in 1911, 83,986. Mr. Woodward said that he did not know how much of this vote was brought out by the agency force of the company.

Deposits of the Morgan Banks.

The statement of the deposits furnished to the committee by Mr. Morgan show that on Jan. 1, 1912, J. P. Morgan & Co. had $103,177,603.49 and their Philadelphia house of Drexel & Co., $43,532,889.66; that on Nov. 1, 1912, J. P. Morgan & Co. had $118,345,500 in deposits and Drexel & Co. $49,146,319.65, making upward of $162,000,000 of deposit accounts in the two houses, an increase of about $16,000,000 in eleven months.

Mr. Morgan also furnished a statement showing that J. P. Morgan & Co. have marketed for inter-State corporations in eleven years—1902 to 1912—securities aggregating $1,914,226,000 in American money, plus 185,000,000 francs in France, besides 2,631,000 pounds sterling in England.

By years the marketing of these securities by Morgan & Co., in the United States has been: 1902, $205,628,000; 1903, $126,618,000; 1904, $71,227,000; 1905, $163,254,000; 1906, $205,475,000; 1907, $136,681,000; 1908, $200,415,000; 1909, $191,629,000; 1910, $174,921,000; 1911, $207,808,000; 1912, $230,570,000. This list does not include the marketing of United States Steel Corporation securities.

Another statement just furnished by Mr. Morgan gives the names of all inter-State corporations having deposits with J. P. Morgan & Co. upon whose boards the firm is represented, including all other inter-State corporatons upon whose boards the New York members of J. P. Morgan & Co. are represented. In this list are thirty-one inter-State corporations. Mr. Morgan also furnished to the committee copies of the various fiscal agency agreements in which his firm is interested.

VICTIMS OF THIEVES THRONG 'FENCE' SHOP

All day yesterday guests and representatives of various hotels throughout the city, representatives from department stores, and uptown residents thronged to the little three-yard-wide pawnbroker's sale shop of Jim Pritchard, at 253 West Forty-second Street, whose proprietor had been locked up as a "fence" for stolen property upon confession of several captured thieves on the night before. From morning to night detectives were drawing forth from secret corners big bits and small bits or whole and mangled jewelery and fine wares of an estimated value of $250,000. The police estimated the value of loot from recent burglaries found in the place as close to $100,000, although the identification of such articles by their owners yesterday went on slowly, owing to the many unset stones and much broken and melted gold and silver into which much of the missing property had been converted.

Jim Pritchard has a son, James Pritchard, Jr., who is a policeman, having formerly been of Lieut. Charles Becker's Strong-Arm Squad. He has since been transferred as a patrolman to the Fulton Street Station in Brooklyn. Policeman Pritchard appeared at his father's store yesterday looking much worried. He insisted that he had never suspected that his father had carried on anything except an honest business there, and that he could not understand the developments of the last day or two.

It was understood that young Pritchard had been sent to the Forty-second Street store yesterday by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty with express orders to help the detectives there clear up his father's affairs.

It was not the police, but a private detective agency, it was learned yesterday that found the evidence leading to the arrest of Percy Wycknoff and Harry Willis, the bellboy and elevator man, formerly employed at the Hotel St. Andrews, whose confession of the robbery of $10,000 worth of jewelry from Miss Frances Barnes and other thefts led to the arrest of Pritchard as the "fence" through whom they had disposed of their loot.

Shortly after the robbery of the Barnes jewelry and the failure of the regular police to recover it, S. L. Root, manager of the hotel, discharged one of his bellboys, who had been caught drunk, and employed Christopher Sparks, of the Roach Detective Agency, in his place. Sparks presently discovered that Wyckhoff, his comrade on the bench, was a fellow of questionable character, and by representing himself as an "ex-man," an ex-convict, and telling about various "jobs" he himself had "pulled," succeeded in worming himself into Wyckhoff's confidence, as well as that of Willis, his side partner of the elevator. Wyckhoff, he says, confided to him that he and Willis had carried out not only the stolen Barnes jewelry, but also several hundred dollars worth of jewelry from the rooms of Mr. and Mrs. James Gill, another hotel patron, and also had robbed the apartments of Mrs. C. A. Prince.

The pair finally confided to him, he says, that one of the guests, a wealthy Spanish woman named Mrs. Saul, wore some $20,000 of jewelry whenever she went to the opera. These jewels she kept in a compartment of the hotel safe. Mrs. Saul had lost her key to the safe and Wyckhoff and Willis had found it. Another bellboy named Perry was taken into their confidence, and one night, while the night clerk was away at dinner, Wyckhoff and Willis opened Mrs. Saul's compartment in the hotel safe. They found her jewel casket, but it was empty. Mrs. Saul's worry had been how to get her jewelry into the safe, not out of it. Thereupon the bellboy returned the key to her, telling her he had found it at the bottom of the elevator shaft. He received a reward of 25 cents for his honesty.

All this was known when the thieves left the employ of the hotel, and Wyckhoff was shadowed all the time that he was at work at the Hotel Rector, the police then marking time to get evidence and make recoveries with the arrests.

After Wyckhoff had told Sparks of other thefts he had carried out at the Hotel Lorraine and other hotels, Sparks, in an effort to discover the "fences" through which the thieves disposed of their goods, showed him a ring, which he pretended to have stolen and which he wished to dispose of. It was then, he says, that Wyckhoff told him he sold his loot to Pritchard and to one other pawnbrokers' sales shop in Sixth Avenue, not far from Forty-second Street. The "fences," Wyckhoff complained, were very greedy, allowing the thieves only about one-fifth value.

In the West Side Court yesterday Wyckoff and Willis were paroled by Magistrate Krotel in custody of Deputy Commissioner Dougherty. It was stated that they had agreed to tell him all about their various thefts and that several other "fences" mentioned by them were under police surveillance.

Pritchard, arraigned on a charge of receiving stolen property, was held in $3,000 bail for trial to-morrow morning, when Willis and Wyckoff will testify against him. An additional bail of $1,000 was imposed on a charge of violating the Sulivan law, because two loaded revolvers were found in the rear of the shop.

In the loot found in the shop, the detectives said yesterday, were identified three rings stolen from Miss Barnes at the St. Andrew and sold to Pritchard for $75, $110, and $175. Various department stores sent representatives who identified other articles in Pritchard's store, indicating, according to the police, that a good part of Pritchard's business had been done with professional shoplifters. The detectives said they had located the proceeds of seven or eight other thefts from the Hotel St. Andrew at the shop. It will be several days before the inventory is completed.

George Carr, alias Vogel, who was arrested on a charge of burglary when, by pure ill-luck he chanced into Pritchard's store while the detectives were arresting the proprietor, and through whom Kitty Carr, his wife, and his friend, William Maddox, were arrested at Carr's home, were also in court yesterday. The men were charged with burglary and the woman with having received stolen goods, in connection with the theft of $2,000 worth of jewelry and clothing from the home of Dr. Joseph W. Abrahamson, 126 West Eighty-eighth Street, on Nov. 27. They, too, were held for trial on Thursday.

Later in the day Maddox obtained his release on $3,000 cash bail, furnished by a brother. He was immediately rearrested on a charge of burglary at the home of Michael H. Cardoza, Jr., of 142 West Seventy-fourth Street.

Carr and Maddox, Deputy Commissioner Dougherty says, have long been known as "rope burglars," their specialty being to let themselves down by rope ladders from the roofs of apartment houses to rear windows of the apartments they wanted to rob.

Miss B. Traub of 155 West Eighty-sixth Street yesterday identified as hers a diamond ring and a silver slipper buckle found at the home of Carr when his wife was arrested. She said $4,000 worth of goods had been stolen from her house on Sept. 7.

Other callers yesterday at the Pritchard store were a Miss Carduffe, who said she lived at 138th Street and Lenox Avenue and who was looking for some of $4,000 of property stolen, and a representative of the Varga Jewelry Company of 324 Fifth Avenue, which had been robbed of a large quantity of jewelry early in December by thieves who let themselves down through a hole cut in the ceiling.

At the store the detectives found several letters from prisoners at Sing Sing, including one addressed to "Vogel," in care of Pritchard. Pritchard denied that he knew Carr or Vogel.

GAYNOR ASSAILS CRITICS.

People Call Six Clergymen Blatherskites, He Says, Though He Wouldn't.

In a speech before the Lutheran Ministerial Conference at St. Matthew's Church, Broome and Elizabeth Streets, yesterday Mayor Gaynor vigorously defended his administration so far as it related to the Police Department, the vice problem, and the Sunday liquor traffic. He bitterly attacked six clergymen, three in Manhattan, and three in Brooklyn, who, he said, did nothing to help in the enforcement of laws. Some people, he said, called these clergymen blatherskites, but he said he did not wish to say that. The police force, he said, was never so free from graft as it was to-day.

Referring to these clergymen, the Mayor said:

"Some talk at random through lack of mental balance, and to those we have to be charitable. Some again are naturally of an overwrought and to some extent vicious nature. We have to be charitable to those, too."

"If these ministers," he said, "would convince their congregations not to drink on Sunday they would do that much, wouldn't they? I doubt if Rabbi Wise has succeeded in that in his own church, let alone saying that I ought to succeed in the city. And that clergyman over in Brooklyn the other day who said that Brooklyn was the vestibule of hell, I think, because he thought there was some drinking over there. Why, Brooklyn is noted all over the world as having less crime than any other city of equal population in the world.

The attitude of certain clergymen toward the enforcement of the Sunday liquor law, said the Mayor, was like their attitude toward censorship, and he went on:

"It is like their wanting to censor the pictures that the poor people look at. No effort to censor those that the others look at it. Not a thing. They can go up to the galleries here and look at nude pictures and nasty pictures, and see nasty plays in the high-priced places where there is $5 to pay to get in, or something like that. No, these people never mention that, but they do think that you and I and the great body of people need them put over us to censor and watch us, but I think we have a different view, probably. It is a good thing to prevent bad pictures from being shown, but the law is ample for that without submitting them in advance to Dr. Parkhurst or Rabbi Wise or this Brooklyn clergyman, for them to say whether we look at them or not.

"There are people who would not allow the Virgin and Child to be exhibited. They hate the sight of it. There are other people who would not allow the picture of Luther nailing his theses to the Cathedral door to be exhibited. That is what censorship means. When you get into the realm of censorship you do not knew where you are. You have got one man to say what you may look at and what you may not look at. He might say that Luther was a disorderly fellow, and was teaching people to be disorderly, and it was a bad thing to encourage and he would not allow it. And he might exclude the other picture I mentioned because he did not like the idea at all, that he didn't think a virgin ever had a child, or something of that kind, and there you are."

Referring to the Sunday question, the Mayor continued:

"We have a right to keep Sunday or Saturday, or change it to Tuesday, if we want to, so long as we have it once in seven days. So long as we remember the words of Jesus, that man was not made for the Sabbath, but the Sabbath for man. Now, there are other things that I might mention in the same way. These people that I speak of, these six clergymen, whom some people call blatherskites, but I don't wish to say that. You all know what a blatherskite is, I suppose. They say that this city is the most vicious and wicked city on the earth, they have such a love of traducing this city. Well, I have crossed the ocean myself, I think, twenty-six times, beginning when I was a young fellow, and traveled very much in Europe, and I think had my eyes open, and I am bound to say that for decency and outward order and absence of anything to offend you here in the way of women or anything else this city excels any that I have ever seen, either here or in Europe."

Taking up the question of the police, the Mayor said:

"In the past it has not always been easy to get an honest Commissioner of Police, let alone 10,000 honest policemen who are not susceptible to temptation and graft. I undertake to say that the police force was never so free from graft as it is to-day in the City of New York. They have now got a little investigation here looking up things four, five, and ten years old, and now and then some fact that some individual policeman took graft; and last year a remarkable thing occurred here. A Lieutenant of Police was found taking graft. He was a Lieutenant of Police over a particular squad of police that had to do with these things, and under the command of the Commissioner himself, and no one else. And yet one of these men failed with all the oversight we had over him." Referring again to Lieut. Becker the Mayor said:

"It was thought at first that he was in with others. I knew that he was not in with the Inspectors or Captains because they could not give him any orders at all. He stood alone, and apparently was one of the greatest criminals of the age, and yet was rated as a good policeman with a splendid record; that is, his record showed that whenever he was sent to do a thing he did it. And yet that was the result. But I did not fall down on that. I simply stood up and the next day began gathering things up and put a man in his place to go right straight ahead on that business. And we are going straight ahead in the city now.

BECKER IS ACCUSED AT GRAFT INQUIRY

Witnesses Tell of His Attempt to "Frame-Up" a Man Who Wanted His Money Back.

COURT SPOILED THE PLOT

From the mouths of several colored witnesses and the affidavit of a colored convict the Curran Investigating Committee learned yesterday of another "frame-up" by Lieut. Becker and his famous raiding squad. The story began last Spring, when F. B. McKinney, a real estate agent; Washington Rogers, a barber, and H. C. Demo, a chauffeur, all colored and all hailing from Waterbury, Conn., came to this city to sell an automobile. They took quarters in a house in West 135th Street, and were just comfortably settled when McKinney and Demo heard that Rogers had been arrested in a raid on the gambling house of "Bully" Hawes at 48 West 135th Street. Their anxiety was greatly increased when they learned that a pair of brass knuckles had been found in Rogers's pockets.

Came to them then another colored man, Benjamin W. Smith, who said he was a runner for Lawyer John C. Weston, and that if Weston was retained Rogers would go free without any trouble. According to the testimony of McKinney and Demo, Weston told McKinney that it would cost $250 to free Rogers, $50 for the retainer and $200 for Lieut. Becker and his squad. The money was paid, McKinney said yesterday, and Weston set about the task of freeing Rogers. The case dragged in the police court and Weston did not make any progress in getting bail for Rogers. Then, McKinney said, he talked with some members of a lodge of Masons to which both he and Rogers belonged, and it was resolved to get another lawyer.

A negro lawyer named Charles Sneed became interested, and finally Harold Spielberg was retained to take care of the case against Rogers when it came up in court. The job of getting back the $200 from Weston was turned over to McKinney, who said that he asked Weston for the money and the latter gave him $125 in cash and a check for $75. Weston said he would cash the check if McKinney would meet him in the Criminal Court Building between 9 and 10 o'clock the next morning.

Said Money Was for Becker.

McKinney was not entirely easy in his mind. He had seen Smith, the reputed runner for Weston, and Officer Carmack, a member of Becker's raiding squad, talking together. What these talks meant seemed to be explained when Louis A. Lavelle, a colored lawyer of 127 West 135th Street, told the committee that he was not interested in the case, but that Smith had told him:

"It is going to cost $450 to turn out the 'Bully' Hawes gang and the brass-knuckles case. The money is for Becker and the other policemen."

Lavelle also said that Carmack asked him one day where Smith lived, and that then Carmack said that Weston and Smith had "promised Lieut. Becker and us" $150 to turn the man out with the brass knuckles. Lavelle also said that Carmack had told him that the case would come up before the Grand Jury in a few days, but that Smith and Weston had not paid the money. Then, Lavelle said, Carmack asked him if he thought Smith and Weston could be trusted to pay the money after Rogers was freed. Lavelle also said:

"Carmack told me he was going to make Weston come across before there would be anything doing before the Grand Jury."

Fox Succeeded Wren as Collector.

This statement was next read from the affidavit:

"Hawes paid $150 a month for protection. Wren was transferred up to the Bronx, and Eugene Fox took his place. Fox was there about a year, and doing the collecting all over the district. Officer Lafferty succeeded Fox as collector. The Inspector got two stool pigeons in 'Bully' Hawes's place, and made two arrests."

The Eugene Fox referred to is the policeman accused by George A. Sipp of extorting $100 a month protection money from him.

Smith's affidavit went on to recite that Hawes gave Weston $100 to have the men arrested in his place discharged. Of the four prisoners, three were discharged, but one of the stool pigeons was held for perjury. Smith declared that before the stool pigeons gave their testimony Fox met them in the hallway and told them, in Smith's presence, not to identify the prisoners. Only one of the stool pigeons followed this advice, and he was the one committed for perjury.

"One of the prisoners arrested was charged with carrying brass knuckles. Officer Carmack had charge of this arrest. Officer White spoke to me and I told him we had charge of the case and asked if there was any chance to do business. Carmack came in and told me Lieut. Becker wanted $200 to turn the knuckle case out. I told him we were getting $200 and that we would split even. When the case came up before the Magistrate, Carmack swore he searched the prisoner and found nothing on him, but that he afterward found the knuckles in his hip pocket. The case was held for the General Sessions."

Becker, Warned, Fixed "Frame-up."

Smith's affidavit then went on to tell about the search Carmack had made for him the night before the case was to come up before the Grand Jury. When they met, he said, Carmack showed him a subpoena and said that it was arranged that Carmack was to tell the jury that the knuckles were in the hip pocket of Rogers and White was to swear they were in the overcoat pocket. Then Smith said he saw Weston and the latter told him about McKinney demanding back the $200. This is a part of the affidavit.

"Weston told me to run to Headquarters and tell Becker all about it and to tell him that the defendant was going to frame his men up and they should not do business with him, but they should turn the trick on him and lock him up when he offers money."

McKinney, in his testimony, said that when he got to the Criminal Court Building he saw Officer Carmack there, and that Carmack nodded to him to come over. A colored lawyer named Charles Sneed was there and noticed what was going on. McKinney walked over to Carmack, he said, and asked him to tell the truth about Rogers. McKinney said that he told Carmack:

"All I want you to do is to tell the truth about Rogers. You know very well that he had no brass knuckles. If you tell the truth I will give you $100 now and $100 after the acquittal."

McKinney said that Carmack agreed, and held out his hand for the money, which McKinney gave him. He said that Carmack held it exposed in his hand, and that Lieut. Becker and Officer White pounced upon him and arrested him on the charge of attempting to bribe an officer. At this point Smith's affidavit supplies the links to show how the arrest of McKinney was arranged:

"When I got to Headquarters and told Carmack [about McKinney demanding his money back from Weston] he telephoned Becker's house, and Mrs. Becker answered, and said that he had just left with a colored man by the name of Sneed. I was standing near the 'phone, and could hear what was said. Carmack turned to me, and said there were too many hands in the case. Then I went to the Criminal Court Building, and told Weston I had delivered his message. Then McKinney came up and offered Weston the check, and asked Weston for the cash. Weston refused to give it to anybody but the prisoner, Rogers. We went down to the basement, and Weston gave the money to Rogers, who gave it to McKinney. Then McKinney went over to the telephone booth, and placed the money in Carmack's hands. Then they arrested McKinney."

McKinney was locked up and a few days later he was arraigned in the Court of Special Sessions, where he told his story and was immediately discharged. Rogers also was discharged.

NO INDICTMENT AGAINST SIPP.

Grand Jury Now Investigating Police Who Got Accusing Affidavits.

The affidavits obtained by the police from two women against George A. Sipp were presented to the regular Grand Jury yesterday. No indictment was returned and it was said in the District Attorney's office that in all probability the case would be thrown out. If it is, the manner in which the affidavits were procured from the women by the police will be closely investigated, with the result that indictments may be found against Detectives Grossman and Scallen and Lieut. O'Connor of the Central Squad.

The two women, Martha Miller and Georgiana Risinger, and Detective Grossman testified before the Grand Jury. Their statements were conflicting and contradictory. Mrs. Miller, who is in the Magdalen Home, said she had made a statement to Grossman and that two weeks later he and Scallen and Lieut O'Connor called with an affidavit which she signed without reading. Mr. Whitman said last night that the corroborative affidavit made by Mrs. Risinger was no good, and that unless the police have some better evidence than so far produced the case against Sipp would probably fail.

Sipp is still in jail at Atlantic City. Justice Jagmetty fixed bail at $6,000 yesterday, but Sipp had been unable to procure it up to a late hour. He cannot be extradited unless he is indicted.

WILSON OPENS DOOR TO FIGHT EDWARDS

Sees Legislators All Day in Battle to Keep Banker Out of Treasurership.

HOKE SMITH TO TALK TO-DAY

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Gov. Wilson spent to-day in conferences with the Democratic members of the coming Legislature concerning the election of a State Treasurer next month to succeed Daniel S. Voorhees. The candidates are Edward E. Grosscup, who is backed by the Governer, and State Controller Edward I. Edwards, who is backed by the Jim Smith machine.

Edwards called on the Governor some time ago to find out if it was true he was against him, and was not only assured that it was true, but informed why it was.

The reason is twofold: First, because the Smith crowd are back of him, and second, because the Governor does not believe in appointing a banker to any position in which he will have the say as to what banks shall receive $10,000,000 in State government deposits. Edwards is a banker.

Edwards on receiving this candid statement from the Governor defied him, and told him there was going to be a fight. He also told the Governor that he, Edwards, would win it. To-day he did not seem so confident. He says that patronage is being used against him. In fact, he told the Governor so, but Mr. Wilson denied it.

To-day the Governor talked to the Democratic legislators to such good purpose that Grosscup now claims 47 out of the 63 votes. There was nothing secretive about Gov. Wilson's way of doing all this. The reception room in the State House was crowded with Senators and Assemblymen all day. They waited their turn, and as fast as the Governor got through with one, another would go in and sit down beside Mr. Wilson. The Governor left the door open, and the waiting legislators had a full view of Mr. Wilson talking to whichever one had his ear at the moment and telling why he hoped that person would not vote for Edwards.

The latter, sitting in his office in the same building, a few rods away, was perfectly well aware not only of what was going on, but of which particular Assemblyman was being captured at any given moment. He got some comfort from sturdy Edwards men, who came in to tell him how they had resisted the Governor's arguments, but the reports these stalwarts brought him about the attitude of their colleagues were not encouraging.

While Gov. Wilson was seeing legislators regarding the Grosscup-Edwards fight, a move was on foot to stir up sentiment for Senator James F. Fielder of Hudson County for the Gubernatorial nomination. It is said the Governor favors Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, but he has not as yet made an open declaration.

Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia will confer with Gov. Wilson here to-morrow. Senator Smith was a member of Grover Cleveland's Cabinet. Though Senator Smith's name has been among those mentioned for a Cabinet portfolio, it is believed he wishes to remain in the Senate.

Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma will accompany Senator Smith to-morrow. The Oklahoma Senator has been conspicuous in the movement to reorganize Senate committees Delegations of men and women representing leading labor organizations made a formal appeal to Gov. Wilson today for the reappointment of Lewis T. Bryant, a Republican, as Commissioner of Labor in this State. One of the spokesmen remarked that "both sides," meaning Democrats and Republicans, favored Mr. Bryant's reappointment.

"I am sorry that there should be any sides in a matter of this kind," said the Governor, "and, though I do not usually say in advance what I am going to do in appointments, I want to take this opportunity of adding my testimonial to Mr. Bryan't excellent service."

Norris Indorsed for Cabinet.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 7.—The Legislature, in joint session to-day, unanimously adopted a resolution indorsing former Gov. Edwin L. Norris as Secretary of the Interior in the Cabinet of President-elect Wilson.

BANKERS DISAGREE ON CURRENCY PLANS

BUT ALL ARGUE FOR REFORM

Chairman Warns Them That Democrats of the Committee Are Against the Aldrich Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—That something is radically wrong with the American monetary system was agreed to today by all witnesses before the Glass committee, which began a series of hearings with the purpose of devising a new currency scheme to be recommended to the House. All the witnesses told the committee that the country needed a more elastic currency and a concentration of reserve funds, but opinions as to how these ends could be accomplished were variant.

Chairman Glass announced at the outset that, inasmuch as the Democratic platform declared specifically against the Monetary Commission's central bank, the majority members of the committee felt it was their duty to seek a substitute for this plan.

A. Barton Hepburn, Chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank of New York, was first called. He said he was committed to the National Monetary Commission plan, but added that he did not regard the Aldrich bill as the last word in currency legislation.

Representative Bulkeley questioned Mr. Hepburn as to the guarantee of bank deposits.

"If you think the guarantee of deposits would stop runs on banks, the sooner you get the idea out of your head the better," said Mr. Hepburn. "When the people want money they want it, and nothing else will satisfy them. A guarantee would count for nothing at all."

"There should be great reserve reservoirs in the business centres of the country," said he. "These should be under a general altruistic control. I mean under a Government influence." If necessary, he added, he would favor a central bank, with the United States Government owning 51 per cent. of the capital stock. As an alternative for the central bank idea Mr. Hepburn suggested dividing the country into Clearing House districts.

Speaking of Government control of banks, Mr. Hepburn said the best article on this subject he had read in recent years was "The New Freedom," by Woodrow Wilson, in which the President-elect said the Jeffersonian doctrine, that the less a country was governed the better, did not hold good under present-day conditions.

"We will have panics as long as human nature exists," went on Mr. Hepburn. "In 1907 the whole world had overtraded and the demand upon the mobile currency of the world was greater than it could bear."

Victor Morawetz of the financial department of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad told the committee that a banking system under which the United States had prospered and progressed so wonderfully could not be wholly bad.

"Great caution and conservatism are the first things to be considered in undertaking to change our banking and currency laws," he said. Discussing the defects of the present system, Mr. Morawetz said the country's "rope of credit" was stretched to the extreme limit in normal times, and consequently could not bear any extraordinary strain.

"I do not think it would be desirable or practicable to establish a great central bank in the United States," he cantinued. "The plan I would suggest is to extend our Clearing House system; to require the banks in various Clearing House districts to form divisional reserve banks. Only divisional reserve banks should be permitted to receive as deposits the reserves of other banks."

These divisional banks, he added, should be so conducted as to be prepared always to furnish currency to other banks; they should do business only with other banks and their constituent members, and in easy times should accumulate currency in reserve for use in stringent times.

"It is true that such a system of divisional reserve banks would not bring about so great a concentration of reserves or centralization of power as the establishment of a great central bank," continued Mr. Morawetz, "but I believe it would accomplish all that would be desirable or necessary, at the outset, at least. If these divisional banks are given power to issue currency, it will be essential to have some central power to force a contraction when the situation demands it."

Mr. Morawetz declared there could be no such thing as an automatic banking system; that only human intelligence could be depended upon to regulate the contraction and expansion of currency. Explaining the difficulty of contracting currency, he said it was the tendency of banks to hold on to gold and keep their notes in circulation.

Paul Warburg of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York, warned the committee against experimenting with new ideas in undertaking the establishment of a new currency system and urged the adoption of some plan already tried and proved. He said the chief trouble in this country was the decentralization of reserves and immobilizations of commercial credit. He recommended a system of centralized reserves similar to those employed in Europe. Regional reserve banks, as proposed by Mr. Morawetz, he said, would be dangerous and impracticable. As a remedy for existing conditions, Mr. Warburg proposed a single central reserve to be supervised by the Government; although he said it would be dangerous to establish in this country a central bank with all the powers enjoyed by such institutions in European countries.

THAW SPENDS NIGHT HERE.

Brought Down Under Federal Writ to Testify in Mother's Suit.

Harry K. Thaw was brought to this city yesterday from Matteawan to appear as a witness in the suit brought in the Federal District Court by John B. Gleason against his mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, for $80,000 as his fee for services during the first trial of her son for murder. The suit has been set down for trial before Judge Mayer and will be called as soon as the suit of Edward T. Stotesbury against Oscar Hammerstein has been disposed of Thaw was let out of Matteawan on a writ of habeas corpus signed on Monday night by Judge Mayer on the petition of Abram J. Rose, counsel for Mrs. Thaw, as it would have been impossible to obtain his presence on an ordinary subpoena. One of Mr. Rose's assistants served the writ on the Matteawan authorities on Monday night and yesterday Thaw appeared in charge of Dr. Roy Leak of the asylum staff and David Leach, one of the guards. He was dressed in dark blue and appeared in good health and spirits.

He was joined in court by Mrs. Thaw and by Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, whom he greeted affectionately. They sat for a time listening to the Stotesbury-Hammerstein case with apparently a good deal of interest, and Thaw took a turn in the corridor to smoke a cigarette. As the Hammerstein suit is likely to last at least another day and as Thaw will have to be present every day of the Gleason suit, it was decided that it would be unnecessary to return him each night to Matteawan and to bring him down each day on a fresh writ of habeas corpus. Judge Mayer instead indorsed the writ to the effect that he had been placed in the custody of Dr. Leak, who might keep him either in the Tombs or in a hotel.

About 3:30, with his family, Thaw left the court and walked down to the Fulton Street Subway station. There the party went uptown to the Grand Central and parted in front of the Manhattan. Thaw, Dr. Leak, and the guard went to the Belmont.

At the Hotel Belmont last night it was denied that Harry Thaw had been registered as a guest. However, the taxicab starter at the Park Avenue entrance to the hotel said that a man answering to the description of Thaw had left the hotel in company with three men shortly before 8 o'clock. Up to midnight Thaw had not been discovered in or about the hotel.

ARCHBALD CALM UNDER FIRE.

Judge Maintains His Composure During a Four-Hour Cross-Examination.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Testimony in the impeachment of Judge Robert W. Archbald of the Commerce Court was completed before the Senate this afternoon. Arguments will begin to-morrow, and will last for three days of five hours each.

Judge Archbald was subjected to cross-examination by the managers for about four hours. Throughout the ordeal he preserved the calmness which characterized his testimony yesterday. Unalteringly he insisted that in the commercial transactions which interested him he never thought that his judicial position had any effect on the persons with whom he negotiated. The transactions were not bad in themselves, he said, and he took part in them simply as a citizen. He admitted that profit was his object, but denied that he had ever sought to conceal the part he took.

The cross-examination was begun by Representative Sterling, one of the House managers who are conducting the prosecution, but was virtually taken out of his hands when that charge was reached which involved Judge Archbald's correspondence with Attorney Helm Bruce of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

"Was it not due to the arguments you got by writing Mr. Bruce that the court reversed its earlier position and gave a decision favorable to the Louisville & Nashville?" asked Representative Sterling.

"Absolutely not," replied Judge Archbald.

"Why did you not give the attorneys for the other side a chance to present their views?" asked Senator Reed.

"The point amounted to so little that it did not affect the decision of the case," replied Judge Archbald.

"Why did you not give the Bruce letters to your associates on the Bench?" asked Senator Culberson.

"Because they practically did not enter into the case at all."

"Did you secure Mr. Bruce's assistance in preparing a dissenting opinion?" asked Senator Hoke Smith, "and then bring the other members of the court over to your view, without discussing the correspondence?"

"No, I reached my decision without Mr. Bruce's assistance, and wanted his view on the one point."

"When did you decide that this correspondence with Mr. Bruce was not material to the decision?" asked Senator Reed.

"In talking the matter over with Judge Knapp, I saw there was no occasion to dwell on that point."

The witness added that it was after it had been decided that the decision favorable to the Louisville & Nashville Road represented the view of the majority of the Commerce Court.

The Judge testified that when E. J. Williams of Scranton first asked him to communicate with Capt. May, manager of the Erie Railroad coal properties, about the Katydid culm dump, around which some of the impeachment charges centre, Williams, he said, merely asked for a letter of introduction to May, and had not asked for his influence, as is charged.

Representative Sterling asked Judge Archbald if he had not declined to write any letter to Capt. May until Williams agreed to give him part of the profits in the deal. Judge Archbald denied it. He said he had understood from Williams from the outset that he was to share with him in the profits, but he insisted he had not exacted that as the price for taking the question up with the Hillside Coal Company officials.

The Judge declared he did not remember ever having discussed the Erie lighterage case with Williams.

Senator Culberson asked how Williams might have known the "lighterage" cases were pending. The Judge said he thought William P. Boland might have told him or that Williams might have overheard him talking about the cases to others.

Senator Works asked Judge Archbald if it had ever occurred to him "during the negotiations" that his judicial position might influence the Erie officials in his favor.

"I had no idea of that," said the Judge. "I was dealing witth Capt. May and I knew him so well I knew my official position would have no influence with him. I did not expect it to have."

"What was the reason you thought you would be more successful than Mr. Williams in getting this option?" asked Senator Hitchcock.

"I thought my position in the community was a little different from Mr. Williams's, entirely apart from my official position. I thought I would be more likely to secure it than he would."

Judge Archbald said he had not invested any money in the deal; that the plan had been to secure the option and sell it at a profit.

"Did it ever occur to you that in asking favors of railroads you put yourself under obligation to possible litigants in your court?" asked Senator Culberson.

"I never consciously asked a favor of any railroad. I did not understand that in endeavoring to make this deal I was asking a favor. I looked upon it simply as a business proposition, and I believe it was so regarded by the company."

Representative Sterling took up the charge that Judge Archbald, acting with George M. Watson, a Scranton attorney, tried to settle a contest between the Marion Coal Company and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad at a price that would have brought a big profit to Watson and himself. Judge Archbald declared he had gone to Vice President Loomis of the Lacakawanna, as a friend of Watson, who asked him to talk to Mr. Loomis. He declared he did not know when he agreed to go and see Loomis that the Lackawanna had cases in his court.

SURPRISE AT TAFT'S STAND.

High Commission Favored Over Hague Seems Change of Viewpoint.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Taft's informal explanation of what he meant in his speech delivered in New York on last Saturday, when he advocated submitting the Panama controversy to arbitration, created some surprise here. After he returned to Washington the President said that he meant arbitration not by the Hague tribunal, but by a joint High Commission made up of American citizens and British subjects. The President's explanation undoubtedly was pleasing to several Senators who had bitterly opposed anything like arbitration before the Hague tribunal. They feared—as the President seemed also to fear—that the judges there, drawn from the nations of the world, which naturally would expect to send ships through the canal, would favor the British contention. There would be this objection to a joint High Commission.

The curious thing about the President's explanation is that it seems to contravene the very arbitration treaty in defense of which he spoke in New York. That treaty is explicit in that, it says that all differences within its scope shall be brought before the Hague tribunal There is no mention whatever of a joint High Commission. The provision for adjudication before The Hague is mandatory.

The opinion was expressed here that the President confounded the existing arbitration with the convention of wider scope which the Senate last year amended out of existence. That treaty's central idea was the settlement of disputes of practically all kinds before a joint High Commission. After the Senate amended it to the point of destruction the treaty was dropped.

JOHN A. WEEKES, PRESIDENT.

Succeeds S. V. Hoffman as Head of New York Historical Society.

The New York Historical Society elected John A. Weekes as its President last night at the anual meeting, held in the society's building, in Central Park West. Mr. Weekes takes the place occupied for the last ten years by Samuel Verplanck Hoffman, a son of the late Dean Hoffman, and who was President of the society at the time of his death. Continued ill-health led Mr. Hoffman to decline a re-election. He has made liberal contributions of old books and rare New York prints to the society.

The Vice Presidents were increased from two to four. Prof. William M. Sloane and Francis R. Schell were re-elected and Walter L. Suydam and Gerard Beekman were the new incumbents. The other officers chosen were Archer M. Huntington, Foreign Corresponding Secretary; James Benedict, Domestic Corresponding Secretary; Clarence Storm, Treasurer; Fancher Nicoll, Secretary, and Robert Hendrie Kelby, Librarian.

Mr. Kelby's report showed that the library had been increased by 1,522 volumes and 4,183 pamphlets, while other additions include nearly 3,000 old newspapers, 187 maps, nearly 14,000 engraved portraits, about 1,500 ballads relating to the civil war, and more than 900 views of the civil war. Among the noteworthy bequests was a rare tinted copy of Paul Revere's famous engraving of the Boston massacre.

DEMOCRATS AGREED ON CHEMICAL DUTIES

After Two Days' Hearing They Have Practically Decided to Uphold Last Session's Revision.

SPICES ARE CALLED LUXURIES

Plea for Low Duties on Perfumes Because the Poor as Well as the Rich Need Them.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The chemical schedule of the revised tariff legislation to be enacted by the coming extra session of Congress was closed to-day, so far as public hearings were concerned. The indications are that the Democratic majority of the House Committee on Ways and Means will sustain almost in terms its schedule passed last session and vetoed. It is possible that there may be some modification of the rates on spices, which several members of the committee favor, but this is uncertain.

The only indication of a possible change came while W. J. Gibson, a New York lawyer, was arguing for a 50 per cent. duty on spices as luxuries.

"Wouldn't it tend to cut off importations if we put a higher duty on spices?" asked Chairman Underwood.

"No," replied the witness. He added that spices, running from 5 to 18 cents a pound, were not expensive. Mr. Gibson wanted to put cod liver oil on the free list because of its medicinal value to decrepit children. He classed spices as luxuries traceable to ancient sybaritic and voluptuous conditions in the south of Italy.

"No mother," said he, "gives her child spices, nor does any one take them from real liking."

The first witness to-day was Theodore Ricksecker of New York, who bespoke the opposition of the Manufacturing Perfumers' Association to the transfer of distilled and essential oils used in perfumery preparations from the free list to a 20 per cent. ad valorem duty. He said he regarded it as a mistaken notion that perfumery was a luxury and that he had known of working girls who spent much of their wages for it. "We are all entitled to a slice of happiness," he exclaimed, and asserted that perfumery was virtually a necessity for servant girls as well as for womankind generally.

The manufacture of dry colors in the United States was taken up with Arthur S. Somers of New York as a witness. He asked for an equalization of the tariff reductions on coal tar dyes and on dry colors.

"This is no pipe dream," went on Mr. Somers. "If you put paris green on the free list you will wipe out every paris green factory in the United States. Canada has a 10 per cent. duty, shutting out our manufactures, and without protection the Canadians would drive us out of business."

"The general opinion is that you're robber barons," suggested Representative Hill of Connecticut, smilingly.

"I don't see why," he returned. "There is the greatest competition in the paris green business."

P. H. Callahan of Louisville, Ky., speaking for the National Varnish Association, representing about 80 per cent. of the industry, said it could stand a free trade basis. He protested, however, that removing the duty on sugar and putting a tax on non-competitive varnish raw materials would "not improve the situation at all." If a tax were imposed on varnish, its burden would be passed on by the manufacturers to the people.

Dr. L. J. Huff of Los Angeles protested that a 20 per cent. reduction of the duty on olive oil would work a hardship to the California producers, and in no way benefit consumers. The duty is 40 cents a gallon in bulk, and 50 cents a gallon in packages. The Democratic bill used as a basis by the committee purposes to reduce the tariff to 30 cents a gallon in packages, and 20 per cent. ad valorem.

Antonio Zucca, a New York importer, wanted a specific rate on olive oil, and asked the committee to so reduce the tariff as to allow that food necessity to the consumer at a moderate price.

"I eat three eggs with oil every morning," said he. "It's certainly no luxury."

Retention of the tariff of 2 cents a pound on oxalic acid and 25 per cent. ad valorem on salts of oxalic acid was urged by Louis Emery, Jr., of Bradford, Penn., President of the American Alkali and Acid Company. He said his company was "up against two foreign trusts, both strongly supported and protected by the German Government—the German potash trust which controls the supply of our most needed raw material, caustic potash and the German oxalic acid syndicate." The oxalic acid manufacturers of Germany, Russia, England, Belgium, Norway, and Austria, have formed a syndicate headed and controlled by the Germans, to hold at a high level the price of oxalic acid in their countries and to deliver their surplus to the United States."

He asserted that the activity of his company had checked the advancing trust price.

W. J. Gibson of New York testified that so long as there were to be duties on imports to raise revenue and not for protection there ought to be a duty on unground spices, luxuries mostly produced in tropical countries. He said the only opposition to making unground spices dutiable would come from grocers "who charge the consumer from four to ten times what they cost them," and from the grinders and makers of perfumery and fancy soaps.

341,277 AMERICANS DIVORCED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The most complete abstract ever prepared of any Federal decennial census was issued to-day by E. Dana Durand, Director of the Census. It contains a mass of digested material relating to almost every important economic, political and social question confronting the people.

For the first time the Census Bureau presents statistics of marital relations, with comprehensive figures concerning divorce. The number of divorced persons in the United States when the census was taken in 1910 was 156,176 men and 185,101 women—3 per cent. of the total male population and 4 per cent. of the total female population. There were 994 boys and 3,715 girls less than 15 years old who were divorced.

In a note it is explained the number of divorced persons reported falls short of the total living persons who have been divorced, as many divorced persons have remarried. It is said also that it seems practically certain the returns as to the number of divorced persons not remarried are below the true total.

The statistics of the number of divorced persons 15 years old and over in New York State are: Men—Native white of native parentage, 3,784; native white of foreign or mixed parentage, 1,692; foreign-born white, 1,775; negro, 164; total, 7,436. Women—Native white of native parentage, 4,960; native white of foreign or mixed parentage, 2,347; foreign-born white, 2,609; negro, 292; total, 10,227.

KILLED BY MAN HE HELPED.

Williamsburg Druggist Murdered and Robbed in Room Over His Store.

Otto Oetinger, a druggist of Williamsburg, was shot and killed instantly early yesterday while he slept in his apartments over his store at Wythe Avenue and South Eighth Street. Robbery was the motive, the body being robbed of a gold watch and chain, $50, and a dimond ring valued at $300. The police sent out a general alarm for Thomas Kelly, whom Oetinger had befriended.

William Kolbe, a clerk, who had a room on the same floor, was awakened by the sound of a shot. Running to Oetinger's room, he was confronted by Kelly. The men grappled, and as they reached the top of the stairs Kelly threw Kolbe backward, and Kolbe fell to the bottom, breaking his right leg. Kelly then disappeared.

REBATES BY THE SHIP TRUST.

Purcell Explains Arrangement for Exclusive Shipments of Coffee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—A system of deferred rebates, granted by the so-called "ship combination to shippers" who deal exclusively with its members, was described to-day to the House Merchant Marine Committee by a representative of a firm who had received rebates for four years.

The witness was Joseph Purcell of Hard & Rand of New York, one of the largest importers of Brazilian coffee to the United States. He said that for shipping its coffee exclusively by the Lamport & Holt Line, the Prince Line, and the Hamburg-South Amerika Line his concern received a maximum rebate of 10 per cent.

Mr. Purcell's statement came as a climax of a day's testimony hinting at the existence of such a rebating system. J. J. Schlechta, New York agent for the Lloyd Brazileiro Line, owned and operated by the Brazilian Government between New York and Brazil, had just testified that his company during the last six years, in attempting to compete with the "conference" lines, had lost $6,000,000. He further swore that his company had been able to get the trade of only one big coffee importer, the Arbuckles, and that, in his opinion, the only explanation for this was the existence of a deferred rebating system. He acknowledged that he had no positive knowledge of the existence of such a system.

Before Mr. Slechta took the stand Sidney Storey of New Orleans testified that an attempt to start an independent steamship line from New Orleans to Brazil last Summer had resulted in failure because not a pound of freight could be obtained in South America for a return trip. He, too, suspected that the existence of reported deferred rebates was the cause of the inability to procure freight.

Mr. Purcell testified that the rebate system was started in 1908, and, with modifications made in 1909, or 1910, existed to-day. The contracts were signed in Brazil and the printed forms for claims for rebates were sent to the London agencies for allowance. His competitors, Mr. Purcell said, got the same rebates if they signed the contracts.

The witness said that he believed the rates were reasonably just because the contracts allowed the shippers to charter a vessel to carry the coffee if such a charter could be procured at 10 cents a bag less than the "conference" rate available.

Mr. Siechta had told the committee that the "conference" lines had raised the rate since October, 1912, from 40 cents to 50 cents a bag, but that an offer by his line to Hard & Rand to carry their coffee for 26 cents a bag had been declined.

When Chairman Alexander of the House committee asked Mr. Purcell to explain this, the witness testified that had the offer been accepted his concern would have lost their deferred rebate only to get a service that for regularity and efficiency would not be satisfactory.

"In addition, the 'conference' lines would have refused to carry your coffee from Brazil to Europe?" suggested Representative Thayer.

"They could have done that if we had broken our contract," was the reply.

"If you and your competitors pay the same freight rate and the rate per bag was 24 cents a bag higher, you would charge the 24 cents up to the consumer, would you not?" asked Representative Stephens.

"We would try to make him pay it, but sometimes we do not succeed," was the reply.

Mr. Purcell said that he was satisfied with the service the "conference" lines were giving him, but denied that he preferred to see the "independent lines" driven out of business lest a competitor should get a lower rate. He added that his firm seldom chartered a vessel, because it was necessary to bring large shipments in that event, and, further, that seldom could they get a chartered vessel for 10 cents less than the "conference" price.

Mr. Alexander asked the witness if he had any legislation to suggest.

"No," said Mr. Purcell, "unless you gentlemen think rebating is illegal."

The witness added that he would prefer a flat rate without a rebate. He expressed the belief that his concern could get as good a rate as its competitors, no matter whether rebates were allowed or not.

HAWTHORNE DEFENSE OPENS

Lawyer Will Base It on Author's Faith in Mines' Values.

After calling 106 witnesses, and consuming six weeks of the court's time, the Government yesterday rested its case in the prosecution of Julian Hawthorne, Josiah Quincy, Albert Freeman, and Dr. William J. Morton for using the mails to defraud in connection with Canadian mining schemes. The defense is likely to take up another three weeks.

Judge Hough ruled the Government had not produced any evidence to connect Quincy with fraud in connection with the promotion of the Temagami-Cobalt, the Elk-Lake Cobalt, and the Montreal-James companies, but that he must answer charges in connection with the promotion of the Hawthorne Silver and Iron Mines, Limited. As a result Damon E. Hall, counsel for Quincy, announced that he rested his case.

In opening for the defense counsel argued that the defendants were convinced the mines they had to sell were good, and that if the Government had left them alone they would be paying properties now.

Roderick Wellman addressed the jury on behalf of Julian Hawthorne, and told them his client was 67 years old, the author of fifty works, and at the time he took up the mining enterprises was making about $10,000 a year.

"He had implicit confidence in the properties," said Mr. Wellman. "He made no money out of the scheme, and did not sell any of his stock till he got into debt with Freeman for living expenses."

Joseph H. Choate, Jr., speaking for Dr. Morton, said his client neither wrote nor saw any of the circulars. At the same time he stood by them as being substantially correct. The trial will be continued to-morrow morning.

SHIP SINKS WITH 33.

ASTORIA, Ore., Jan. 7.—The oil tank steamship Rosecrans, Capt. L. F. Johnson, from Monterey, Cal., bound for Portland, Ore., ran aground early to-day on Peacock Spit, while striving to reach the Columbia River, during a fifty-mile gale, and was lost, with thirty-three members of her crew of thirty-seven. One survivor of the wreck, it was reported to-night, had reached safety at Tioga, Wash., six miles from the scene of the wreck.

When the tugboats reached the neighborhood of the vessel she was found to be hard aground, and the high seas and driving winds made near approach impossible. The Rosecrans soon shifted and began to break up, and before the tugs and life-savers could get near enough to put a line aboard, she slipped off the rocks and sank until only her masts and the funnel appeared above the water, with three men of the crew clinging to the rigging.

Magicians to See Mme. Hermann.

It is expected that more than 100 magicians will attend a theatre party to be given at Keith's Union Square Theatre next Friday evening in honor of Mme. Adelaide Hermann, widow of Hermann the Great, who is now playing an engagement there. Those who will attend are members of the American Society of Magicians, and they will give a reception to Mme. Hermann after the performance at a hotel to be determined on later.

The Founders' Progressive Club of the Twenty-first Assembly District will open its new clubhouse to-night at 100 Edgecombe Avenue. The club has several hundred members. Several women are on the rolls, and two have been elected Vice Presidents.

Simplex
Private Show

The success of the Meadow Brook type of landaulet and limousine has induced the incorporation of some of these features in the touring body types which the Simplex Automobile Co. offer for the coming season. In addition an electric lighting and self-starting system has been adopted and will form part of the equipment of all chassis.

This system is partly our own design and has a number of new and interesting features. All chains, belts and gears have been eliminated from the generator which is direct-driven from the pump shaft, with a flexible coupling to prevent unnecessary strain on the bearings.

Simplex Cars are exhibited this year only at the salesrooms—240 West 59th Street (near Columbus Circle.) Open until 10:30 o'clock P. M. up to and including January 18.

NEW PLAN FOR MAUDE ADAMS.

J. M. Barrie's Plays to be Produced by a Stock Company.

Maude Adams is to have a permanent stock company next season gathered around her for the purpose of producing exclusively plays by J. M. Barrie. With the exception of a handful of players from the present "Peter Pan" company, the actors will be those who have not appeared with Miss Adams in recent years. The season will begin at the Empire Theatre next Christmas, and, according to the announcement from the Frohman offices, during the months that the new company plays there a regular répertoire will be gone through regardless of the success of the individual plays presented.

Not the least interesting part of the announcement is the fact it reveals that hereafter the plays of the noted English author will be performed by Miss Adams in America before they have been seen in England. Hitherto Barrie's plays have been seen first in London, and then brought here, or else, in a few instances, the productions have been arranged simultaneously.

Four new comedies by Barrie are scheduled for production during the first season of the stock company. They are "The Legend of Margaret," "The Ladies' Shakespeare," "Rosalind," and "Punch." Nothing is revealed as to the nature of these plays. A curious mistake was made in regard to the title of the first named when Mr. Barrie first told it to Charles Frohman. He pronounced "legend" as is usually done in England, with the broad "e," and the American manager thought he had called the play "The Legion of Margaret." When this title was written in a subsequent letter to England, after Mr. Frohman's return here, it caused the English playwright considerable surprise, and it required a letter from him to get the play its real title.

A RECORD ENGLISH SHIPBUILDING BOOM

SHIPOWNERS' BIG PROFITS

Immense Sums Made in 1912 by Cardiff Firms—Value of Vessels Has Greatly Increased.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The present year will see a new record in British warship building.

The naval dockyards and great shipbuilding firms have already twelve battleships and battle-cruisers in hand for the navy, apart from vessels nearly completed. In addition there are six battleships or battle-cruisers building in England for foreign powers.

If ten new British ships are ordered this year, as is expected, there will be twenty-eight armored ships of the largest size building in this country, with a displacement of over 650,000 tons.

The completion of this enormous fleet with speed will demand most careful organization. It is feared that there must be serious delays in construction. Already the recent British programmes are heavily in arrears.

The difficulty which confronts both dockyards and private firms is to obtain the skilled labor required for ship construction. There is an insufficiency of workers at the dockyards, where day and night shifts, as well as overtime, are being worked. All indications suggest that the Admiralty will have to revise its calculation that the largest battleship can be built in two years.

Cardiff shipowners are rejoicing in prosperous times. It is estimated that 500 vessels which belong to that port earned a clear profit of nearly $2,500,000 in 1912. Besides these, Evan Thomas, Radcliffe & Co., with thirty vessels, made a profit of $1,500,000; W. J. Tatem & Co., with twenty steamers, a profit of $1,055,000, and W. & C. T. Jones, Limited, with eleven ships, a profit of $340,000.

There is every likelihood that the flourishing conditions in the English shipping industry will continue. One shipowner has refused an offer of $120,000 for a steamer of about 4,800 tons deadweight which he bought three years ago for $85,000. A steamer of 6,000 tons which cost $150,000 was completed not long ago, and on a voyage to the Mediterranean and back of ninety days made a profit of $500 per day.

Tonnage is still in demand, but shipbuilders are accepting very few contracts, owing to their inability to guarantee early delivery. Prices are consequently abnormally high. In fact, such has been the advance in values that a vessel of 7,500 tons now in course of construction on the Tyne has been sold for $290,000, as compared with $180,000 paid for a boat built to the same specifications in 1909.

BANNER BRITISH TRADE YEAR.

With total imports of £744,896.514 (approximately $3,724,482,570) and total exports of £487,434,002 ($2,437,170,000) the aggregate increase reaches the enormous sum of £98,053,691 ($490,268,455.)

The respective increases were: In imports £64,738,987 ($323,694,935) and in exports £33,314,704 ($166,573,520.)

Grain and flour account for upwards of $60,000,000 of this increase in imports and other food for nearly $20,000,000. Tobacco is responsible for $5.000,000 increase; cotton from America for $32,500,000.

The principal increases in exports were in iron and steel, $50,000,000; coal, $20,000,000, and textiles, $10,000,000.

The December statement of the Board of Trade shows increases of $45,654.000 in imports and $14,435,000 in exports. The principal increase in the imports was in raw material, of which American cotton gained $17,500,000. Manufactured goods showed the largest gain in the exports.

STRAUS HARVARD LECTURES.

Editor of System Is First Speaker in Course Founded by New Yorkers.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 7.—Following a gift of $10,000, made to Harvard University last Summer, a course of lectures on commercial organization has been established at the Harvard Business School.

The donors are Messrs. Jesse I. Straus, Percy S. Straus, and Herbert N. Straus of New York, all Harvard alumni, who established the fund in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus, who were drowned in the Titanic disaster. A. W. Shaw of Winnetka, Ill., editor of System, has been appointed as lecturer this year.

ADVANCE IMMIGRATION BILL.

Senate and House Conferrees in Accord, Particularly on Literary Test.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Conference Committee of the Senate and House to-day took up the differences in the Immigration bill as it passed the two houses. The Senate and the House measures are, for the greater part of the text, entirely different, and it is expected that several meetings will be necessary before the differences are adjusted.

To-day's meeting, however, served to show that the two sides of the committee were prepared to come to an understanding. Both measures have a strict literacy test for would-be immigrants, so that provision will certainly remain in the rewritten bill. In fact, the literacy test makes up the whole House bill, the administrative features of the Dillingham bill in the Senate having been dropped for purposes of expedition.

The conferrees this afternoon began the reading of the Senate provisions, and the House managers showed a disposition to accept most of them. In this way about five pages of the bill were disposed of, and it was said afterward that the Representatives and Senators were working in complete accord.

STEALING LACE DESIGNS.

Nottingham Manufacturers Taking Steps to Prevent Piracy.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—A system of piracy in lace designs was mentioned to-night to the Nottingham Chamber of Commerce by B. F. Stiebel, who said that he had authentic information that American and Continental firms were receiving designs almost at the same time that the new patterns were put on the machines in Nottingham, and were producing from the patterns simultaneously.

"It is most desirable that the widest publicity should be given to the matter," said Mr. Stiebel to the reporter. "Evidently somebody is being bribed to send patterns abroad."

The question of an international agreement on the subject is being considered by representatives of the lace trade at a conference in Manchester.

WILL JOIN DUCAL HOUSES.

Marquis of Granby to Marry Lady Rosemary Leveson-Gower.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The announcement of an engagement which will unite the Ducal houses of Rutland and Sutherland is expected shortly. The couple are the Marquis of Granby, son and heir of the Duke of Rutland, and Lady Rosemary Leveson-Gower, the only surviving daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland.

From a financial point of view the engagement is not brilliant, for neither the Rutlands nor the Sutherlands, considering their position, have a superabundance of the world's goods.

The Duke of Sutherland recently sold Stafford House, London, to Sir William Lever, who purposes to present it to the nation for a museum.

CHURCH SUED FOR MILLION.

Le Couteulx Heirs Seek to Recover Land Deeded to Buffalo Diocese.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The plaintiffs in a most interesting civil lawsuit in America, involving the ownership of a large quantity of real estate in Buffalo, N. Y., will start from Havre for New York on board La Lorraine of the French Line on Saturday next.

The claimants are three in number—Henry Le Couteulx de Caumont, his brother, Louis, both of whom are great-grandsons of the French pioneer Louis Le Couteulx, and Baron Emmanuel de Bizi, a great-great-grandson of the pioneer. Only the first two of these, however, will go to America.

Their object is to recover the land which is now the site of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Louis in the City of Buffalo. They allege that as heirs at law of the original Le Couteulx they are the rightful owners of the church land, as well as of the adjoining property, now occupied by a private residence, because the conditions of the deed by which Le Couteulx transferred the property to the church have not been carried out.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Suit brought by the heirs of Count Louis Le Couteulx to gain possession of the property now occupied by St. Louis Church, its rectory, and the other parish buildings, at Main and Edwards Streets, will go to trial before Justice Pooley and a jury in the Supreme Court to-morrow. Besides involving property worth upward of $1,000,000, it concerns the many communicants of the church, one of the finest in the city, and will bring before the court the history of probably the most picturesque figure of Buffalo's pioneer days.

Louis Le Couteulx was a Frenchman of noble family, reputed to be a Count, who came to Buffalo in the early days of the city. He had some money, invested it in a pharmacy, and acquired a considerable fortune, much of which he invested in real estate.

Later in life he came into a large inheritance in the old country and returned to France, where his descendants now live. Before departing he gave some of his property to the city and some to the church at which he was a communicant. Among these bequests was the site of St. Louis Church, upon which a church and other structures were erected.

Suit was begun three years ago. E. C. Randall represents the heirs. Charles L. Feldman is the attorney for the church. The heirs of the Count say that the gift of the St. Louis property was a limited one; that the property was to revert to the estate upon the death of Bishop Dubois. The Bishop died in New York City about 1840. The title to the property now is vested in the Diocese of Buffalo.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Lady Abdy, widow of Sir William Abdy, was married to-day to Maurice Grant, described as an artist of independent means. Mr. Grant has lived mostly in Paris. He is 25 years of age.

This is the lady's third marriage. She gave her age as 39. Sir William Abdy, whom she married in 1909, was then 64.

EXPLORERS STARVE IN SPITZBERGEN

ALL HIS TOES AMPUTATED

Dog Saved Him Twice When He Fell Through Ice—Relief Expedition for Others Organized.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Wednesday, Jan. 8.—The German papers publish a wireless message received yesterday in Christiania from the Norwegian station in Spitzbergen giving a graphic account of the plight of the German explorers who started for Spitzbergen last August. The expedition was organized in preparation for the greater expedition which, according to the present plans, will endeavor to make the northeast passage under the leadership of Lieut. Schroder Stranzin next June.

The explorers went north in the ship Herzog Earst, a two-master of sixty-one tons, under the command of Capt. Ritschel, and the last previous news of them was brought home by an excursion steamer of the Hamburg-American Line, the Victoria Luise, which met the vessel at the end of August and supplied her with fresh provisions and drinking water.

To-day's news consists of the story told to two men of Advent Bay, a point on the eastern shore of the ice fjord in West Spitzbergen, by Capt. Ritschel, who got there on Dec. 27, after suffering great hardship and being separated from his companions.

Capt. Ritschel said the expedition had provisions for only a month at the most, and most of the party were, he feared, in the last stages of scurvy. The expedition had split up into several detachments. His own companions he had been compelled to leave behind, exhausted with cold and hunger, on Wijde Bay, where they were probably now quite without provisions. He had eaten his last tallow candle at Cape Thordsen, and, pressing on across the ice fjord, had twice fallen through the ice, to be rescued by his dog. He had had to leave his snowshoes and revolver behind.

When Capt. Ritschel arrived at Advent Bay his clothes had to be cut off his body, and all his toes had to be amputated.

A relief expedition is to start immediately from Advent Bay, where the Norwegian wireless station is providing tents, dogs, and all that is necessary.

FOUND NEW ANTARCTIC LAND.

Filchner Also Discovered an Ice Barrier—May Continue Exploration.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—A cablegram from Buenos Aires announces that Dr. Wilhelm Filchner returned there to-day after his antarctic expedition, and that he discovered a new country, which he named King Luitpold Land, and an ice barrier to which he gave the name William II.

The object of the Filchner expedition, which returned much earlier than was expected, was to discover what lies between the Weddell Sea and the Ross Sea. It is assumed that the Emperor William ice barrier corresponds to the Ross ice barrier on the opposite side of the antarctic.

Dr. Filchner first laid his plans before the Berlin Geographical Society in March, 1910. He then proposed to cross the antarctic regions from the Weddell Sea to the Ross Sea and contemplated collaboration with the English expedition under Capt. Scott. Later, however, he decided to operate independently.

The sum of $350,000 which, it was estimated, would cover the cost of the expedition, was raised privately and by means of a lottery, and the whaling ship Björn was purchased at Christiania and renamed the Deutschland.

The expedition left Germany in May, 1911.

In a later telegram, Dr. Filchner declares that the expedition was a success, but he considers that the work should be resumed.

ASKS AMBASSADORS' VALUE.

London Paper Speaks of Them as "Diplomatic Panjandrums."

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 8.—The weekly journal The Bystander, in a paragraph headed "Diplomatic Panjandrums," discussing the real value of Ambassadors, says:

"At least we still pay our Ambassadors as if we believed in them. America, of late years anyway, has made no such attempt to keep up this legend of an inspired hierarchy. It goes to the other extreme, and frankly gives the big posts to men who have no connection with diplomacy, but have money enough to make a real splash."

After saying that Dorchester House cost the late Whitelaw Reid $45,000 a year, while his salary was $17,500, and referring to the difficulty of the United States in finding a suitable man with money and brains in sufficient proportion for the vacant post in London, The Bystander asks why the choice should be restricted in this way, adding:

"Why not find a more modest residence in Bloomsbury, very central, and handy for American visitors in London, and, doing things on a less ostentatious scale, open the field to all the talent of the United States?"

GERMANY MAY AID JEWS.

Recent University "Strike" May Result in a Protest to Russia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—Germany may become an ally of the United States in an endeavor to obtain equality of treatment for Jews in Russia.

The issue is raised in connection with the recent "strike" of German medical students against the excessive number of Russians attending the German universities. Most of the Russians are Jews, who are compelled to come to Germany because adequate educational facilities at home are extremely difficult or impossible for them to obtain.

Jews are permitted to study medicine in Russia only to a limited degree, but they may practice, provided that they have obtained German diplomas.

A conference of German university authorities which has been considering the situation has come to the conclusion that the most practicable remedy is for the German authorities to enter into negotiations with the Russian Government with a view to obtaining for Jewish students the same educational privileges as for Christians. Russia's attention will be called to the fact that, owing to the limited number of physicians in Russia, the anti-Semitic policy ought to be abandoned, as far as the medical profession is concerned, especially as it will henceforth be more difficult for Russian medical students to gain admission to German universities.

DESCRIBES CARREL'S WORK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The latest discoveries of Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute, New York, were described in a communication made by Prof. Pozzi at a meeting of the Academy of Medicine to-day.

After the meeting, Dr. Pozzi, who is an eminent French scientist, said that Dr. Carrel's experiments in regard to the preservation of life in organs detached from the body were to be continued, and he believed it would be possible to preserve such life for longer periods than had up to now been the case, but the results already obtained were of the highest importance to the sciences of physiology and chemical biology.

Dr. Pozzi in his communication detailed various experiments, including the continuation of the digestive process in organs separated from the body, that were described in THE NEW YORK TIMES last October.

One experiment consisted in removing from a cat all the thoracic and abdominal organs and placing them in a box containing a solution of artificial serum maintained at a heat of 38 degrees centigrade (100.4 Fahrenheit.) On account of the low-blood pressure the beating of the heart became very weak, and the organ assumed an anaemic appearance, but after a few minutes the blood pressure increased and became sometimes almost normal.

By transfusing through the viscera a quantity of blood from another cat the lungs became pink, the blood pressure increased, and the heart-beat was regular at about 120 to 125. The pulsations of the abdominal aorta became violent, and one could see and feel the pulsations of the stomach and kidneys. In short, the viscera, which had been removed, became quite normal. The vicera were then placed in a box filled with Ringer solution. A tracheal tube was placed at a hole in the box and food and water were injected into the stomach, which continued to do the work of digestion in normal fashion.

Where the cat experimented upon had eaten meat before death the stomach continued digesting for several hours after the removal of the viscera.

ART CRITICS DENOUNCED.

Their Remarks About Alma-Tadema's Work Make Artists Angry.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The works of the late Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema are the subject of a bitter controversy. An exhibition of them is now being held in London, and the criticisms in the newspapers have aroused the ire of Sir Philip Burne-Jones and Sir William B. Richmond, R. A. Sir Philip has written a letter denouncing the critics, of whom he says:

Sir W. B. Richmond accuses the critics of having sworn allegiance to post-impressionism and declares their taste vitiated, their judgment debauched, and their sensibilities poisoned.

The critics reply that they are perfectly ready to recognize Alma-Tadema's consummate draughtsmanship and impeccable technique, but they deny that he was a really great artist, because, they say, he lacked inspiration.

INQUIRING FOR SULZER INTO FIRE INSURANCE

Commissioner Ellison Invites the Public to Come Forward with Complaints or Suggestions.

STANDARD POLICY NOT LIKED

Changes to be Recommended to the Governor and the Legislature Is Expected to Act on Them.

With the intention of recommending to Gov. Sulzer, and through him to the Legislature, an entirely new form of fire insurace policy, free from some of the most generally voiced objections to the present standard policy, William B. Ellison, a special Commissioner appointed by Gov. Sulzer to investigate fire insurance matters, began a series of public hearings at his law office, 165 Broadway, yesterday afternoon.

There were a score or more of lawyers present, representing insurance companies and persons having grievances against insurance companies or the insurance system.

Commissioner Ellison asked each lawyer to notify any of his friends who might be interested that the taking of testimony would begin next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and that further sessions would not be held until that time.

Mr. Ellison was a member of the Legislature when Mr. Sulzer was Speaker of the Assembly many years ago. They were friends, and so when Mr. Ellison appeared at Albany on Jan. 3 to impress the Governor with the necessity of making some changes in standard fire insurance policies, Gov. Sulzer immediately appointed him to investigate the whole matter.

Mr. Ellison's appointment was not pleasing to some interests, as was shown at yesterday's meeting, when his first duty as Commissioner was to give out the telegram attacking him, which had been forwarded to Gov. Sulzer.

New York, Jan. 5, 1913.

Hon. William Sulzer, Governor, Albany, N. Y.: Your appointment of William B. Ellison as Commissioner to investigate fire insurance matters at a time when he is litigating large claims against insurance companies in which the main defense of the companies is an allegation of intended arson, and in the conduct of which cases Mr. Ellison has employed every technical method to prevent the introduction of such defense instead of meeting the issue on its merits, makes many of your well-wishers believe you have been imposed upon. Mr. Ellison presumably sits as an open-minded judge or referee to hear both sides of an issue. In the light of the record above referred to and of his recent statements as reported in the press, can you regard him as unbiased?

GEORGE R. BRANSON.

With Mr. Branson's telegram Commissioner Ellison made public a letter to him from the Governor, expressing the "utmost confidence in your fairness and impartiality" and ability "to do substantial justice to all concerned."

Commissioner Ellison also made public a letter he had forwarded to Gov. Sulzer, explaining in detail his association with fire insurance litigation and expressing his conviction that the insurance companies would oppose any change in the present form of policy. In this letter he said:

"The trouble with Mr. Branson's statements is that they are almost entirely false. The fact is that the litigation to which he refers has been thoroughly tried out on the merits, verdicts rendered for the insured in every case tried, and judgments have been affirmed on every appeal taken. Furthermore, the alleged defense of intended arson was by the Court of Appeals held to be insufficient, and later, in all of the cases, was stricken out by the trial Judge without opposition on the part of the companies."

Commissioner Ellison reviewed the cases in litigation, one of which, for example, had to do with a fire in the Ampersand Hotel, at Saranac Lake, which burned in September, 1907. The owner of the hotel was charged by the insurance companies with conspiring to burn it, but the charge fell flat.

"In taking up this investigation," Mr. Ellison announced in forecasting its purposes, "I find that a large number of attorneys have filed objections to one clause or another of the standard insurance policy. I shall hear all the pros and cons, and then shall draft what I think is a fair contract both for the companies and the insuring public. I would like to forward my report upon this phase of the matter to Gov. Sulzer at the earliest practicable moment in order to have it go before the Legislature while the session is still young.

"For this reason we shall not consider any other phase of the general insurance problem until this phase is out of the way.

"I have had drawn to my attention the alleged insufficiency of fire insurance facilities in this State, and in this connection I have been told that some modifications of the present law would induce other responsible and desirable companies to come into the State, particularly foreign companies of large capital and conceded responsibility. In this connection it is claimed that the increased insurance facilities would lead to lower premium rates.

"I am also in receipt of a number of communications complaining against the manner in which the business is carried on in this State, in so far as there is absolutely no competition in rates, and it is charged that, by some unlawful or illegal means, competition in this regard is stifled. Such charges should be set at rest, if untrue, and remedied, if true.

"Much complaint has also been made as to the construction placed on Sections 49 and 50 of the Insurance Law, under which our brokers and agents are prohibited from covering risks in other States in companies not admitted to do business in this State.

"I have also been showered, since my name was first connected with this matter, with communications citing instances of alleged ill-treatment of the insured at the hands of the companies' adjusters. Complaints are more than numerous on this phase of the question. That there is much merit in them I, of course, do not know, but I do know that it is my duty to investigate them and ascertain just what the situation is.

"Among the complaints received by me are many criticising the co-insurance clause now in use and several other clauses of equal importance. I do not attempt to pass on the merits of these clauses at this time, but it is my intention to subject them all to consideration, with due care for the interests of both the insuring public and the insurance companies.

"In order that the Board of Fire Underwriters—which body, it seems, absolutely controls the fire insurance situation from the standpoint of the insurer in this State—may be kept cognizant of each and every step taken by me in my investigations, I have requested the Bureau of Legislation of the board to attend all of the hearings before me.

"The investigation will be open to the public, and every citizen will be free to make any suggestion regarding any subject that should be investigated."

W. E. SHINE JUMPS TO DEATH.

Patient in New York Hospital Leaps Five Stories After an Operation.

William A. Shine, a young lawyer from Orlando, Fla., and a brother of Dr. Francis W. Shine of 13 East Thirtieth Street, underwent a minor operation at the New York Hospital four days ago, and last evening it was said at the hospital that he was recovering rapidly. No concern of any sort was felt for him, and he was apparently a perfectly tractable patient, and restless only with the natural desire to be up and about again.

At 12:35 o'clock this morning he was in bed in the private room overlooking Sixteenth Street, that his brother had engaged for him on the fifth floor of the hospital. One of the staff of male nurses attached to the hospital was on post in the hall not far from the doorway of Shine's room, and in the room with him was his own nurse, a man engaged to wait on him during the period following the operation.

According to the story told later by the hospital authorities, everything was perfectly quiet, when quite suddenly and without warning Shine became extremely violent. He leaped from his bed and sprang to the window, which, like all the rooms to which patients are removed after operations, was covered with a stout iron screen. Before his nurse could move across the room Shine had seized one of the iron rods and wrenched it from its position, so that he could brandish it as a weapon in his hand.

The nurse had given a call for help to the hospital nurse pacing the corridor outside, but this was not needed, for the second attendant had heard the disturbance and hurried to Shine's room. The two men tackled the raving patient, but he was of muscular build, and, despite his operation, was strong enough to overcome them, with the aid of the iron rod. He succeeded in pushing away the rest of the screenwork, and then leaped through the window.

He landed in the street five stories below and was dead when other attendants hurried out from the ground floor of the hospital.

According to the statement made at the hospital at 2 o'clock this morning, the doctors there believe that Shine went suddenly insane.

Mr. Shine was on a visit to his brother in New York when the necessity for an operation was realized, and it was through his brother that he went to the New York Hospital. He was 27 years old.

MILLER ON APPEALS BENCH.

Designated as Associate at Request of Chief Judge.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—At the request of Chief Judge Cullen of the Court of Appeals Gov. Sulzer designated Justice Nathan L. Miller of Cortland to-day as an Associate Judge of the higher tribunal. Justice Miller has been serving on the bench of the Appellate Division, First Department. As the arrears of work in the Court of Appeals have increased, Justices have been designated from time to time to assist, until the court, prior to Judge Miller's designation, consisted of six Democrats and three Republicans. Judge Miller, the tenth member, is a Republican.

Gov. Sulzer, in a statement detailing the political complexion of the court, explained that his reference to politics had been made, "not because the history of the court has evinced any tendency on its part to political bias, but because it is almost as necessary that the court should appear to be free from political partisanship as that in reality it should be free."

CALIFORNIA'S LOSS HEAVY.

Estimates of Damage to Citrus Belt Range Downward to $20,000,000.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—From San Bernardino to Los Angeles every acre of oranges and lemons has been frozen.

This was the statement that came to-night from Pomona, centre of one of the heaviest producing sections of the citrus fruit belt. Only a fifth of the crop may be saved. If this be true the total loss on 150,000 acres of fruit will amount close to $40,000,000. More conservative estimates, however, figure the total damage at $20,000,000. Between $5,000,000 and $8,000,000 of this sum will be the loss to railroads in curtailed freight receipts. The Weather Bureau issued a bulletin to-night to the effect that the worst cold wave had passed.

TO EASE RESTRICTION ON INSURANCE MEN

A Proposed Amendment Would Authorize Department to Permit 10% More Business.

EIGHTEEN BILLS INTRODUCED

Changes in Law Suggested by Emmet Are Submitted to Both Branches of the Legislature.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—Eighteen bills proposing amendments to the Insurance law as recommended by William Temple Emmet, State Superintendent of Insurance, were introduced in both houses of the Legislature to-day. They were the first proposed amendments to that law urged by a Democratic Superintendent. The most important change proposed is in relation to the amount of new business a company may do in one year. A limitation was placed on such business by the law, following the Armstrong Committee's investigation, and it was fought vigorously by the companies. From that time, efforts have been made to procure an amendment to the law.

The bill recommended by Mr. Emmet lets down the bars by permitting the Superintendent of Insurance to authorize a company to exceed the limitation of the present law by not more than 10 per cent. This additional insurance is to be charged as a part of the new policies for the succeeding year, in accordance with the limitation of the law. Mr. Emmet explained that the proposed amendment was intended to prevent the demoralization of a company's agency force when it unexpectedly found that it would have to cease writing business before the end of the year.

Another bill provides that examinations of casualty companies shall be made every three years, instead of every five years, as required by the present law.

One amendment forbids a guaranty company guaranteeing the bonds of a private or public corporation to invest in the bonds of the corporation it guarantees.

Another new bill requires a notification to the policy holder in every case of lapse or forfeiture.

A proposed amendment provides that the Superintendent of Insurance may revoke a certificate of authority issued to a foreign corporation "whenever in the judgment of the Superintendent it will best promote the interests of the people of this State."

One bill makes the test for issuing a license to a broker trustworthiness and competency.

A new section is proposed, giving the Insurance Department supervision over the promoting of insurance corporations and the sale of securities. Another bill is designed to place under the supervision of the Insurance Department all bodies that are maintained for the purpose of assisting underwriting organizations in fixing and formulating or maintaining rates.

Other sections amend the penal law in relation to discrimination and rebates by big insurance corporations and the issue of false literature.

Among the bills introduced in the Assembly was a concurrent resolution by Assemblyman Lewis of New York proposing an amendment to the State Constitution giving absent electors an opportunity to register by mail. Mr. Lewis said his amendment was introduced in the interest of commercial travelers.

Assemblyman Goldberg of New York introduced a bill providing for the creation of a public park or a playground in the Borough of Manhattan, the site to be bounded by Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth Streets and First and Second Avenues, and not to be less than half a city block in area.

Mr. Eisner of New York put in a bill amending the penal law relative to misleading advertisements, to cover any case where a misleading bill, card, sign, poster, or other means of attracting attention might be displayed in a shop window.

Assemblyman Hammer of the Bronx introduced anew two bills familiar from last year's session, one providing for a five-cent fare on steam roads in the New York City boundaries, the other compelling the New York Central to stop its fast trains in the Bronx.

Civil Service Commission Organizes.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—Gov. Sulzer's graft investigating commission will begin public hearings in the Capitol to-morrow morning, taking up conditions in the Adjutant General's office. Adjt. Gen. Hamilton will be the first witness. John N. Carlisle, John H. Delaney, and H. Gordon Lynn, the Commissioners, with John T. Norton, counsel to the commission, visited the office of the Adjutant General to-day and collected data for the inquiry.

There have been reports that charges relating to the Adjutant General's office had been received, and Gov. Sulzer has stated that all the papers bearing on that office have been turned over to the commission. Mr. Carlisle would not discuss the nature of any of the papers he had received from the Governor. It is the belief of certain persons that the investigation will touch on the friction that was caused by the appointment of Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan as commander of the National Guard and the subsequent appointment by Gov. Dix of Adjt. Gen. Verbeck as Chief of Staff.

The commission held its first meeting to-day in the Executive Chamber. Gov. Sulzer was the first witness. Chairman Carlisle of the commission occupied the Governor's seat. The other commissioners were at his side.

Gov. Sulzer stood while he made a statement to the commission. The Governor's chief object in starting the investigation was to procure a reduction in department expenses. From what he said, it is the belief his force of assistants in the Executive Department will be cut down. In cutting off offices in certain instances, it will be necessary to procure a change of Civil Service rules or a new law permitting the discharge of certain employes. It was pointed out to-day that Gov. Dix had placed on the civil service competitive list all the positions in his office except that of his secretary, the military secretary, and his counsel.

"From an examination," Gov. Sulzer told the commission, "it is my opinion that the force in the Governor's office should be reorganized along lines of greater economy and more efficiency. If the force in the Executive office is reorganized, I feel confident a saving of at least 10 per cent. can be made without crippling its efficiency, and I believe better results will be obtained.

"I am eager to practice every economy, and will be glad to have the members of the commission look into the personnel of the Executive Department carefully, with the view of making such changes as may seem desirable to accomplish the best results."

The Republicans in the Senate took the first opportunity to-day to throw sand into the wheels of the Governor's investigation. Senator Elon P. Brown, minority leader, opposed the bill appropriating $50,000 for the expenses of the investigating commission. He asserted that no investigation that was to be completed in sixty days would take so much money. He said there were many instances of extravagance which were apparent to all and required no investigation.

He added that the Secretary of State's office in the last two years had increased its expenses $175,000. In the same time the expenses of the Education Department had been increased $1,800,000, while the increase in the Election Department was $350,000.

Senator Wagner, speaking for the majority, said the inquiry might not cost $50,000, but the people gladly would give it if the commission required it. He asserted that the inquiry would extend back for several years, and he believed useless offices created in Republican administrations would be wiped out.

The bill was advanced to a third reading without amendment.

Bills authorizing the Adjutant General to reorganize his department by appointing or removing his assistants at his discretion have been advanced to a third reading in the Senate, and will be reported favorably to the Assembly.

THE FAMOUS AMERICAN AUTHORITY

FULLY ILLUSTRATED $1.25 NET

This is technically a new edition of Mr. Elwell's classic work, "AUCTION BRIDGE"; at least he intended it to be such, but the introduction of "Royal Spades," etc., forced a re-writing of the book to such an extent that not one single paragraph is the same in this as in the previous edition. It is virtually a new work; has been revised from cover to cover.

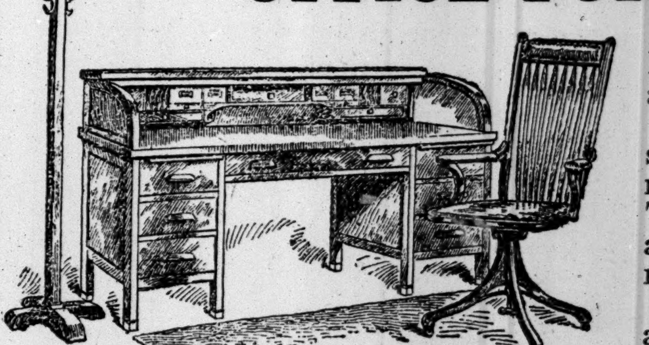
Low Prices, Modern Styles and Fine Variety Mark This Sale of OFFICE FURNITURE



There has been a change in our Office Furniture Section, and the new manager naturally has his own ideas.

One of them is to rid the stock of such odd lots as he found, to make room for new styles of his own selection. This without prejudice to the desirability of the furniture to be thus dismissed.

Another is to make more friends among business men for the GIMBEL Office Furniture Store, with its splendid stock, its expert service, and its important location in this rapidly growing business district.

The new prices will accomplish both of these purposes admirably. Here are some of the pieces involved, in every way fitted for the modern business office:

GIMBEL BROTHERS
BROADWAY NEW YORK THIRTY-THIRD STREET

MAY EXPOSE "ARSON TRUST."

Confesses He Set Fire to His Shop Under Instruction.

Samuel Gold of 63 East 118th Street was arraigned before Judge Crain in General Sessions yesterday and pleaded guilty to arson in the second degree, after he had agreed to make a complete confession and to assist the District Attorney in running down the so-called arson trust.

Gold was jointly indicted with Isidor Stein, a notorious incendiary, who is said by Fire Marshal John F. Prial to have set at least 300 fires in New York City. Stein was recently convicted of arson in the second degree and was sentenced to Sing Sing for not less than twelve nor more than twenty-four years by Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions. Following his plea of guilty, Gold was taken before Assistant District Attorney Weller, who prosecuted the case against Stein, and he told how arson could be bought in this city.

Gold said he was a tailor. He went to the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company, he said, and had his shop insured for $1,200 in the early part of May, 1912. Previous to that time he had had a policy for only $500. He then saw Stein, who lived in the same house, he said, and Stein told him what to do. First it was necessary that Gold's family have an alibi. Gold was to take a train to Brooklyn, and Mrs. Gold was to be removed to a hospital. The insurance policy was left with a friend who was not in the house.

On June 20, 1912, all the arrangements were completed and Mrs. Gold was taken to the Suydenham Hospital and Stein went into Gold's house through a door which had been intentionally left open. Two fire Marshals who were near by, however, saw Stein leave the apartment, and, breaking in, discovered the place was on fire.

Gold said that Stein would first remove all traces of incendiarism. The gasolene would only be poured in one or two articles of furniture, favorably some dish-like receptacles, which were placed in such a position as to be sure to set fire to some article near by.

Gold further told Mr. Weller that at no time did any member of the insurance company inspect his furniture, and that previous to the fire in which Stein was arrested he had collected $525 from the German-American Insurance Company for the loss of furniture in five small rooms. He added that the furniture in question had been removed just prior to the setting afire of the place. He also said that Stein never worked, but posed as a painter, in order to buy large quantities of gasolene without causing suspicion. Gold said that Stein had a gang working under him, and that all these men had fled from the city after Stein's arrest.

MANUFACTURERS IN OPEN WAR ON UNION

100,000 MORE ARE TO GO OUT

Mostly Girls Employed on Ladies' Garments — Congressman Lindquist Supports Strikers' Demands.

Eugene S. Benjamin, President of the Clothing Trade Association, declared yesterday that all negotiations with the striking garment workers had ceased, and that no further negotiations were contemplated. All the members of the association, he said, were united against recognition of the United Garment Workers' Union, and there would be no increase in wages in any department of the trade controlled by his association. He predicted a break in the strike by the end of the week and insisted that strikers were already returning to work.

Mr. Benjamin denied that there had been a joint meeting of the representatives of his association and those of the independents, as reported by David Levine, one of the independent manufacturers, on Monday.

"I was invited to attend a meeting of this other association," said he, "and so was William Goldman, President of the National Association of Clothiers. We had simply been asked to tell the independents what had taken place at the Chamber of Commerce meetings. We did not enter into any agreement as to how to deal with the strikers. If there is to be any settlement, it must come through individual bargaining. We, in our association, are willing to consider all grievances in our own shops, but we cannot be responsible for conditions that may exist elsewhere and over which we have no control."

Strike May Increase Cost of Clothes.

When asked if it were true that 50 cents would be added to the price of every suit of clothes by a 10 per cent. increase in wages, Mr. Benjamin replied:

"Is any one so foolish as to believe that the public won't pay the bill if there is an increase in wages? I don't know of any contemplated 10 per cent. increase. If such an increase were to be paid, it might be necessary to add more than 50 cents, possibly $1, to the cost of a suit of clothes. It would depend on the amount of work done on the clothes. Those questions would adjust themselves easily, however, for prices always seek a common level. The increase would not be greater than the additional cost to the employer."

Mr. Benjamin added that the members of his association were not employing strikebreakers, but were depending on the return of former employes to run their shops full blast next week. Work was going on as usual, he said, in 50 per cent. of the factories.

"We are employing no thugs, either," said Mr. Benjamin. "On the other hand, we have proof that the strike organizers, who must make a great show to hold their jobs, are employing east side gangs to intimidate our workers."

At the headquarters of the strikers the leaders insisted that not a wheel was turning, and that the prospect for a complete victory by the workers was very good.

"We are not employing thugs," said J. J. Manning, the union's publicity man, "but I have here a number of letters sent by various detective agencies to the manufacturers in which the agencies boldly offer to furnish 'husky, nervy' men as strikebreakers and as guards for strikebreakers."

General Secretary Larger, after a conference with Deputy State Controller Fraser, filed with the State Controller a request for an investigation of the methods pursued by these detective agencies. Mr. Manning, with Ephraim Kaufman of the cutters' organization and H. Robinson, an organizer, visited Commissioner Waldo and called his attention to instances of alleged partiality by the police in connection with disturbances that occurred near the factory of Marks Arnheim Inc., at Broadway and Eighth Street. They furnished Commissioner Waldo with affidavits and photographs of those said to have been assaulted by the police.

Congressman Francis O. Lindquist of Greenville, Mich., who sides with the strikers, although he owns garment factories in Michigan and in New York, wrote a letter to Mr. Kaufman in which he said:

> As President of the Canada Mills Company of Greenville and Muskegon, Mich., and of New York, after a full consideration and discussion of the garment workers' demands, I wish to state that I am in hearty sympathy with the strikers, and I believe that the conditions here in New York are such that they are justified in their grievances. You can put me on record as one manufacturer gladly willing to meet any reasonable demands that will tend to better the conditions of the underpaid wage earners, and whatever the final terms of settlement might be I should agree to fully.
> The sub-contract system, where it involves child labor in tenement districts and shops, should be abolished. My election to Congress was largely due to my advocacy of a National eight-hour law and the total abolition of child labor in every industry, and it is my earnest wish that all manufacturers may immediately take the same stand, so that the garment makers' strike may be speedily brought to a close.

At the factory of J. L. Taylor & Co., 693 Broadway, where disorder occurred Monday night at closing time, there was renewed intimidation of the workers last night. Automobiles took away 100 of the girl employes under police protection. Twenty men employes, it was admitted by the manager of the factory, were prepared to spend the whole night in the place for fear of being beaten by strikers if they attempted to go to their homes.

Charles Goldstein, a garment striker on picket duty before Browning King's Cooper Square store, was fined $3 by Magistrate McQuade in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday afternoon on a charge of assault and battery made by Charles Brown, a store detective, of 622 West 137th Street, who said that he had been struck over the head with an umbrella.

100,000 MORE TO STRIKE.

These Will Be Mostly Women and Girls Employed on Ladies' Garments.

At 6 o'clock last night booths were thrown open all over the city to register the vote of the dissatisfied white goods workers for a strike in that industry. It is a foregone conclusion, their leaders say, that the vote will be in favor of a strike. It was intimated that the strike, which will affect about 16,000 workers, mostly girls, might be called by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union before Monday.

The 60,000 workers in the dress and shirt waist industry will begin to vote at 11 A. M. to-day on the proposition to declare a general strike. Voting booths will be opened at the Waist Makers' Union, 6 East Seventeenth Street; the Cutters' Union, 7 West Twenty-first Street; the Woman's Trade Union headquarters, 43 East Twenty-second Street; at 85 East Fourth Street; at Clinton Hall, 151 Clinton Street; at the Brooklyn office of the Cloak Makers' Union, 90 Manhattan Avenue, and at the Brownsville office of the Cloak Makers' Union, 1,772 Pitkin Avenue.

The third division of those contemplating a strike in the ladies' garment industry, the wrapper and kimono makers, numbers between 10,000 and 15,000, confined almost entirely to the East New York section of Brooklyn. The sentiment of these workers, it was said at their union headquarters yesterday, is so overwhelmingly in favor of a strike that a formal vote will not be taken.

It is probable that the leaders of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union will call a simultaneous strike in these three departments of the trade, and that the call will be issued before next Monday. The official method of calling a strike consists in circulating red circulars proclaiming the dictates of the union.

These proposed strikes are independent of the strike now on in the men's garment industry. The various strike leaders resent the insinuation that there is any connection between them. Each division has its own specific demands for better wages and improved conditions.

40 RIOTOUS STRIKERS ARRESTED

They Had Joined in an Attack on Non-Strikers in Williamsburg.

Hundreds of striking garment makers attacked the factory of Schloss Brothers at 317 Scholes Street, Williamsburg, yesterday afternoon, and the reserves from the Stagg Street Police Station had difficulty in quelling them. Nightsticks were freely used on the strikers. About hal fof the crowd were women workers and sympathizers.

The factory building extends through from Scholes Street to Bogart Street, and has a back entrance at 175 Bogart Street. The strikers assembled outside of the building late in the afternoon, and when they received no answer to their demand that the 500 non-strikers in the factory join the strike they divided into two sections, and while one guarded the front entrance the other went to the rear entrance on Bogart Street. They then attacked from both sides, and while some of the strikers entered the building those outside kept up a bombardment with stones and bricks.

Inside the building the workers fought desperately to protect themselves from the strikers. Policemen Rosenfeld, Skivens, and Brenner, hearing the disturbance, hurried to the building, and with their clubs in their hands succeeded in driving most of the strikers to the street. Those who held their ground, however, fought bac kat the police with fists and clubs, and were not subdued until the reserves arrived.

The police arrested twenty men and as many women. The forty were taken to the Manhattan Avenue Police Court, where Magistrate Dodd held them for a hearing on charges of disorderly conduct.

The non-striking employes were escorted to their homes by the police, who feared that the strikers might attack them. The factory is now under police guard.

C. W. Marks Estate Worth $883,109.

An appraisal of the estate of Clarence W. Marks, who died in Chicago on Dec. 18, 1909, shows an estate valued at $883,109.16, of which $150,000 represents the decedent's interest in the C. W. Marks Shoe Company of Chicago. Promissory notes to the amount of $422,000 are enumerated. The New York estate is 200 shares of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, valued at $15,950. Among the 150 bequests in Mr. Marks's will are $5,000 each to the Hahnemann Hospital of Chicago, the Charleston (N. H.) Public Library, the Gilbert A. Davis Library of Felchville, Vt., and the Chicago Orphan Asylum.

CUT OFF WITH $5, TO SHARE IN $18,000

WILL FOUND IN BANK BOX

Besides Cutting Off Wife, Testament Makes but Two Small Bequests for Care of Graves.

The will of Rabbi Louis Levy, who was burned to death on Dec. 3 on the top floor of 2 East 112th Street, was offered for probate in the Surrogates' Court yesterday. It was written by Rabbi Levy, and in it he tells a story of domestic unhappiness, and cuts off his wife with $5. But the estate is believed to be worth about $18,000, and Mrs. Levy will get her widow's share. The will makes but two small bequests, and no disposition is made of the residue.

Rabbi Levy had been separated from his wife for several years. He was a tall man, 80 years old, and very reticent about his affairs. He lived with his housekeeper, Josephine Schiffer, in the house in East 112th Street.

The old man confided in no one, and apparently had no intimate friends or relatives. Even his housekeeper knew little about him. All his papers he kept locked in a desk. He told his housekeeper that if anything happened to him she would find in his desk instructions as to his affairs. It was known that the rabbi had been married twice, and that he had a wife living. Of her he would not speak.

His Desk Burned Up.

After the fire the firemen found the old man dead. Mrs. Schiffer was rescued by a fireman and is now in the home of the Junior League, Seventy-eighth Street and the East River. The fire destroyed the desk and its contents, and when Mrs. Schiffer, remembering what Levy had told her, went to obtain the papers she found only the charred remains. His body was removed to the morgue and the Chebra Nessias Chein Ubikur Cholim, of which he had been a member for fifty years, had the body buried in Salem Fields Cemetery. It receives a bequest.

There were rumors that the rabbi left considerable property and a will directing its disposal. Some time after his death Mrs. Schiffer visited M. Strassman, a lawyer, of 853 Broadway, and informed him that she was sure that Levy left both property and a will. She remembered that once when he was leaving the house he had told her that he was going to a German bank.

Shortly after the death of the rabbi Maurice Steiner, acting for Mrs. Laura Freund Levy, the rabbi's wife, had taken out letters of administration appointing his client administratrix for the estate. There was no known estate at that time. Mr. Strassman at once notified Mr. Steiner that he believed that Rabbi Levy had property in a German bank. An investigation was started, and it was found that Louis Levy was the holder of a safe deposit box in the Germania Bank, Spring Street and the Bowery. A week ago in the presence of a representative of the State Controller the box was opened. It contained eight bankbooks, showing on deposit in different savings banks about $16,000, and diamonds and other pieces of jewelry, worth several thousand dollars.

The box also contained a will, written by the rabbi, and he had as notary public asknowledged the signatures of the two witnesses.

Accuses Wife of Desertion.

The will, dated Nov. 12, 1910, provides that the wife be cut off with $5. Levy charges in it that his wife left him and insulted him very often. He charges his wife's brother, Isidor Freund, with taking her in against his will.

The will gives details of a family quarrel. The rabbi says that Freund often insulted him, and continues:

> A proposition on the part of my said wife * * * having her full consent was made to me to the effect that if I, while living, turn over to my wife all the money which I possess, then, and not until then, would they consent for her to live and care for me, which proposition I declined with thanks. Moreover, I gave her at that time $50 under the condition to live with me; she promised to do so; after she got the $50 she never showed up to me; she left me about six years ago or longer. About four years ago I notified her family that I was sick; I did not see my wife Laura or any of my family.

Rabbi Levy is said to have been 60 years old and his wife 30 years when they were married. The will provides that $550 be given to Temple Emanu-El for the care of the grave of himself and Nain Levy, his first wife, and their two children.

The nephews have put in a claim for a share of the estate. It is believed the matter will be settled without litigation.

It's Thrifty To Buy Hub-Mark Rubbers

As a nation we have always been criticised for extravagance—especially for our hit or miss ways of buying goods about which we know little or nothing.

All this is passing. Progressive manufacturers have come out into the open to back up their goods. Now we expect it and hesitate to buy anything except by name.

Rubbers, for instance. Surely, no one will continue to buy unknown brands when a factory, well-known for sixty years, steps forward ready to guarantee every pair it makes.

When buying rubbers, look for the Hub-Mark. It's evidence they are made by a factory that is in the business to stay and counts upon selling you rubbers season after season.

CHINESE SUFFRAGIST PUTS MODESTY FIRST

WALK TO ALBANY, THE IDEA!

Still, "Women Are Women All Over the World," Though Her Western Sisters Think Too Much of Beauty.

Dr. Yamei Kin, who has come to New York to give lectures on the Chinese Republic and Chinese women, received a TIMES reporter at Hotel Prince George yesterday. She is the head of the Pei-yang Woman's Medical School and Hospital, and visiting physician to the Widows' Home, the Girls' Refuge, and the Infant Asylum, all Government institutions. She is a typical Chinese progressive woman, open-minded to anything foreign which she considers an improvement on things. Having been educated in the Woman's Medical College of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children, she adapted Western methods of medical practice. She has never adapted Western dress because she considers her native costume more modest and convenient.

When she was asked of some of the striking differences between women in the East and West, she answered:

"Women are women all over the world."

"Of course, I admit," said she, "that there are some minor differences between the Western women and their Eastern sisters. Even among the women in the East there are some differences in personality and mentality. For instance, the Japanese women are more self-sacrificing than their Chinese sisters. A Japanese woman sacrifices everything for the sake of her home and family, but a Chinese woman does not. A Chinese woman thinks about herself more than a Japanese woman does. A Chinese woman has more individual characteristics than a Japanese woman. In this respect she is more like an American woman than a Japanese woman is. But a Japanese woman is better disciplined and has more self-control than a Chinese woman.

"The Eastern women are reserved and thinking to themselves, while the Western women are advertising themselves in public. There are many suffragists in China, for instance, but they will not go so far as New York suffragists. The idea of marching to Albany! Of course, they can get their names published in the newspapers, but this will not help their cause a bit. Why don't they give the world some object lessons to prove that women are just as able as men?"

"Then, what do you think of your native suffragists in Canton, who were just as militant as the English suffragists, in breaking windows and throwing stones at office buildings?" she was asked.

"They are not typical Chinese suffragists. You can count militant suffragettes in China on your fingers. The woman suffrage movement in China is very strong, but you don't hear much about it, because Chinese women are silently working for the cause. The militant method is against the nature of the Chinese women.

"The reason there were some foolish militant suffragettes in China was because they misunderstood the idea of the republican form of government. After the revolution there was a social unrest in China. Many of the Chinese people were amazed at the downfall of the Manchu Dynasty that had oppressed the Chinese for three centuries. When the republic was established they felt as if they had been the birds in the Manchu cage, and, freed at last, they thought they could do anything in their own way. Some of them disregarded the law and social order. It was during this brief period of misunderstanding that the handful of Chinese suffragettes employed a militant method.

"The English suffragettes are employing militant methods simply because Englishmen don't listen to what women say, and they are not so kind to women as American men are. And American men give to women more freedom than Englishmen do. English husbands want to have everything in their own way.

"Men in China are learning from American men, and Chinese women will not follow in the steps of English women.

"Western women care for their beauty and youth more than the Eastern women. The Western women grieve when they lose either, while we Eastern women philosophically accept the influence of old age.

"I mean to say that Western women care for youth and beauty too much. In big social meetings in America and Europe I see many ladies wearing 'fast' dresses. These ladies are vainly trying to show off their physical beauty—or to suggest that they have it. It would be impossible for an Eastern woman of fine taste to wear the dresses I often see in America and Europe."

Dr. Kim said the revolution revolutionized Chinese men and women mentally as well as politically and that the Chinese girls would never again be forced by their parents in marriage.

"Marriage for love," said she, "will be practiced hereafter all over China."

Special to The New York Times.

AIKEN, S. C., Jan. 7.—Frederick O. Beach will be brought to trial at the February term of the General Sessions Court. He is charged with assault upon his wife with intent to kill. The Beaches were prominent members of the Winter colony here. The alleged assault occurred on the night of Feb. 26 last, when Mrs. Beach was called out of her home, felled with a club, and her throat clashed with a pocketknife.

That the prosecuting attorney intends putting to the test the evidence worked up last Spring by Detective Baughn on which the warrant for Beach was issued is indicated by the fact that for the first time since he completed his investigation Baughn has been called into conference by the prosecuting attorney, Baughn coming from Atlanta for that purpose a few days ago.

In addition to the counsel retained by Beach last Winter, Congressman James F. Byrnes, a member of the Congressional committee investigating the Money Trust, who lives here, will come from Washington to assist the defense, giving Beach eleven lawyers. State's Attorney Gunter will have no help.

It was at first tentatively arranged that Mayor Gyles should assist in the prosecution, but he will become a witness against Beach, as it was he who secured from Beach the pocketknife on which blood stains were found and which is one of the main links in the chain of circumstantial evidence against Beach.

Mr. Beach's lawyer says he is exceedingly anxious that the case be brought to trial, as he is confident he will be acquitted.

A very material witness for the prosecution will be the man whose identity is still a secret, who, hidden behind a bookcase in the Mayor's office, overheard a conversation between Mr. and Mrs. Beach when they thought they were alone.

ARCHITECTS MOVE TO PUT HOEFER OUT

NOMINATION IS HELD UP

Three Architects Will Be Named to Aid State Commission—Lack of Experience the Complaint.

Members of the American Institute of Architects have been asked by Gov. William Sulzer to join with him in a thorough investigation of the State Architect's office, as the result of a protest made to him on Monday by Robert D. Kohn, President of the New York Chapter, against the reappointment of Herman W. Hoefer as head of the department. Mr. Hoefer's name was sent to the Senate last Wednesday by Gov. Sulzer, but the Senate withheld confirmation on Monday night, at the request of Senator Elon R. Brown. Mr. Kohn said yesterday that the institute had nothing to do with that development, but he seemed highly pleased with the attitude taken by Mr. Sulzer and warmly commended him.

"I told Mr. Sulzer that we objected to Mr. Hoefer because we did not think he had the experience necessary and that we believed so important an office required the direction of a man of unusual ability," said Mr. Kohn.

"'I agree with you thoroughly,' the Governor said; 'I believe the head of the department should be a most efficient man. I thought Mr. Hoefer was just the man for the place.'

"Then Mr. Sulzer mentioned the commission which he has appointed to investigate the different departments, including that of the State Architect, and asked us to appoint a committee to aid him. 'If the facts show that Mr. Hoefer is inefficient and action on my part is warranted, then I can remove him,' the Governor told me. He said he would give the committee plenty of authority.

"The invitation to aid in an investigation of the department was promptly accepted," added Mr. Kohn. "The Governor said he would like to have the committee represent the whole State, and to-day I sent word to A. L. Brockway of Syracuse, President of the Central New York Chapter of the institute, and Edward B. Green, President of the Buffalo Chapter, asking each to select an architect of the highest standing who would offer his services in this investigation. I shall select the third man. Gov. Sulzer's attitude seemed to me a rather novel one, and one which should be highly commended. There is no reason I can see for questioning his sincerity, and if he continues to follow that course much good should result to the State. He asked to have the committee call upon him first and talk things over."

Mr. Kohn said no one seemed to know much about Mr. Hoefer's experience or qualifications, and that was the reason the institute was against him. He was asked if there had been any specific charges against Mr. Hoefer since his appointment by Gov. Dix last April.

"No, but there have been complaints that the office was not progressing as it ought to," he replied.

Mr. Hoefer was named by Gov. Dix just before he sailed for Europe last Spring to succeed Franklin B. Ware, a Hughes appointee. He was a member of neither the American Institute nor the New York Society of Architects, and little was known about him among members of the profession. There was some talk then that he had obtained the position through political influence.

"Not long after his appointment by Gov. Dix," said Mr. Kohn yesterday, "the New York Chapter of the Institute adopted a formal protest. I expected to see Gov. Sulzer before it was time for him to make his appointment, but owing to the fact that he remained in Washington until the end of the month, and after that was busy with other affairs, the conference wasn't held. Saturday, when I heard of Hoefer's reappointment I telegraphed to Mr. Sulzer asking for an appointment. The letter, fixing to-morrow as the date arrived to-day. On Monday, however, I heard that the appointment would come before the Senate for confirmation that evening, and decided to take a chance and go to Albany at once without awaiting a reply. Charles Butler, Recording Secretary of the Chapter, went with me. Gov. Sulzer seemed glad to see us.

"The institute is always glad to co-operate with the State Department and give any assistance we can for the benefit of the State, but we believe that the man at the head of the office should be most capable. He has under his supervision the repairs and alterations of all State buildings, and there is much important work in sight."

Fifty-six years of Hackett-Carhart history fail to reveal values that even approach those of to-day. Another half century to come will hardly see their equal.

Late last September, after a brief receivership, the creditors accepted 50 cents on the dollar. The consequent values were record-making.

But still more wonderful are those of to-day. Prices have been forced still lower by the necessity for a complete and immediate reorganization.

Only the freshness of the merchandise—the newness of the fabrics, the lateness of the styles—can afford greater surprise than the values represented.

Illegal Advertisements

Judge Foster of the Court of General Sessions affirmed the decision of the City Magistrate who decided that it was illegal to stuff newspapers with unauthorized advertisements.

The ordinance under which this conviction was secured is as follows:

> "No person shall throw, cast or distribute in or upon any of the streets, avenues or public places, or in front yards or stoops, any hand bills, circulars, cards or other advertising."

Not only is the advertiser enjoined from causing foreign matter to be inserted in newspapers, but newsdealers are also prohibited from distributing newspapers containing such foreign inserts.

The Circulation Manager of The New York Times receives complaints of readers annoyed by this objectionable kind of advertising. Informants should give name and address of newsdealer.

SERVIA'S CLAIMS ABSURD, SAYS KONTA

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An article on the "Servian Question" in your issue of Jan. 5, by Prof. M. I. Pupin of Columbia University, challenges my reply. It is a question of facts, and to them I will confine myself, contenting myself for the rest with the assurance to Prof. Pupin's readers that I am not, never have been, and never shall be "Austria-Hungary's mouthpiece." In justice to myself, and for the information of the American public, I will add, however, that "Austrian agent" and similar terms are the habitual answers of all Servians to whoever disagrees with them on political matters. Through much free use they have lost all further significance to those who know.

Now for the facts. Prof. Pupin mixes up, in his first charge, three different trials—the Agram high treason trial, the suit for slander brought against Dr. Heinrich Friedjung of the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna by three Croatian Deputies, and the trial, at Belgrade, of one Vasitch for self-confessed forgery of documents involving the Servian Government in a conspiracy against Austro-Hungarian rule over her Serb subjects. The three trials were closely connected, and originated in the publication of a pamphlet, "Finale," by Georg Nastitch, in which this individual claimed to expose a vast conspiracy for pan-Servian emancipation by revolution, to put it comprehensively. He further asserted that, disgusted with the tactics of the party, especially with its plot to kill King Nicholas of Montenegro, the other Slav leader, he left the movement, whose headquarters were in Belgrade. According to the Servians, Nastitch was an "Austrian agent," of course, but it is a fact that among the documents he published there were some of unquestionable authenticity. Another individual, one Vasitch, a young Belgrade journalist, sold to an attache of the staff of Baron Forgach, Austro-Hungarian Minister at Belgrade, documents to the same effect, claimed to have been stolen from the Servian Foreign Office. Prof. Pupin, who does not stand alone in this opinion, holds that Forgach himself actually instigated forgeries, with the passive connivance of Aehrenthal, who, so the story runs, used them knowingly in order to convince the Emperor and the heir apparent of the need of the immediate annexation of Bosnia-Herzegovina on account of maturing concerted plans in Croatia and Servia.

The matter became so mixed up that it remains for the future historian to untangle it. Only partisan views of it are possible at present. Prof. Masaryk of Prague, Czech member of the Austrian Parliament and of the Austro-Hungarian delegation, interpellated Count Aehrenthal on the subject and demanded the production of the forged documents. The Foreign Minister denied their existence, and, furthermore, defended the honor and good faith of Baron Forgach, who, be it added, remained in good standing at Belgrade through it all. One has the choice between the unlikely theory of Aehrenthal's need of such methods to carry out his plans and the more plausible one of the deception of an attaché of legation in Belgrade, accepted without deep questioning at Vienna. The high treason trials at Agram, resulting from this affair, took place before Croatian Judges. The forty accused Croatians were kept in confinement for two years, because the offense of which they were accused is not one admitting of bail. They were condemned to short terms of imprisonment, which were immediately remitted by the Emperor. Vasitch was condemned to five years' imprisonment.

As to Servia's "historical claims" to Durazzo, it may be as well to point out that "historical claims" in the Near East are confused, confusing, and unreliable. Venice held that port during more than half of the thirteenth century; Servia possessed it for a few years longer than that in the fourteenth; Venice held it thereafter once more for nearly 200 years, when the Turks took it. Therefore the Servian "historical claim" is not overwhelmingly strong. It is the same with Ragusa, the home of the renascence of Serb literature. It was part of the domain of Venice from 1205 to 1358, from which year to 1526 it was a dependency of Hungary. Belgrade itself has been held successively by Greeks, Bulgarians, Hungarians, Austrians, and Turks. Indeed, "historic claims" in the Balkans are strangely confusing. As for the Serb literary renascence at Ragusa, that was the work of Western—that is, of Roman Catholic, not Greek Orthodox Serbs; in other words, of Serbs who had absorbed the civilization of the West.

Oh, yes, the gousiars! I almost forget them. The Southern Slavs, since their emancipation from the Turkish yoke, have interpreted the message of these Westernized singers of theirs, so Prof. Pupin says, as "meaning perfect religious and political freedom for all." In burned, ruined, blood-drenched Macedonia, for instance? In the horrors of that night of the capture of Salonika, perhaps? On the march through Albania, no doubt? The shocking mutilation of the corpse of Queen Draga may have been still another proof of the triumph of their teachings? And why did the Turkish Jews in this country, and the far more numerous Jews of different nationalities, now resident here, but at some time or other living in Turkey, unanimously express their hope for Turkish victory at the beginning of this war for the sake of their coreligionists in the Balkans? Since Prof. Pupin inquires, I will tell him that the Jews of Austria and Hungary are quite comfortable and contented with their lot, thank you.

And now Bosnia-Herzegovina—unhappy, downtrodden country! All foreign authorities agree upon the fruitful work done there by Austria-Hungary, but they may be all mistaken. The agrarian problem has not been solved in that unfortunate country, according to Prof. Pupin. The answer is that it is being solved by the agrarian banks established by the Government. As for the oppression of the Serbs there by Austria, the majority of the civil officials are Austrian Slavs, appointed on account of their better understanding of the population than Austro-Hungarians could bring to their task. There are public primary schools, and the four denominations—Orthodox, Catholic, Moslem, and Jew—have perfect liberty to conduct educational establishments of their own under their own clergymen. Institutions for the higher education of youth have been established, and if the country has not progressed educationally so fast as it could, it is on account of the jealousies of the four religions among themselves.

"Security for Government officials?" Oh, no, security for Christian and Moslem and Jew, the kind of security that Macedonia might have had these many years if it had been blessed with a Government like that of the annexed provinces. And as for illiteracy, according to the latest edition of "Encyclopaedia Britannica," only 17 per cent. of the population of the Kingdom of Servia could read and write in the year 1910. According to all accessible authorities the proportion of Bosnia-Herzegovina is more than 50 per cent.

I had intended not to "drag in Russia" again, in Prof. Pupin's words, but find myself forced to do so in the end. The Southern Austrian Slavs, according to him, know that the Serbs of Servia and Montenegro are the natural leaders of "this movement." What movement? The Panslavism that is "an intellectual union and co-operation," no doubt. The other, the "militant" movement, we know now, is an Austro-Hungarian forgery.

The fundamental error of Servia is her sudden belief that she can stand alone, that she has become a "power" after a brief war that has completely exhausted her and her far wiser allies, notwithstanding the utter unpreparedness of their enemy. It is this that constitutes the "swelled head" of Belgrade. It will take the Balkan nationalities a generation to recover from their efforts in numbers of men and in material resources. They need peace, long peace. The way to it has been pointed out by Bulgaria. It leads to the West, to closer relations with its civilization. Servia will find these relations through the full economic rights Austria-Hungary has offered her at Durazzo. A premature attempt to stand alone on the part of the Balkan monarchies will but lead to renewed intrigues in their peninsula, to further wars and alarums of wars on a gigantic scale. These nationalities should remember that they have serious international duties now as well as national rights.

Prof. Pupin's reference to Hungary as a "province of Austria" is, no doubt, a slip of the pen.

ALEXANDER KONTA.

THE VOLPE SYMPHONY.

Mme. Clara Butt, the English Contralto, Makes Her First Appearance.

The second concert of the Volpe Symphony Orchestra, given last evening in Carnegie Hall, was made notable by the soloist of the occasion, perhaps more than by the playing of the orchestra; though this evinced a marked improvement, and, in Schumann's D minor symphony, that opened the concert, was highly creditable. The string players have gained a greater smoothness and homogeneity of tone than they have shown in previous seasons, and the orchestra as a whole plays with something more of finish. The performance of Beethoven's third "Leonore" overture was less satisfactory than that of the symphony. The string players did themselves further credit in Grieg's two "Elegiac Melodies."

The soloist was Mme. Clara Butt, the English contralto, who reappeared in New York after a dozen years or so. The greatest contralto voices seem recently to have come from England or to be furnished at least by English blood. Mme. Butt's is unquestionably one of the most remarkable of these voices in its range, power, and quality. And it is still to be reckoned as a remarkable voice, though it is no longer what it was, in any of these respects. The regrettable thing about it is that misuse seems evidently to be the reason why it is not.

The voice is far from equalized in its different registers, and there are marked differences of equality through its range, unpleasant to a sensitive ear. It seemed also last evening as though some of the lower tones were no longer as serviceable as they should be. But Mme. Butt's singing had a power, a force of expression, a sweep and domination, and in many respects a beauty of tone that made a deep impression upon her listeners. One of her most excellent qualities is her clearness of enunciation that makes the text of the music she sings clearly intelligible to her listeners, and they will pardon her much for this.

Mme. Butt sang Beethoven's Italian aria, "In questa Tomba," and the air "Divinités du Styx," from Gluck's "Alceste," and later two of Sir Edward Elgar's cycle of "Sea Pictures," called "Sabbath Morning at Sea," and "Where Corals Lie." There was an imposing quality in her performance of the airs by Beethoven and Gluck that could not fail of communication to the audience, which was deeply impressed by Mme. Butt's singing. Elgar's songs seem lacking in spontaneity, and in a sense of musical beauty; but Mme. Butt sang them with great fervor and conviction that gave them a momentary enhancement of their real value. It is needless to say that her performances called forth much enthusiasm from the audience.

MR. CLEMENT'S RECITAL.

The French Tenor Sings French Songs in Aeolian Hall.

Mr. Edmond Clément, who has gained popularity and appreciation in New York, gave a song recital in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. It was his first appearance in New York this season, and the concert was heard by a large audience. His voice and his artistic polished style exercised the same attraction they have before. Mr. Clément's range is necessarily limited by the limits of his vocal resources and the style which best befits them and himself. His voice is one of the lightest of tenors; and it was heard to the best advantage in Aeolian Hall.

Mr. Clément's programme consisted entirely of modern French songs, with some "Bergerettes" by Weckerlin. He sings best those of delicacy and grace, of refined and tender sentiment; and of such songs, in a pretty large variety, his programme was mostly composed. When he undertakes something more robust, as Saint-Saëns's "Sabre en Main," with which he began his programme, he is obviously, less at home; and this first song was perhaps the least satisfactory of what he did.

There are finish and praise in Mr. Clément's performance, a sense of proportion and fine taste; and, within the bounds that circumscribe him, felicitous expression of true feeling, imagination, and even passion. There were pretty and vivacious songs by Bruneau, ("Mignonne";) Widor, ("Enfant de Catane";) Huë, ("A des Oiseaux," very graceful,) and Fauré's sombre "Automne"; a beautiful "Nocturne" by Chausson, sustained in melody and poetical in mood; a gay song by Hahn, "Le Printemps," dedicated to Mr. Clément, with a particularly pretty accompaniment, and Debussy's "Beau Soir," clearer in outline than many of his songs; the Oriental serenade from Bizet's opera, "Le Pécheur de Perles"; also songs by Erlanger, Godard, and Charpentier.

Massenet's brilliant "Menteuse Chérie" was much liked, and in response to the applause Mr. Clément sang with harp accompaniment Des Grieux's song from the second act of Massenet's "Manon"—and then "da capo, pianissimo," in response to more applause. He has often sung it, and as he did yesterday, with tenderness and ardor, with fine-spun delicacy and nicety of phrase. These admirable qualities prevalent in the recital cloy if unrelieved, and Mr. Clément was wise enough to make his programme short. Whether it was either wisdom or courtesy to begin it twenty-five minutes late without apology or explanation is another question.

Beth-El Sisterhood's Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Beth-El Sisterhood will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Sisterhood Home, 329 and 331 East Sixty-second Street. Mrs. Borden Harriman will speak on "The Social Problems of the Poor." The annual report of the President, Mrs. Lazarus Kohns, will survey the year's activities. A symposium to discuss additional needs of Sisterhood work by various Presidents of other Sisterhoods is being arranged. After the meeting tea will be served.

WILLCOX NECESSARY TO TRANSIT PLANS

ONLY TWO OBJECTIONS

Mitchel Does Not Agree with His Ideas and Connolly has Another Candidate for the Job.

Mayor Gaynor and all the other members of the Board of Estimate, excepting President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen and Borough President Connolly of Queens, sent a letter yesterday to Gov. Sulzer requesting the re-appointment of William R. Willcox as Chairman of the Public Service Commission, when his term of office expires on Feb. 1.

In this letter they point out that the Board of Estimate and the commission have agreed on a comprehensive plan for the extension of the city's rapid transit system at a five-cent fare. This has been the result of almost two years of negotiation, and the contracts will be ready for signature within the next few weeks. The letter continues:

"As soon as they have been signed, the Public Service Commission will enter upon a new period of relations with the companies, in which the terms upon which agreement has been reached must be properly interpreted and enforced; subcontracts negotiated for both construction and equipment; legalization given to various routes essential to the system that have not as yet received the approval of the courts; the entire vast undertaking, in short, brought properly under way. It is hardly necessary to point out that, to the City of New York, this period will be of scarcely less importance than the period of contract making that has been passed."

The members of the Board of Estimate, who sign the letter, then say that the consummation of the work should not be imperiled or delayed through any change in the Chairmanship of the commission, and point out that Mr. Willcox, through the entire negotiations, has been in constant touch with the representatives of the board.

"We believe," they say, "that the loss, at this critical time, of his highly-trained services and his expert knowledge of the situation with which the city authorities must continue to deal, would be a municipal misfortune. In our judgment it would result, inevitably, in confusion and delay at a time when the people have been promised definitely that the system upon which so much preparatory labor has been spent would now be pressed to an early completion."

President Mitchel, who voted last Summer against the report of Borough President McAneny's committee on the subway negotiations, and refused to sign this letter to the Governor, said yesterday:

"I have the most friendly feelings toward Chairman Willcox, but, it seems to me, that to sign this letter would be to indorse the negotiations which the commission has had on the subway question. I do not believe in the policy of the commission, and I consequently could not do anything which would seem to indorse them."

President Connolly is understood to have a candidate of his own for the succession to the Public Service Commission in place of Chairman Willcox.

On the other hand, it is felt at the offices of the commission that no one has been a better friend of Queens than Chairman Willcox. He has made the bargain with the Interborough by which the Steinway Tunnel will be turned to account at the earliest possible moment, and he has placed the Woodside and Corona lines from the Queensboro Bridge first on the programme of the commission of all the routes to be constructed outside of those which would be included in the Triborough system if the dual system should fall through.

ANSWERS IN

NEXT SUNDAY

There will be answers, too, to many other questions which practical motorists are asking; and automobiling people are an inquisitive tribe, because there is always something for them to learn about their favorite means of recreation, or business, or sport. The motor car, by the way, is the only modern invention which is equally an agent of pleasure and of commerce.

The Special Automobile Section will be unique. Heretofore there have been published numerous collections of articles about motor cars, but this will be the first concise summary of all the important points of current interest in motordom. That is saying a great deal, for the automobile situation has more variously interesting aspects than almost any other one subject. The motor industry has grown more rapidly than any other in the world. More Americans are concerned over motoring than over any other one business or pleasure, or diversion—in fact, it is estimated that there is an automobile for every 110 inhabitants of the United States. So it is no wonder that so many questions must be answered about motor cars.

In the Special Automobile Section will be both articles and advertisements. To keep these two divisions distinct, is the function of the newspaper which issues such a section. That is wherein will lie the value of next Sunday's motor issue. The articles about all phases of automobiling will stand on their own merits. The advertisements will tell their own stories. Each will be independent of the other. The Times is confident that it is providing entertaining and instructive reading for the tourist, the business man, the car owner, the driver—and for those who visit the Annual Motor Car Show opening Saturday evening. The advertisers are announcing their 1913 cars and accessories in the Special Section only, because they know that the Section will be worth reading, and that it will be read by thousands.

Many illustrations will embellish the articles and news items. One series of photographs will show how the "horseless carriage" of twenty years ago has developed into the palace limousine and touring car of to-day. Another will show women drivers operating light cars adapted specially to their needs. The costliest car of the season will be pictured alongside the cheapest. The tourist will be seen on asphalted city streets, on forest by-paths, and climbing slopes of the Rocky Mountains. On every page will be pictures of motoring scenes which the motorist knows, or would like to know.

AMATEUR HOCKEY SEASON UNDER WAY

The Amateur Hockey League season opened at St. Nicholas Rink last night with a rough, spectacular game between the Hockey Club and St. Nicholas, the Hockey Club seven winning by a score of 3 to 1. Two of the players on the winning team stood out prominently from the other skaters, Riley Castleman, the former New York A. C. star, who has been off the ice for two years, and Fred Lewis, a new goal tender, playing an important part in the Hockey Club's victory.

It was Castleman's speedy rushes down the ice, his elusive dodging, and ability to keep the puck at the end of his stick that baffled St. Nick's defense, and, although they checked hard and often, Castleman outguessed them easily. He was the same star performer he was in former years. Lewis, the little Hockey Club net guardian, made some dazzling stops in the second half, turning off a volley of shots, which kept him busy batting and kicking the rubber away from the net. He had a total of 20 stops in the game, many of them being made with great rapidity when the St. Nicholas rush line was jammed in front of the Hockey Club net, smashing their sticks about wildly trying to push the disk past the goal tnder. Peabody and Loutrell kept Lewis worried with a succession of hard drives, but the goal tender measured up to his task like a veteran.

There was hardly a moment during the second half when two or more players were not sprawling out on the ice as a result of sturdy checking. They jammed each other against the rink banks with no idea of gentleness.

Both teams began to rush matters after the first face-off. The playing was fast and furious, and each team had scored a goal before the game was a minute old. At the start Peabody caught the puck from Stanley and rushed down the ice with it. When the Hockey Club backs banged into him he quickly passed to Cheu, who pushed the puck past Lewis. The trick was turned in just thirty-seven seconds. The Hockey Club made it 1 all less than ten seconds afterward, when the puck was pushed in front of St. Nick's net, and through the group of players Castleman crowded his way and drove the disk past Washburn.

Castleman broke loose several times and brought the puck to the net, but it was clevery turned aside by the defense. Jimmy Britton of the Hockey Club tore down the ice in spectacular fashion several times, but bumped into trouble before he got within striking distance. Peabody and Cheu worked together and did some pretty passing, but Lewis was too much of an obstacle at the last stage of their runs.

The prettiest play came two minutes before the end of the first half, when Castleman swept down the ice swiftly, dodging his way past every St. Nicholas player until he was alone at St. Nick's goal. He fooled Washburn with a bluff drive, and drew him from the net and scored a goal with no opposition. Britton had a scramble with Peabody and was ruled off the ice for hooking with his stick.

After six minutes of play in the second period Castleman made another spectacular trip down the rink and shot the rubber to MacKenzie, who lost no time in scoring another goal. The St. Nick players concentrated their attention on Castleman, and had him successfully boxed several times, and the Hockey Club star, in his efforts to free himself, was twice sent from the ice for tripping.

The St. Nicholas team made a desperate effort to overtake its rival in this period and kept up a steady fusillade of shots at the Hockey Club net, where Lewis distinguished himself, banging the puck back into the rink.

At the rink to-night the Yale and Columbia teams will clash. The line-up:

Hockey Club.	Position.	St. Nicholas.

FOR NEW BRIDLE PATH.

Park Commissioner Stover and Board of Estimate to Confer This Week.

That action in connection with the building of a new bridle path in Central Park, a matter which has been under advisement for over a quarter of a century, gives promise of fulfillment at an early date is evidenced by the proposed session which is to be held this week to the possible end of a request for an appropriation by the Park Department for the purpose.

It is stated that it is almost a certainty that an appropriation will be granted because of the almost universal desires which have been expressed by equestrians for what is conceded to be a necessary outlet from Central Park to the Riverside section.

The route of the proposed new path will permit horseback riders to continue their journeys beyond McGowns Pass Tavern north to 110th Street and Seventh Avenue, from which point it is expected that arrangements will be perfected toward continuing the path up Seventh Avenue, as well as across 110th Street, a parkway extension, to Riverside Drive, which is at present the only thoroughfare in the city with a bridle path, aside from those in Central Park.

It is estimated that probably $1,000,000 will be needed to put the project through in a proper manner, and it is agreed that with the ever-increasing numbers of devotees of the pastime the paths will be of greater service to equestrians than the Harlem River Speedway, which cost several millions, is to horsemen, and will not cost anything like as much in proportion for its upkeep.

Commissioner Charles B. Stover is very keen on the subject of aiding the lovers of horseback riding in their contention for the new paths. He stated yesterday that the topography of the land in the park north of 102d Street, and contiguous to that which can be used for the proposed new path, is very picturesque with its rises and depressions.

He also stated that it was interesting to know that twenty-five years ago Calvert Vaux planned a similar scheme with possibly the only difference being that his route was outlined to bring the riders out of the Park at 110th Street and Eighth Avenue, as against the most recent intention of having the entrance and exit at 110th Street and Seventh Avenue.

The Park Commissioner says that the difficulties of building a path in that section of the park will be great, but that the demands which have been expressed for the new paths have been of such importance as to warrant the conference which is to be held this week between the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and himself.

In order to obtain a comprehensive idea of just what the territory will look like if the plan is consummated, it is stated that a landscape gardener has been giving considerable attention to the staking out of the land through which the path will run.

Many sessions have been held by Commissioner Stover and Borough President McAneny in connection with the proposed improvement, with various opinions and expressions as to the advisability of using Eighty-sixth, Ninety-sixth, 106th, and 110th Streets as outlets from the Park for riders, each of which was to have a strip several feet wide for the purpose.

PEKINGESE IN SOCIETY.

Little Pets Have a Dog Show of Their Own at Waldorf-Astoria.

Pekingese dogs were admired and petted in the Gold and White Room at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday, at the gathering of the Pekingese Club of America. After the regular meeting of the club, which was attended by more than forty society women, the members held a dog show of their own and many of the winners at the club's recent show at the Plaza were on exhibition, while the fanciers judged them and studied the various breeds.

The committee which had charge of the show at the Plaza made a very encouraging report, which showed that for the first time the club undertaking was a financial success. The attendance was larger this year than ever before and the club really made money, whereas in former years there has always been a deficit of from $500 to $1,000. There has been during the past year or so a general increase in interest in the rare little canines from the Celestial Kingdom. The club members have made rapid strides in the advancement and improvement of the breed in this country.

Mrs. Benjamin S. Guinness, President of the club, announced that three new Challenge Cups had been presented for the next competition. One was presented by Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Jr., one by the Hotel Plaza, and another by Mrs. Michael Dreicer, who has already given the club several trophies.

At yesterday's meeting the club passed a vote of thanks to J. P. Morgan, James Gordon Bennett, and others, who gave trophies and stimulated the interest in the Pekingese show. The winners of the special cups were presented with the trophies. Mrs. Louis de Lancey Ward's Sheng-Dai took the $500 James Gordon Bennett trophy, the Pomfield trophy, and the Dreicer Challenge Cup.

Mrs. M. E. Harby's Nowata Chum of Egham was presented with the $500 silver cup presented by J. P. Morgan, the Mrs. Benjamin S. Guinness trophy, and the Members' trophy.

Among those enrolled in membership in the club, and who have taken much interest in the improvement of the Pekingese are Mrs. Philip M. Lydig, Mrs. James A. Burden, Mrs. Percy Chubb, Miss Anne T. Morgan, Miss Anna Sands, Miss Elsie de Wolfe, Mrs. Charles Steele, Mrs. James Speyer, Mrs. Michael Van Buren, Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, Mrs. Mark Fishel, Mrs. Henry S. Ladew, Miss Cornelia Bryce, and Mrs. E. Ronalds Conkling.

MAJORITY VOTE NOT CAST.

Eighty-nine clubs participated in the balloting yesterday for two members of the Registration Committee of the Metropolitan Association A. A. U., as provided by action taken at the last annual meeting of the association, at which an amendment was passed increasing the number of the committee from three, to five. According to the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union a majority vote was necessary to elect, but after a count had been made by P. J. Walsh, New York A. C.; Andrew J. Tully, Paulist A. C., and Cyril H. Jones, Public Recreation Commission, the tellers, it developed that the men who had received the largest vote had fallen far short of the required number of forty-five.

Twelve candidates were balloted upon, the secret system of a mail vote being used, with the following result: John J. Deignan, St. Bartholomew's A. C., 34; Charles A. Albert, Anchor A. C., 25; Capt. George J. Hattersley, St. Bonaventure's Lyceum, Paterson, 24; Harry J. Smith, Bronx Church House, 20; Edward T. Hart, Mohawk A. C., 16; J. V. Hoole, Union Settlement A. C., 12; Stephen A. Byrne, Trinity Club, 11; L. R. Welzmiller, West Side Y. M. C. A., 10; R. C Campbell, Twenty-first Separate Company, Troy, 6; W. J. Lee, Interplayground A. A., 6; T. J. Sullivan, Pennant A. C., 6, and J. B. Wild, Passaic Valley Canoe Club, 4.

Mr. Sullivan declared that he would decide to-day just what action he would take in the matter, being undecided as to whether he would have another mail vote taken or determine the two additional members by a vote among the officers of the association.

TRIANGULAR ROWING RACE.

Harvard, Princeton, and Pennsylvania on Charles River in May.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 7.—Harvard, Princeton, and the University of Pennsylvania will compete in a three-cornered rowing race on the Charles River early in May, according to plans announced here to-day. The date has not been set, but the race will probably take place about two weeks before Harvard rows Cornell at Ithaca. The event will mark Pennsylvania's first rowing appearance at Harvard for many years and the second annual visit of the Tiger crew.

In a triangular race last year Cornell won and Harvard finished second, a quarter of a boat length ahead of Princeton. The course is one and seven-eighths miles in length.

Navy Football Men Wrestle.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 7.—Brown and Howe, the big guards of the football eleven who have become candidates for the wrestling team, gave a great exhibition of the grappling game this afternoon when they met in the preliminaries of the intercompany competition now going on at the Academy. Both showed great strength and aggressiveness, but Howe, who has had a little more experience in the game, threw his opponent just as the six-minute limit expired. The weight of these men is about 215 pounds each. With these and other big fellows from the football squad the Naval Academy expects to be well represented in the heavyweight classes this year. The intercompany competitions embrace wrestling, boxing, gymnastics, handball, and swimming. The finals will take place on the evening of Jan. 18.

MATURO INCREASES LEAD OVER DE ORO

James Maturo of Denver secured an overwhelming lead over Alfredo De Oro of Cuba last night in the second 200-point block of the 600-point pool match. Maturo, who started with a lead of 12 points, increased his advantage to 92 points, winning the second night's match by the score of 200 to 120. The champion gave a disappointing display and failed to live up to his reputation as an uphill player. As the challenger drew ahead De Oro's cue work fell off, and he missed many comparatively easy shots. The title holder made several spectacular shots, but on occasions, when he appeared to be set for a good run, an unfortunate scratch would rob him of chances of reducing the lead of his opponent.

De Oro essayed a safe game, but Maturo, emboldened by his success, took a number of chances which were successful and appeared to affect De Oro's usually steady nerve. Maturo lost no opportunity to benefit by the champion's mistakes, and was able to secure a big advantage in points. Up to the end of the sixth frame it was a nip-and-tuck contest. De Oro, with a run of 33, brought his points up even with his opponent. The effort appeared to affect his subsequent playing, as from this point he fell away in nearly every frame and was soon hopelessly in the rear.

De Oro made the usual safety break in the opening frame, and Maturo played safe. The champion failed on a comparatively easy shot after pocketing one sphere. Maturo negotiated a side-table shot and spread the ivories. He continued his run until he had added nine to his score, when De Oro ran out the frame. Five more points were corralled by the Cuban in the second frame before he tripped up on a difficult combination shot. Maturo, with an open table, made a clean sweep. The latter's third shot in the next frame was a three-ball combination which cleared both cushions in finding a resting place in the corner pocket. Maturo was compelled to play another two-ball combination to enable him to secure an open table.

De Oro did not get a chance at the table in the third frame, as Maturo made a clean-up, running fourteen balls. He left his cue ball in a bad position for the opening of the fourth frame, and retired with a total run of 24, after scoring with the odd ball. Four consecutive safeties followed. De Oro fell down badly on an easy straight shot for the corner, leaving his opponent in a good position, but the latter failed to take advantage of the opening, and, after scoring two points, fell down on a difficult combination. De Oro then struck his gait, and picked off the balls with admirable precision, adding 33 to his score before yielding his place at the table to his opponent, making the evening's score 43-all.

Left in a commanding position Maturo tacked on the remaining nine balls of the frame to his score, but in an attempt to smash the pyramid in his first shot in the next frame he made a poor shot, and the champion found another good opening. He placed five balls to his credit before an unfortunate kiss sent his cue ball into the corner pocket. Maturo then further increased his lead by annexing the remaining ivories.

Position play was responsible for misses on the part of both players. De Oro, with a run of thirteen, drew up to within 24 points of the challenger. He was unable to follow up this run, and Maturo twice pulled himself out of difficul positions, for which he was rewarded with liberal applause. In his third attempt on a close rail cut Maturo missed by a close margin, and De Oro, through several clever shots, was able to halve the frame. After a series of short runs Maturo extricated himself from a difficult position by negotiating a long, sharp cut three-quarters the length of the table. The success of the shot enabled the Denver expert to make a cleanup, and pass his third century.

Starting in on the seventeenth frame with a lead of 71 points, Maturo took more chances with his shots, and by clever manipulation added 20 points to his score. He tripped up on a sidepocket shot, leaving De Oro with the balls well distributed over the green cloth. The Cuban met with his first stroke of luck, when he scored on a ball that hesitated before it dropped into the pocket. The advantage was brief, as De Oro fell down on another easy shot and Maturo rapidly gathered in the points. The champion made a spurt and added 23 points to 5 by his opponent, but his play was cut short in attempting a cushion carrom, which left a ball directly in front of a corner pocket for his opponent. Two innings later De Oro, in making a shot for the corner pocket, drew his cue ball into the opposite corner net. Maturo secured possession of the table and ran out his points in twenty-four innings. The score:

Maturo.—9 9 14 12 0 0 9 9 13 0 7 13 13 11 9 14 6 11 14 2 2 13 7 6. Total, 200. Scratches, 4. Total for two nights' play, 400.

Other Winners with the Cue.

John Dankelman, playing for New York, defeated Charles Otis, the Brooklyn representative, in the second game of the National Intercity Three-cushion Carrom Billiard League three-game series at Keeney's Billiard Academy in Brooklyn, last night, by the score of 50 to 45. This victory gives the Manhattan representative an even break to date, Dankelman having been defeated in the first game Monday night by the score of 50 to 46. Dankelman displayed much improvement in his form last night, and, although it was a close game from the start, he led practically throughout. The winner finished his string in the ninety-first inning, and had a high run of 5 points. Otis's best effort was 4 points.

Charles Cerf found it an easy task to defeat Robert Hart last night in continuation of the amateur Class B 18.2 balk line billiard tournament at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue. The final score was 150 to 94 in favor of Cerf, who displayed excellent form, and ran out his 150 points in fortyq-eight innings. He made high runs of 21 and 18, and averaged 3 6-48. Hart's best run was 14, and his average was 1 46-48.

Kansas City Wins Again.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 7.—Kansas City won the second game of the National billiard series here to-night when Thomas Denton of this city defeated Charles McCourt of Pittsburgh, 50 to 45, in a three-cushion game. Ninety-four innings were played, and each made a high run of 4.

PENN STATE GRILLED.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 7.—The Cornell Sun, official organ of the students, to-day, in explaining the real reason why Cornell no longer prefers to play Pennsylvania State College in football, declares that unfair criticism compels the statement that at the end of the first half of last October's game every Cornellian must have made up his mind "that the visitors were not the sort of aggregation this university cared again to meet on the gridiron." It goes on:

"What need to rehearse the deliberate fouls of some of the State College men on Percy Field. Two Cornell players were hamstrung during the contest in a manner the very directness and dexterity of which was evidence of considerable previous schooling in that branch of football."

Hamstringing is defined as the gentle art of deliberately catching a man from behind in the Achilles tendon of the calf in such a way as to effectually incapacitate him for some time to come. O'Connor and Champaign were the two men so hurt.

"Other tactics," says The Sun, "such as ankle twisting, face smashing, and the like were far from despised, as the somewhat ragged appearance of the literally Red and White players afterward intelligently testified."

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—Maximilian Carnarius, known to baseball fans as Max. Carey, left fielder of the Pittsburgh Nationals, will be married on Jan. 22 to Miss Aurelia Behrens of St. Louis. They met four years ago, when Carnarius was studying theology at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis.

KEENE'S HORSES BARRED.

The death of James R. Keene, the New York turfman, will affect the turf status of the United States in many ways, and will not end on his native soil, but will make many changes on the English turf. According to a ruling of the English Jockey Club, none of the Keene nominations in the Derby and St. Leger of 1914 and entries in other events will be permitted to start.

Mr. Keene's own nominations for 1914 in these two blue ribbon events of the English turf include a batch of colts sold to Edward R. Bradley, in October last, and included in the lot is one by Rock Sand, which cost $14,000. None of these colts can start in the Derby or any other race in England in which they were entered by Mr. Keene. The English rules for racing provide for such cases, and they are all disqualified. Recently this question came up for discussion, and an amendment to the rules advocated whereby colts could start in stakes, even though their nominators had died, providing the engagements had been assumed by the new owners. The American rule is different from the English rule.

H. P. Whitney's candidates for this year's Epsom Derby and other English classics have attracted considerable attention and were all bred at the Castleton stud of the late James R. Keene. Mr. Whitney purchased the colts in June of the year they were yearlings, and all their nominations are in his name, he having entered them in the Derby in July.

TRAVIS SECOND IN GOLF.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 7.—A score of 72 captured the gold medal for Fillmore K. Robeson, champion of the Oak Hill Club, Rochester, in to-day's qualification round in the tenth annual midwinter golf tournament. Six strokes higher Walter J. Travis of Garden City finished second in 78, while B. W. Corkran of Baltimore was third in 79. Metropolitan golfers who qualified for the first division were E. A. Freeman of Dyker Meadow, C. B. Hudson of Norfolk, Spencer Walters of Apawamis, and Harold Sketer and W. E. Truesdel, both of Fox Hills.

In the second division Daniel Anthony and H. C. White of Ridgewood and G. Glen Worden of Crescent landed. In the third W. C. Freeman of Dyker Meadow, J. L. Toppin of Canoe Brook, and J. G. Todd of Upper Montclair were victorious.

In the third are C. W. Harmon and W. H. Edwards of Wykagyl, E. J. Freeman of Siwanoy, F. S. Madison of Upper Montclair, J. D. C. Rumsey of Brooklyn, S. F. Rothschild of South Shore, and C. J. Earl of Baltusrol.

This Golf Club Bars Women.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Another new golf course, one which will admit no women to membership, is to be added to the many already along the North Shore. It was announced that the club will be known as the Old Elm and will occupy grounds on the old Green Bay Road at Fort Sheridan. The reason for making the club one for men only, it is said, is to insure golf to the members of the organization at all times without waiting. The membership is to be limited to 150. The course will be laid out over a 140-acre tract. The club is the second to be formed within a few weeks, the other being the Winnetka Country Club. This makes a total of fifty golf courses in Chicago and vicinity.

Rutherford Girls Victorious.

RUTHERFORD, N. J., Jan. 7.—The Rutherford High School girls' basket ball team opened its season by defeating the Belleville High School girls at Belleville, by the score of 20 to 5. Rutherford's girls had the upper hand throughout and outplayed their opponents from the start. The local fair athletes showed their best form in the first half, when they kept Belleville from making a field goal. Miss Edna Mathis scored Belleville's only point on a foul to fourteen for Rutherford for the half. Misses Jollie and Koues scored six baskets for Rutherford. Belleville made the play much closer in the second half, but could not cut down Rutherford's lead. The line-up:

Orange High Wins at Basket Ball.

Orange High School's basket ball team upheld its title to the interscholastic championship of New Jersey yesterday afternoon, when its representatives defeated the Summit High School team by the score of 61 to 21. In the second period three of the Orange regulars stepped aside and allowed scrub players to go into their places. Orange was at home in its own gymnasium, and its superb team work puzzled Summit throughout. The score at the end of the first period was 28 to 9, with the Orange boys at the top. Good work by Alesbury and Gilchrist boosted the score for Summit in the second period. The line-up:

Wesleyan Defeats Yale First Time.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 7.—For the first time in basket ball history Wesleyan defeated Yale to-night. The visitors led all the way, closing the first half 15 to 9 ahead and finishing 29 to 17. Capt. Swihart played nearly all of Yale's game, throwing nearly all the goals both from the floor and foul line. Wesleyan's team play was beautifully balanced, every member of the team scoring. Allison shone, however, as the sterling performer. The line-up:

St. John's Wins from Niagara.

The St. John's College of Brooklyn basket ball team defeated the Niagara University quintet in their annual game last night on the former's court in Brooklyn by the score of 29 to 26. The contest was the closest one that the Brooklyn aggregation has contested this season, and the winner was not decided until an extra five-minute period had been played. Both teams were in excellent form, and it was a nip-and-tuck struggle from the start. The line-up:

St. John's.	Positions.	Niagara.

CHANCE EXPECTED TO SIGN WITH YANKEES

Admits That He Has Wavered from His Decision to Quit Baseball for a Year.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Frank Chance, in all probability, will sign to-morrow as manager of the New York American baseball team. After a long conference this afternoon with Frank Farrell, owner of the club, Chance admitted that he wavered from his decision announced earlier today not to take part in baseball this year. The conference will be resumed to-morrow.

The terms under which Chance is expected to sign will not be revealed. Rumor had it that a salary approaching $20,000 and accompanied by a contract for a term of years and a share in the club, were offered Chance. It is said that Mr. Farrell, rather than disappoint the New York baseball followers, who were supposed to be waiting for news that Chance was to sign, would offer inducements that Chance could hardly refuse, and Chance's own statement bore this out when he said Mr. Farrell's "arguments were convincing."

Chance declared upon his arrival that he was through with baseball for one year at least. He said that his orange interests were great enough to warrant his giving them his entire attention, and that he wanted to see if he could "get along without the National game for one year anyway." But Mr. Farrell apparently had not come all the way from New York to be disappointed, and his flattering offer was made when he and Chance went into their conference.

MARSANS WANTS BIG RAISE.

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 7.—Armando Marsans, a Cincinnati outfielder, mailed a letter to President Herrmann this morning declaring that he was not exactly a "hold-out," because he too much appreciated the treatment received from President Herrmann and Frank Bancroft, the Reds' business manager. However, he said, he would be much pleased if he received the regular salary paid full-fledged fielders. Meanwhile he would not sign a contract pending a hearing. President Herrmann two weeks ago sent Marsans a contract allowing him an $800 raise over last season's salary, which Marsans thinks is not enough.

BASEBALL MEETING OFF.

Ban Johnson's Illness Again Causes Postponement of Commission Session.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 7.—The National Baseball Commission will hold its ninth annual meeting in Chicago on Thursday, Jan. 16, according to an announcement made to-night by President Thomas J. Lynch, member of the National Commission. The date is subject to change, however, in accordance with the length of President Ban B. Johnson's illness.

At this meeting the officers will be elected, the annual reports read, and it is probable that a decision will be announced on two matters important to all minor league clubs.

At a meeting to-day of the commission, at which Chairman August Herrmann held the proxy of President Johnson, all the evidence in the requests of the National Association of Minor Leagues for a uniform players' contract was taken. Likewise the evidence on the individual salary limit of minor leagues was heard and the matter taken under consideration.

Chairman Herrmann announced that the evidence would be submitted to President Johnson, and if he was well enough to read it, it was almost a certainty that the commission would decide both questions at its next annual meeting.

YALE LOSES PITCHER BROWN.

Matter of Discipline Said to Have Caused a Defection.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 7.—Eugene Latham Brown of Brookline, Mass., has left Yale, according to an announcement authorized this afternoon at the office of the Director of the Sheffield Scientific School, the department of the university to which he belonged. Brown is the best pitcher on the Yale baseball squad.

For three years he was a star at Andover. Next he wore a University of Virginia uniform and showed brilliant form, his chief feat being to hold Harvard to a single run in eleven innings at Cambridge in a tie game. He came to Yale two years ago, laying off one season because of the one-year residence rule.

Last year he was in the box for most of Yale's independent games, but received ragged support. He is understood to have been involved in some differences of opinion with the Faculty over disciplinary matters, although the Director's office refused to-day to discuss the nature of the complaint against him. Brown is registered in the catalogue as a senior in the Sheffield Scientific School.

Intercity Baseball Meeting.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Intercity Baseball Association last night three new clubs, the Cathedral Club of New York, the Ramblers of Yonkers, and the Seasides of Staten Island, were admitted to membership for the coming year. These new additions swell the membership almost to the 200 mark. Upward of fifty clubs were represented at last night's meeting, but the only business transacted other than admitting the new clubs was the appointment of a committee to revise the association by-laws for the coming season. An informal luncheon was held at the close of the meeting.

Operation on Washington Catcher.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—John Henry, the Washington Americans' mainstay behind the bat, is resting easy in a local hospital to-day after a serious operation on his knee for the removal of a bit of loose cartilage. The surgeons are hopeful that the operation will be successful, and say that unless blood poisoning develops the Senators' premier backstop should soon be in condition to report for the Spring training.

"Duke" Farrell to Coach Red Sox.

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Charles (Duke) Farrell, the veteran catcher on the Boston Nationals and the Boston American Baseball Clubs, was signed by the Red Sox to-day for the coming season. Farrell will coach the recruit pitchers, of whom there are ten. The world's champions at present have fifteen pitchers on their rolls.

NO HEAVYWEIGHT BOUT.

For some unknown reason the bout between Soldier Kearns of Brooklyn and Sailor White of New York, announced for last night at Brown's Gymnasium, was not put on. The club matchmaker said that the notices had been sent out by some one not connected with the club, as an all-star show had been arranged, but "rain checks" were given out to a large-sized crowd which had gathered for the purpose of seeing the heavyweights in action.

The star bout of the card which was put on brought together Harry Stone, the east side lightweight, and Mel Coogan. The bout went the full ten rounds and ended in favor of Stone. The east sider held the lead in almost every round, excelling his opponent to a considerable extent in the infighting and using a straight left jab to good effect at long range. Coogan's punches usually failed to find their mark. Coogan, although defeated, put up a good exhibition and managed to keep close behind his opponent all the way. There were no knockdowns, and Stone did not have Coogan in distress at any stage of the contest.

The semi-final, between Frankie Maher and "Dummy" Dragon, was scheduled to go six rounds, but was stopped by the referee in the fourth round to save Dragon from being knocked out. A hard right to Dragon's jaw in this round made the latter stagger, and it was only by hanging on that he was able to remain on his feet. When a knockout seemed certain the referee stepped between the two boys and waved Maher to his corner.

Swimming Races at City A. C.

The 220-yard swim for the Metropolitan championship will be held at the City Athletic Club on Saturday night, Jan. 18, and will be open to all registered amateurs. There will also be a 160-yard handicap and an 80-yard swim, scratch. The carnival will end with a game of water polo.

EMPIRE A. C. LEASE RENEWED.

Promoter Declares There Is No Hitch in Cross-Rivers Bout.

Jess McMahon, manager of the Empire Athletic Club of Harlem, where Joe Rivers and Leach Cross are scheduled to box ten rounds on Jan. 14, last night denied that there was any hitch in the arrangements for the bout and said that the contest would be staged as scheduled. A report had gained circulation during the past few days that the promoters had failed to renew their lease of Manhattan Casino, which expired some time ago, and on that account would be compelled to go through the formality of procuring a new license for the club before any bouts could be staged there.

"We took out a lease on the Manhattan Casino for one year on Oct. 1, 1911," declared McMahon last night, "filed the bond required by the Frawley law, and obtained a license to conduct bouts at the Casino. That lease, of course, expired on Oct. 1, 1912, and since that time we have staged no bouts there. However, we have obtained a renewal of the lease for a period of two years, dating from the time the other one expired, so there is no reason why we cannot conduct bouts there. The bond of $10,000 for the Empire Athletic Club is still filed, and there remains only the formality of presenting the new lease to the State Athletic Commission to have the license remain in force. This has been the mode of procedure by all clubs which wished to run beyond the time named in the original lease."

Princeton Defeats Georgetown.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Princeton was better at goal shooting than Georgetown University and was an easy winner in basket ball to-night by a score of 34 to 21. Salmon was the principal scorer for the Tigers, with 16 points to his credit.

"CORNERS" AND THE COST OF LIVING.

It would be immoral not to approve and applaud the decision of the Supreme Court holding that attempts to "corner" staple commodities like cotton and wheat are conspiracies in restraint of inter-State trade in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act. The effect of a corner is to bring a large quantity of the "cornered" commodity into the control of one man or one group of men so as to create an artificial scarcity in the market to raise prices and to disturb, sometimes violently, the currents of commerce in their ordinary channels. These consequences of the "corner" are and must be injurious; there are no compensating benefits, save perhaps some of a nature rather too shadowy to be grasped by an impartial mind. Sometimes the gentlemen who operate a "corner" are ruined, but sometimes they make a great deal of money by the operation. They thus take from the public large profits in return for which they render to the public no service. That is just the kind of fellow we are trying to get rid of in this country, the kind referred to by President-elect WILSON the other day. Profits ought to accrue only from service rendered.

The man who "corners" wheat, grain, lard, or any other commodity of universal use and need has no friends, no natural protectors, and nobody worries about him when he gets into the clutches of the law. But let us not delude ourselves about the relation of "corners" to the cost of living. Attorney General WICKERSHAM is reported to have said that "the problem "of the high cost of living can be "solved" under this decision; "the "Government will be empowered to "break up any 'corner' on food prod"ucts that may be attempted." We fear that Mr. WICKERSHAM's astonishing successes in his trust prosecutions have turned his head. The high cost of living is in nowise due to wheat "corners" or cotton "corners." Only temporarily, and at long intervals, and in respect to a very small number of staple products, do the proceedings of the "cornerers" affect the cost of living. The high cost of food, rent, clothing, and labor is determined by other and very different facts.

Nor is there the slightest reason why any man should be for an instant fooled by the pretense that trust prosecutions and dissolutions are going to reduce the cost to him of illuminating oil, tobacco, gunpowder, coffins, bathtubs, and other articles of human or household use which he is compelled to buy. There has been an intolerable deal of cant and claptrap in the public discussion of the trusts and proceedings against them. We shall come nearer to the truth if we get rid of all these delusions. The fact that the combinations dissolved by court decrees were formed and continued in violation of law is a sufficient reason for putting an end to them. It is sheer yellowness and demagogy to set up the false pretense that the motive of proceedings to enforce the laws of the land is the desire to ease the strain upon the pockets of consumers, or that in the cases that have been decided or are to be decided under the Sherman act that result has been or will be attained.

WAITING.

Having "suspended" the peace conference, the delegates of the allies are now diligently seeking for some convenient and "face-saving" method of taking it down from the hook on which it is hung. They profess the greatest confidence that the fortress of Adrianople will fall into their hands, which, of course, would be for them the best possible solution of the tangle which the unexpected stubbornness of the Turks has brought about. Pending this happy occurrence, they are hinting that, in one form or another, the Powers will have to intervene. As the Turks are almost openly depending on such intervention, the action of the Powers is eagerly and anxiously awaited.

It will probably be awaited for a considerable time. The Powers cannot act effectively unless they are substantially agreed, and there are still obstacles of a serious nature to an agreement. If Turkey is to be forced so nearly out of Europe as the allies demand, the future of the Dardanelles and the situation of the Powers in the Mediterranean become a matter of importance, and of vital importance to several of them, especially to Russia and to Italy. Of like interest are the area and organization of the new State of Albania and the settlement of Servian claims on the Adriatic. It will be seen, therefore, that the Powers have a hard task before them, with which the Ambassadors assembled in London can hardly deal authoritatively. But while these gentlemen have had their functions limited to listening and conversing, there is no doubt that their work has been extremely useful, and all the more so because of the lack of formality and definite responsibility that has attended it.

The few remarks of Sir EDWARD GREY in the House of Commons yesterday are interpreted as indicating early action by the Powers, and it is fairly certain that they are considering such action. The Turks, while depending on this event to furnish the "force majeure" to which alone their tradition permits them to yield, are inveighing against the harsh and unjust treatment they have received in the past. They declare that, when victorious in arms, they have been robbed of the fruits of their success, which was true in the war with Greece, but certainly not in the war with Russia. Their present plaints are interesting mainly as showing that they do not expect much consideration from the Powers. They do not deserve much. Had Europe in 1878 been able to agree to drive the Turks wholly back on Asia, it would have saved a terrible amount of suffering and bloodshed. It will hardly be possible to do as much as that now, but it is in the interest of decent civilization that the power of Turkey in Europe shall be reduced to the narrowest limits. That the task of final settlement is now likely to be taken up by the Powers fairly united is an immense advance over the conditions of 1878.

THE SMART MYSTERY.

A young man of 20 years and a girl of 18 were the objects of a great deal of sympathy when the Titanic went down last April. They were the children, according to gossip, of JAMES MONTGOMERY SMART, who perished in the wreck. Orphaned and desolate, somewhere in Europe, where they were supposed to be finishing their education, the hearts of the multitude went out to them. Through the American Consuls in Europe a persistent search was made for them, without avail. It was clear that they did not read the newspapers, however intelligent they might be. Neither did they dwell among people who kept in touch with the news of the day.

We had been accustoming ourselves to say that the world is very small, but it seemed large in view of the seeming fact that two full-grown children of a man who had died in a disaster which had shocked all mankind, and had left property, could not be located or identified. They were, to be sure, found, or nearly found, last August, in Belgium, and it was learned then that their names were GEORGE and ANNIE; but this was like the innumerable discoveries of DOROTHY ARNOLD. Nothing more was heard of it. The year of the Titanic disaster ended, leaving the SMART heirs among the missing. The mystery seemed impenetrable.

Perhaps it was solved Monday, when the will of JAMES MONTGOMERY SMART was filed for probate. It mentions no children. After providing for the payment of the testator's debts the estate is divided between two of his friends in Australia. It is a natural inference that he had no children, that GEORGE and ANNIE SMART never had any more bodily existence than the children of Gentle Elia's dream, that they belong, like the Unicorn and WASHINGTON'S cherry tree, to mythology. But the origin of the SMART children legend might be traced. Perhaps one gossiping person (no, not necessarily a woman,) may have confused Mr. SMART with another man of the same name, or another name; but a legend often has slighter foundation than that. It seems that all the persons who have given testimony since the wreck as to the existence of SMART'S children now say that they never heard him speak of them. Anyhow, he had made a will ignoring them, and the will, though dated in 1897, some years before his wife is supposed to have died, ignores her, too. Did he ever have a wife? The sympathetic gossips have made SMART a man of mystery, but it is likely that there is no other mystery left in his case except that ancient, unsolvable mystery as to why so many people will talk confidently about matters of which they know nothing at all.

TO IMPROVE THE NAVY.

The officers of the Navy League of the United States are circulating for signatures a petition to Congress urging legislation to reorganize the personnel of the navy, to secure both economy and larger efficiency in the service, and for the establishment of a continuing and consistent programme of naval construction, to be determined by a Council of National Defense, duly authorized by Congress. It is explained, in regard to the first reform urged by the petitioners, that young naval officers are now kept too long in subordinate positions, while, on the other hand, fleet commanders are often retired too early for the good of the service. The alternative, it seems, must be a sort of weeding-out process looking to advancement for fitness only.

The petition contains sixty-seven reasons why we should have a strong navy, and all are good. The navy, which is our main defense, has 21,000 miles of coast line to defend. This coast line includes more harbors with large cities and a larger number of strategic points than any other navy has to defend. To enforce the Monroe Doctrine and preserve the neutrality of the Panama Canal we must have warships, while our outlying possessions must be protected. The earliest signers of the petition are Gen. HORACE PORTER, Col. ROBERT M. THOMPSON, the Rev. Dr. LYMAN ABBOTT, JOHN WANAMAKER, CARTER HARRISON FITZHUGH, R. A. LONG, HENRY WHITE, and PERRY BELMONT. The document deserves respectful attention. Any movement looking to the betterment of our means of National defense not only deserves encouragement, but sadly needs it.

LUNATICS.

Attorney General CARMODY makes some very pertinent suggestions to the Legislature as to amending the present methods of trying habeas corpus writs applied for by inmates of the insane asylums who have escaped punishment for crime on the plea of insanity. The most conspicuous and also the most representative of this class of cases is that of HARRY K. THAW. As the law now stands, the sanity of a criminal of this character must be made the subject of an elaborate judicial investigation whenever his friends have the disposition and the means to bring it about. And this without regard to the facts established, the testimony given, or the conclusion reached at any previous hearing.

The Attorney General recommends that in the case of a renewed application for a writ > where a person confined as an insane criminal has once had a hearing upon a writ of habeas corpus any testimony given or exhibits produced upon that hearing may be used upon subsequent hearings without recalling the witness.

This is a very moderate recommendation. We think that, in addition, it might justly be provided that a reasonable interval, say three or five years, should elapse before a new application could be acted upon. To this there may be legal objection, but certainly none on the ground of substantial justice.

TOO MUCH MONEY.

Only a few days after the 12 per cent. money rate there is an apparent redundancy of money. The doubling of the surplus bank reserves by the receipt of almost fifteen millions of reserve money from the interior signifies that no longer is there demand for the accommodations extorted from this centre under such conditions of inconvenience some little time ago. Now is the time for those country critics of the Wall Street maelstrom's absorption of their funds to keep their cash at home, and not trouble New York with its safe keeping until wanted again, then to be withdrawn with another little spasm, and renewal of remarks about the wickedness of the money sharks of the metropolis.

If the returning funds were really surplus capital its appearance would be hailed with delight. But there are no signs of surplus capital at all corresponding to the surplus currency. The cash now returning here is forced here by the superabundance of bond-secured currency which there is no way of reducing. It won't contract because it can't expand. The difference between the maximum and minimum banknote circulation in 1912, a year of very active trade and unprecedented crops, was less than ten million dollars. Last week the German banknote circulation expanded $125,000,000, and Berlin, although under conditions of strain, escaped the experience of New York. That expanded circulation, when not wanted, will disappear, and Germany will not enjoy conditions of false ease, and its bankers will not have the double task of finding employment for the $125,000,000 when not wanted, nor of squeezing it out of its temporary uses when it is wanted. At that time there will be a fresh issue of notes, with no more friction than accompanies the automatic increase of bank checks with us when business makes call for them.

These recurring object lessons have a double use. They inculcate in practical manner the need of currency reform, and they warn those concerned not to be misled by false ease in the money market. It is not possible to extemporize capital as easily as a good system supplies currency on demand, and bankers are likely to be more cheerful than borrowers for some little time yet. Bond-secured banknotes can supply a redundant currency, but they cannot satisfy a demand for free capital applicable to permanent uses.

The mechanical improvements of automobiles continue. Prices still fall. Women are beginning to rival men as drivers. Roads fit for motor travel are being built in the most remote regions. The demand for the motor is heard everywhere, and with it the call for information about motor vehicles. It is this call which THE TIMES will recognize in next Sunday's Special Automobile Section—an illustrated supplement of instructive articles on motorists, their cars and roads, the laws they must heed, their problems of mechanics and upkeep, the clothes they wear, their tours near and far, the dangers to be avoided, and the cautions to be followed; a concise summary of the things that motorists want to know in this motor age.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Laudation That Went Far Astray. Fortunately, from one point of view, the estimable wife of the great JONATHAN EDWARDS has been dead so many years that there is little chance of her having noticed a recent misidentification of her in this column. To be sure, as a result of that error, she was credited with being a "superwoman" who conferred incalculable benefits upon the Nation in the shape of many and distinguished descendants, but even such a compliment as that would not reconcile a lady of any spirit with having been mistaken for her husband's grandmother.

Nobody would like that, and though, in ordinary circumstances, the confusion of personalities would hardly be called libelous, in this particular case it tended in that direction and gave good excuse for feeling that mingled grief and rage which leads to suits for damages. For ELIZABETH TUTTLE—or TUTHILL, as the better informed or more careful members of the family spelled the name—was far from being the model of propriety which her position in Colonial society demanded that she should be. While her more charitable contemporaries went no further than to call her "eccentric," others did not hesitate to apply harsher terms in describing her conduct, and not only did her husband, JONATHAN'S grandfather, RICHARD EDWARDS, repudiate one of her children and finally herself, but she had a brother and sister who carried peculiarity to such a point that both of them were convicted of murder. The brother was hanged, but the sister escaped with her life for the curious reason that the troubles growing out of the Andros administration had left nobody with a clear right to order her to the gallows.

This same ELIZABETH TUTTLE, however, was the real "superwoman" of America, in the sense that President JORDAN applied the word to his newly discovered Lady ISABELLA, and she was quite big and strong enough to carry through history the double burden of her vices and her virtues. The later Mrs. EDWARDS, so far as known, gave her eleven children no cause for a single blush, and, in the eyes of all except the coldly scientific eugenists, she was by far the better woman of the two.

Automobiles Under New Regulation. Credit must be given to our much-criticised Board of Aldermen as a whole, and to Alderman FOLKS in particular, for having risen promptly to the emergency caused by the breakdown of the Callan law. To remedy the weakness of that ill-considered statute they have devised and passed, to go into effect as soon as legal formalities permit, an ordinance for the regulation of automobiles in this city, which, while open to criticism on some points, is better than anything we have ever had before.

Its most important feature, perhaps, is the raising of the common or ordinary speed limit from the absurd and impracticable eight miles an hour—a rate which never was enforced and couldn't be without bringing traffic to a standstill—to a reasonable fifteen miles an hour. The advance, however, does not mean that any chauffeur going no faster than that is within his rights and irresponsible for any harm he may do. It only fixes that rate of speed as not in itself reprehensible. Whether it is or is not too fast still depends on the conditions of travel existing at any given place and time, and no matter how slowly the chauffeur may be running, the causing of injury to anybody remains proof that his speed was excessive, and makes him amenable to arrest and punishment.

In other words, the motorist is held to the exercise of a decent discretion, and the fifteen-mile rate is permitted only when and where it is safe. With competent, intelligent, and considerate driving, that is not too fast, and the permission to exceed it slightly in the broad streets of lighter traffic, mostly of automobiles, is also judicious. The holding of owners and hired chauffeurs to like responsibility is commendable, as is also the provision as to repeated offenses and their punishment.

It is a pity, of course, that the regulation of automobiles cannot be, or at least is not likely soon to be, uniform for the whole State, but this ordinance, in spite of being local, will do very well, if only as a long step in the right direction. Now for its enforcement. The police get new powers from it, and new duties are imposed on them. To produce reforms and to make the streets reasonably safe they must act with sense as well as with vigor, and it will be the task of the Magistrates to back them up by creating a general and clear realization that serious trouble is in store for the automobilist who has mistaken notions about his right of way. A right of way he certainly has, but so do other people, and at crossings a better one than his.

Their Plan Has Many Possibilities. New Yorkers, having had much opportunity to learn in recent years that the keepers of restaurants can maintain or increase profits by the simple expedient of raising the prices charged for the food they serve, must have been pleased to hear the news, printed yesterday, of a new plan for attaining the familiar end. The mission of the New York Society of Restaurateurs, as announced, is to bring about co-operative buying of supplies on such a scale as to make great economies possible through the elimination of middlemen.

That is what everybody is talking about, nowadays, and though some people are inclined to consider the scheme more charming than practical, yet the thing can be done, for it has been done, in many instances with some success and in a few with really brilliant results. The bonds between the "restaurateurs," however, are by no means as strong as their rivalries are keen, and they are divided into so many grades and classes that it will be difficult for any large number of them to get—and remain—together for any purpose.

Their patrons will notice, too, that the announcements about the new society contain no hints of an intention to divide the expected economies with anybody except its members. Not a word is said about the purpose, or even the hope, of lowering prices to the public, and experience suggests that if a close union of the kind suggested were formed, the exercise of its powers would not be confined to the saving of money by getting rid of the middleman.

That way lies, if not madness, at least near-starvation, for those upon whose patience and resources alike the present prices in restaurants have imposed an almost intolerable strain.

Evading the Law.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Has Mr. William Rockefeller of New York City any precedent, outside of the criminal classes, for evading the officers of the law as he has been so spectacularly doing recently?

TALE OF TWO GHOSTS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of ghosts in New York City, I should like to repeat two instances which have been related to me. Both occurred in a prosaic boarding house and to plain business people—the first to a New England woman and the other to an "average New Yorker." Neither of these people is inclined to the occult or spiritistic, nor are they interested in the past history of the city or in tales of olden days.

In an old house in the region of Washington Square the New England woman was quietly lying awake one night, enjoying the moonlight which streamed through her window and which afforded the only light in the room. Suddenly out of a dark shadow at one side of the window emerged the appearance of a little old woman. She wore a gray gown, gathered full about the waist, and a Shaker bonnet, which hid her face. This apparition, seeming to emit a faint light from itself, glided toward the bed. The New England woman started up in affright, and, as the figure neared her, fell back and knew no more till she recovered, to find the room dark and herself chilled, just as she had fallen.

The second appearance came to another business woman in the same house. She awoke one night to see the figure of a man, dressed in the costume of Colonial days—ruffles, small clothes, &c.—passing through her room. Not being timid, she watched this figure till it passed through the closed and locked door. As she had scoffed at the tale of the New England woman but a few weeks before, she hesitated about mentioning her experience, but finally did so, making light of it.

I might add that the food served in that house is excellent and that no Welsh rabbits or other disturbing elements had figured in either case. INCREDULOUS.

MEN TEACHERS QUITTING.

Reduced Salaries Make the Profession Unattractive.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The inclosed letter is a bona fide one, received in answer to my query, "Why did you quit teaching?" Inasmuch as Supt. Maxwell says that the refusal of men to enter the city schools is a great educational loss, you might be interested in showing the public why men will not enter the system:

> Dear Dr. Van Denburg: I wish you to discontinue your efforts to help me secure an appointment as teacher in the elementary day schools of this city, although I appreciate and am deeply grateful for your interest in me. My reason, in brief, is that I consider myself undervalued when $720 marks the standard set.
> When I first considered the idea of being a teacher the salary was not $720, but $900. When I was graduated from college and ready to take the examinations for teachers the $900 had dwindled to a mere $720. Considering the time necessary to prepare for the teaching profession, the present salary is to me nothing more than an insult to my ability and fitness. It is all very well to speak of the sacredness of the profession, of the great influence the teacher has in preserving the State through guiding the younger generations along the paths of uprightness, honesty, &c., but those sentiments could not buy a single copy of a newspaper or a ride on the Subway.
> Again I wish to thank you for your interest in me, and trust that you can see my reasons for renouncing the teaching profession.

SCREENED SEWERS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In order absolutely to prevent foreign matter going into the sewers with the snow and clogging them or requiring their subsequent cleaning, have strong steel wire baskets made in the shape of waste paper baskets with flanges or rims to fit down in the manholes and rest on the rims.

Snow can then be shoveled into these baskets and a stream of water turned on from a hose to carry the snow through the wire mesh, leaving all debris in the baskets, which can be lifted out and emptied as often as necessary into garbage wagons or receptacles for subsequent dumping.

It is perhaps possible to make such baskets with a flange or other retaining means that would render it feasible to allow them to remain in the manholes with the covers on, so that they may be left permanently in place, eliminating danger of small children falling into the sewers when the covers have been accidentally displaced or removed by mischievous children.

DISTINCT CLOTHING STRIKES.

It is not surprising that people should be muddled about the two distinct "strikes" in the clothing industry now claiming public attention. And it will be a great help to us all if the press will help us to clear up the matter by editorials on the subject.

The men's garment strike now raging has no connection whatever, as you know, with the threatened strikes under one movement in three branches of the ladies' garment industry. In our organization we shall move along quite different lines from those of the United Garment Workers. We have a definite, clear-cut plan, and hopes for a short and peaceful struggle. It is the organization I represent which, for the ladies' cloak, suit, and skirt makers' branches of the trade, established the well-known "protocol of peace," which has kept peace in that trade ever since its adoption in September, 1910.

Why should the advantages of the parcel post be limited to what the Post Office Department pleases to call fourth-class matter, and why should magazines and books be denied the lower rate?

It would appear that the object of the scheme was to favor the creature rather than the intellectual comforts of life. It certainly seems strange that if cats and cabbage can be carried at low rates magazines and books cannot be carried for the same rates. The Government should encourage and make easy the wider circulation of means of education.

J. W. Johnson's Poem.

I want to congratulate THE TIMES on the publication of James W. Johnson's Poem, "Fifty Years," in your issue of last Wednesday. Its stirring lines set forth the aspirations and the hopes of the best members of the race to which I belong, and of which Mr. Johnson is so satisfactory a representative. In my more contemplative moments I often wonder whether or not the American people fully realize that, in aspiration, in hope, and in a desire for whatever is of good report, the best white people and the best colored people are pretty close together, and the worst groups of both races are not very far apart.

A Refuse Incinerator.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter to THE TIMES of Cyrus C. Miller, President of the Borough of the Bronx, discloses a situation little less than scandalous. To think that when the weather is very cold our streets must be garbage laden because the scows cannot go to sea is too funny. Why cannot we wake up as well as Berlin and go buy an incinerating plant? That city not only rejoices in thoroughly clean streets, but its incinerating plant pays for itself. How, can be found out by easily obtained statistics on the matter. ANISHLAETZCHEN.

PATRICK'S CONVICTION.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The newspapers this morning published parts of letters written to Govs. Higgins, White, and Dix in connection with the application for Executive clemency in the case of Albert T. Patrick. It appears that one of the grounds on which Executive clemency was asked for Patrick was that my father, Judge Gray, wrote the majority opinion in the Court of Appeals affirming Patrick's conviction, and that at that time, as well as at the time of Patrick's trial, I was in the District Attorney's office. Mr. Milliken, Patrick's brother-in-law, in a letter to Dean Huffcut under date of Dec. 31, 1906, also makes the following statement:

> Judge Otto Rosalsky told Morris Meyers three weeks before the opinion of the Court of Appeals was handed down that it would be adverse to Patrick, and that Judge Gray would read the opinion. He told Meyers he got this information from the District Attorney's office, and at that time Judge Gray's son was Assistant District Attorney. I don't accuse Judge Gray of being bought or corrupted in this case, but I do believe he was influenced by some cause otherwise than the record of the case, as in the prevailing opinion he distorted the testimony and facts. If you do not believe this, ask Senator Hill; he can point out to you wherein it was done.

As this statement is absolutely false, and as it is a great injustice to my father, Judge Rosalsky, and myself, I feel that I should make a public denial. I do not recall ever having spoken to Judge Rosalsky, who at that time was a practicing lawyer, about the Patrick case, and I certainly never stated to anybody what the opinion of the Court of Appeals was to be or who was to write the opinion. In fact, the statement is so absurd that it seems hardly necessary to deny it, and if it were only myself that were involved, I would not take the trouble to do so. I spoke to Judge Rosalsky to-day, and he assured me that there was no truth in the statement, and that he had so stated to the press.

The contention that my father should not have sat in the case in the Court of Appeals in view of my position at the time in the District Attorney's office is likewise absurd. I was not appointed on the staff of the District Attorney until a month or so before the case came up for trial—that is to say, a long time after the indictment of Patrick. I had absolutely no connection with the trial of the case, which was conducted by Assistant District Attorneys Osborne and Garvan. After the conviction Patrick's counsel made a motion for a new trial before Recorder Goff, on the ground of newly discovered evidence. Mr. Garvan, who had charge of that motion, asked me if I would prepare for him a digest or synopsis of all reported cases in this State bearing on motions of this sort. Mr. Garvan asked me to prepare this because I was at the time in the Appeal Bureau of the District Attorney's office.

When the motion came up before Recorder Goff I attended, and naturally took my seat alongside of Mr. Garvan in the courtroom. The court stenographer noted my appearance with Mr. Garvan, although, strictly speaking, I was not taking part in the proceedings, but my appearance on this motion for a new trial appears in the printed record in the Court of Appeals.

I had absolutely no connection with the argument of the appeal in the Court of Appeals. After the conviction had been affirmed Senator Hill made a motion for a reargument on the ground that my father should not have sat in the case. Although the court had been divided in affirming the conviction of Patrick, they were unanimous in denying the motion for a reargument, and the opinion, written by Judge Cullen, one of the Judges who had dissented from the affirmance of the conviction, strongly denied the application. The court, after pointing out the facts, said:

> It is conceded that this relationship constituted no legal disqualification of the Judge, but it is contended that the fact rendered it improper for Judge Gray to sit in the case. It would be a sufficient answer to this claim that of an objection of that character, impropriety as distinguished from legal disqualification, the Judge himself is the sole arbiter. (Matter of Dodge & Stevenson Manufacturing Company, 77 N. Y. 101.) But the objection is now presented not to Judge Gray alone but to the whole court, and it is only just to our associate that we should express our views on the subject. Many and great Judges have allowed their relatives to practice before them; others have declined to hear cases in which near relatives appeared as counsel, but we have never heard of a Judge refusing to sit in any case because at some earlier period his relative had taken part in the legal proceedings in the cause. This appeal was argued in this court by Judge Landon and Mr. Howard S. Gans for the prosecution. Mr. Gray in no way appeared in the preparation or in the argument of the appeal, and his sole connection with the case was that already stated. We think it would not occur to the most sensitive judicial officer that such a previous appearance in a case by his son, not as counsel for a private litigant, but as a public officer in the performance of official duties, would either bias his action or affect public confidence in the impartiality of that action. While if Judge Gray had retired from the hearing of the appeal his associates would have respected his motives, at the same time they would have felt that delicacy had been indulged in to an excessive degree at their expense, and that a burden which in the ordinary practice of the court would, in the first instance, have fallen upon him, had been rather unwarrantably imposed upon one of them. It may be further said that if any objection was entertained to Judge Gray's participation in the hearing of this appeal it should have been made at the commencement of the argument, when if he had sought counsel of his associates we should have advised Judge Gray that it was his duty to sit. Counsel should not have awaited Judge Gray's action, and finding that action unfavorable, now take the objection. (Opinion reported in 183 N. Y. 52.)

The last sentence shows clearly the feeling entertained by the court regarding this application. HENRY G. GRAY.

(A Little Mediaeval Thing.)

"Surely you will heed my song,"
"Or I shall explode ere long,
With a deafening report,
  (Not a help, I fear,

(This he sang with such a vim
That he woke the lady up)—
  "What's that noise?" she called.
  Louder still he bawled:

"Surely you will be my wife,
Beautify my empty life
  "Surely not!" said she.
  "My mistake," said he.

AND GOOD FOR THE PUBLIC

Joseph H. Choate and Other Heads Write That the Effects Will Be of Permanent Value.

The three associations which selected the list of "New York's 100 Neediest Cases" for publication as a Christmas appeal in the magazine section of THE SUNDAY TIMES for Dec. 15, have reported themselves well pleased with the result. The responses were so prompt and so generous that material comfort was brought to each of those 100 families and fragments of families, but in their acknowledgment the charity organizations lay even greater stress on the educational value of the undertaking.

The State Charities Aid Association submitted cases of homeless and desolate little children, and the good that it did to publish their needs is indicated in this letter from ex-Ambassador Choate:

State Charities Aid Association,
United Charities Building,

I write in behalf of the State Charities Aid Association to express our thanks for the unique service rendered by THE NEW YORK TIMES in publishing a brief statement concerning 100 needy families in New York City, including fifteen children, known to this association.

As a result of this interest on the part of THE NEW YORK TIMES over $425 in cash has been received for the benefit of these children. Five of the fifteen have been permanently provided for in homes where they are accepted as members of the family, much needed special medical care has been secured for two, and several others are to be given an opportunity to live in a carefully chosen environment suited to their particular needs.

The educational effect of the article in question and the subsequent news and editorial comment appearing in THE NEW YORK TIMES is an important contribution on the part of THE TIMES to the work of these philanthropic agencies and to the well-being of those whom they serve.

JOSEPH H. CHOATE,
President State Charities Aid Association.

The greatest response was made to the cases submitted by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, for theirs led the list of 100, and often opened and emptied a sympathetic purse before the later cases were reached. This is the letter from John A. Kingsbury, General Agent:

The New York Association for Improving

I am pleased to inform you that as a result of the article printed in the Sunday TIMES of Dec. 15, which described the plight of the "Hundred Neediest Families," this association has received $2,231.56, contributed by 178 persons. One hundred and sixteen of these contributors had never before contributed to the A. I. C. P. Their donations amounted to $915.40.

These figures represent the actual amount received to date. They do not include the value of the clothing that was contributed and which it is impossible for us to estimate, nor the promises and pledges of future assistance. One person has guaranteed to contribute $4 a week for fifty-two weeks for one of the families; another has guaranteed to contribute $10 a month until next May, and two others have notified us that they will pay the expense of a daily supply of milk for two families for a certain period. These amounts are not included in the statement given above.

I want to take this opportunity to thank you on behalf of the society, and I might say on behalf of the poor of the city, for your very valuable contribution to the educational campaign which was so broadly conceived and splendidly executed by THE TIMES.

Its effect upon the "Hundred Neediest Families" is, of course, most gratifying to those families and to those of us who are trying to rehabilitate them. But its effect upon the general public, and indirectly upon many hundreds of needy families, should be far more important. There is so much appealing from all sorts of organizations that the general public has naturally become more or less callous to it, and of late it has really been impossible to raise the money necessary to provide simply for the material needs of the so-called "deserving" poor.

If you will examine the financial statement in the last annual report of the A. I. C. P., just issued, you will find that this association spent $16,000 more for food, clothing, &c., than it received in contributions during the past year. That is, we did not have a cent left from donations to apply to salaries even of visitors and nurses, whose personal services, as we have tried repeatedly to point out in annual reports, is often of much greater value than the meat and drink which they bring to the poor families. For a number of years this association has spent more for material relief than it has received from the public.

With renewed thanks in behalf of the needy families who benefited by THE TIMES article, I remain, very truly yours,

JOHN A. KINGSBURY, General Agent.

In behalf of the Charity Organization Society W. Frank Persons sent this statement to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday:

> The contributions to the Charity Organization Society still continue, about $75 having been received since the first of January. The whole amount received by that society to date is $948.62. This has been received in sums ranging from 50 cents to $150. There were three $100 contributions; so that nearly half of the receipts came from four donors. The remaining $500 was received in gifts averaging about $5 each. About one-quarter of the money received was given for designated cases. The balance was given to be applied for the families most in need in the judgment of the society, the donors presumably having in mind that earlier contributions might have been intended for those cases which most attracted their interest.
> The society has especially appreciated the evidences of continuing interest in the needs of families whose circumstances were stated and the willingness of donors to be informed of further opportunities to help. This is particularly true of those able to give the larger amounts which were received. The society feels that it and its beneficiaries have gained a good many new friends whose interest has been manifested not alone by bringing Christmas cheer to certain families, but in helping to make permanent provision for all their immediate needs. The co-operation of THE NEW YORK TIMES in accomplishing these results is most gratefully appreciated.

The actual cash received by the three societies was more than $3,600, and much of it came from men and women who were new on their lists.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 7.—In his inaugural message to the General Assembly to-day, Gov. Pothier recommended as a first step toward putting the State into position to retaliate against the New Haven Road for its alleged interference with the Grand Trunk entry into Rhode Island that immediate provision be made for the physical valuation of all public utilities operating in the State and for the examination of their securities by the State Utilities Commission.

To the New Haven, physical valuation would mean the payment of taxes on the difference between $3,000,000, the present basis, and more than $30,000,000.

"Provision for such physical valuation of the property of all public utilities operating in the State, and also for the inspection of their securities by the commission, should be made by an amendment to the present law. The commission also should have the power of prescribing proper and uniform accounting methods, and of requiring from all companies under its jurisdiction reports of operating expenses, and financial and other data."

Pushing of the development of Providence Harbor also was urged, despite abandonment of the Grand Trunk extension.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Democratic members of the House Committee on Rules decided definitely to-day that the resolution of Representative O'Shaughnessy of Rhode Island for an investigation of the alleged deal between the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada should be pigeonholed for the remainder of the present Congress, at least.

W. M. D. DE PEYSTER WEDS MRS. BRENNIG

BRIDE IS IN BUSINESS

Mrs. Frederick Brennig, a daughter of the late Charles Coudert, the well-known lawyer, was married yesterday at noon to William Moore Dongan de Peyster of this city in the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes in West 142d Street, the Rev. Father Joseph H. McMahon officiating.

Just a month has elapsed since the couple's engagement was announced on Dec. 7. No announcement had been made as to the date of the wedding, and society will be interested in learning of the event. Mr. de Peyster comes from a family that has long been prominent in society and business in New York, and his bride holds a unique position in the business world, having built up a cigarette business of large proportions within a comparatively few years. Her marriage, it is said, will not prevent her from continuing in the business, although it is possible that she might change her plans and retire to private life.

Only relatives and a very few intimate friends were invited to witness the ceremony yesterday. The bride wore a rose-colored taffeta gown, a black velvet picture hat, silver fox furs, and a corsage bouquet of mauve-colored orchids. Mrs. Frank Glaenzer, her sister, was her matron of honor and only attendant. Albert F. Hyde acted as best man.

After the church ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the St. Regis. Later Mr. de Peyster and his bride left for Palm Beach, Fla., on their honeymoon, and will be absent about two weeks.

This is Mrs. Brennig's third marriage. As Miss Amy Coudert, one of the five daughters of the late Charles Coudert, after her introduction to society she was married to McKenzie Semple, an Assistant District Attorney of this city, who only lived a year after his marriage. In 1894 she married Baron B. Frederick Brennig, member of an old Austrian family, whose health gave way about five years ago. It was when confronted with the task of caring for her husband and six children that Mrs. Brennig turned to the monogrammed cigarette business. Her husband died soon after she engaged in cigarette-making. It has been rumored that a syndicate of young men well known in society may be formed to negotiate the taking over of the brand.

Her sisters all married well. Mrs. Frank Glaenzer's home is in Paris. She has been visiting her sister and will now shortly return to Europe. Miss Claire Coudert married the Duke de Choiseul. The other sisters of the bride are Mrs. Conde M. Nast and Mrs. William R. Garrison. Her brother, Du Pont Coudert, married Miss Amalia Kussner, the artist.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 7.—The marriage of Miss Margaret Lawson Baxter, daughter of Gov. and Mrs. George W. Baxter, to Albert Volney Foster of Chicago, took place here to-day in St. John's Episcopal Church. Bishop T. F. Gailor and the Rev. Walter C. Whittaker officiated. The church was beautifully decorated. The bride wore white satin embroidered in pearls and trimmed with old lace, which had been worn by her mother on the occasion of her marriage. Miss Baxter chose Jan. 7 for her wedding day, as it was her parents' wedding anniversary.

The bride's grandfathers were distinguished men. Judge John Baxter was one of the best known jurists of the South and was a member of the United States Circuit Court. Her maternal grandfather, Col. C. M. McGhee, was a successful railroad man and an intimate friend and business associate of R. T. Wilson, Oliver Payne and William C. Whitney of New York City. Mr. Foster's father, the late Volney W. Foster, was one of the most prominent men in Chicago. Lewis Reed, who was Mr. Foster's roommate at Harvard, was best man. The ushers were Walter Righter, William Ross, Charles McGhee Baxter, brother of the bride, and Charles McGhee Tyson, cousin of the bride.

Many guests came to Knoxville for the wedding. The reception was held in the old home of Col. McGhee, famous for its hospitality. Among the guests were Judge J. M. Dickinson, Ex-Secretary of War, and Mrs. Dickinson, cousins of the bride; Col. and Mrs. Robert Lowry of Atlanta, Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. Stanly Keith of Chicago, Lee McClung, recently United States Treasurer, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. FINE FEATHERS, play by Eugene Walter. Astor Theatre.

Mrs. Collins	Rose Coghlan
Mrs. Reynolds	Lolita Robertson
Bob Reynolds	Robert Edeson
Dick Meade	Max Figman
John Brand	Wilton Lackaye
Frieda	Amelia Sumers
Nurse	Helen Hilton

That fine feathers make fine birds is the commonly accepted adage. That they may also make plucked birds is the fact which Eugene Walter set out to demonstrate in his new play, acted at the Astor Theatre last night.

On the whole it is exceedingly interesting, in many respects exceptionally well written, and in some regards extraordinarily vigorous. And in the main it is acted in a manner to bring out all that is best in it and with complete delivery of its salient points.

There are scenes in the earlier acts, however, which are not up to the standard of the remainder of the play, but seem even poorer on account of the exaggerated method of at least one of the principals in the cast. Nevertheless, the accumulated energy of the action is such that ultimately it is watched with almost breathless interest. And there is an element of surprise in the last act which is, moreover, extraordinarily effective.

The very end of the play, a suicide of one of the principals, will bring a certain sense of disappointment not on the grounds merely of the "desirable happy ending," but because it would seem that Mr. Walters took the easiest way out of a big difficulty. But the play is powerful despite this fact, and the rather questionable device of making so much of the ultimate development hinge upon the possibility of a wife's conviction as accessory before the fact in a crime of her husband's committing. That, indeed, seems its greatest flaw. For, granting that Mrs. Reynolds could have been "sent up" for having had some sort of a hand in the dishonest cement deal, Mr. Eugene Walter does not make it very clear exactly what sort of a hand that was.

She persuades her husband to accept a dishonest proposition which would make it possible for them to exchange comparative poverty for considerable luxury.

But is there a law which provides that wives shall be sent to jail for influencing their husbands to their own personal advantage?

It is the fault, or the virtue, (whichever you will) of the critic to have to ask such questions. But having done so he must admit that to the general run of theatre patrons the point will not be of first importance. They will find in this story of a sudden rise and fall in fortunes a timely and in many respects true enough discussion of a burning question, that eternal question of what is honest and what is dishonest in the word business. Fundamentally, of course, there can be but one answer to that question. When John Brand, capitalist and contractor, approaches Bob Reynolds, chemist, and offers him $40,000 to make a favorable report on a test of cement which is really not up to specifications, Bob Reynolds knows that he is being asked to do a dishonest thing.

But consider the circumstances and the voice of the serpent. Brand argues, and very plausibly, that the better cement will cost his firm an extra $200,000; that the ordinary cement will easily last a hundred years, and that such public works as the dam under construction are rarely allowed to stand even a quarter of that time. It will be in effect a waste of a large sum of money. Moreover the waste, in Brand's opinion, is due to the stupidity of the engineer who drew up the plans. Wherefore, argues Brand, they might as well have the money, and Bob Reynolds might as well have his share.

But Bob Reynolds, after a good fight, does fall. And his fall, primarily due to his own weakness, is secondarily due to the pleadings of his wife, who has been having a hard, dull time of it in a Staten Island bungalow, bought at a high figure, and being slowly—very slowly—paid for on the installment plan. Bob's weakness is due to his love for his wife; hers to a very natural weakness for clothes and comfort. And both of them, satisfied with a certain modest improvement at first, are ultimately lured to greater and greater expenditures, until unwise speculation swallows up everything that Bob has and puts him in the way of prison on account of a large overdraft made at a time when he knew that he was flat broke.

All of these points, very interestingly developed, with a considerable degree of light and shade and a plentiful sprinkling of very clever lines, lead up to the ultimate catastrophe, when one bad stroke after another is followed by a veritable holocaust in the form of the dam's sudden collapse, with fearful loss of life. And the play eventuates in a tragedy. This, of course, drives home the real moral and provides the real answer to the ethical question. Moreover, here there can be no room for argument.

It is very ably acted at the Astor, with Mr. Robert Edeson providing a notably fine emotional scene in the third act and a considerable amount of vigorous acting throughout the play. In the earlier scenes he seemed a trifle heavy and he might improve there with advantage. But when the going was strong his acting was truly superb. Mr. Lackaye, too, acted with fine restraint and much power, but why does not this admirable artist realize that his tailor's dummy manner of dressing a rôle and the artificiality of his make-up put a very strong handicap upon even his best efforts?

Max Figman provides a very charming and attractive comedy figure in the rôle of a rather wise reporter with Socialistic tendencies, and Miss Lolita Robertson, a most attractive, wholesome-looking young woman, has both poise and charm as the wife. There is not much of the febrile quality to her acting, but happily the situations are such that a natural restraint is preferable to the other thing not well done. And so Miss Robertson fills the rôle very satisfactorily.

An amusing sketch of a dull servant girl is provided by Helen Hilton. But Miss Rose Coghlan, most warmly welcomed, overplayed so much and took so much time about mostly nothing that she seriously endangered the earlier half of the play.

"Fine Feathers" may or may not make fine birds, but certainly make a success at the Astor.

CONSUL NASH FOUND DEAD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Paul Nash, American Consul at Budapest, who arrived in London yesterday from the Continent, was found dead in bed this morning at Claridge's Hotel. It was noticed yesterday that he did not appear to be in very good health, but there was nothing to suggest such a tragic end.

His death occurred during the night, and was discovered at 7 A. M., when a servant, according to orders given by Mr. Nash last evening, went to his room to call him. In accordance with English law, an inquest will be held, though there is not the slightest suggestion that death was due to other than natural causes.

Paul Cleveland Bennett Nash was born at Geneva, N. Y., the son of Francis Philip and Katherine Cleveland (Coxe) Nash. From 1903 until 1904 he was Secretary of the American Legation and Consul General at Bangkok, Siam. In 1907 he became Consul at Vladivostock, Russia, and in May, 1908, at Rheims, France. President Roosevelt appointed him Consul General at Budapest, Hungary, on June 1, 1908.

PENNSYLVANIA HELD TO BE AUTO 'FENCE'

GOVERNMENT ROAD EXHIBIT

There is at present under way an active campaign against the automobile thieves, who have been becoming more bold with the passing months in New York and other cities. In this campaign the National Highways Protective Society is vitally interested. It was learned last night that as one step in the endeavor to secure more security for the motor car owner the society will endeavor to bring about a better condition of affairs in Pennsylvania, which is said, at present, to occupy practically the position of a "fence" for stolen goods.

This rather unpleasant position in which the Keystone State finds herself is the result, the society says, of her present automobile registration law and the way it is interpreted by Commissioner Bigelow. It seems that it is impossible, under the present system, to learn any of the vital identification marks about a car, should they be desired. In other words, when the list of automobile registrations appears it gives only the license number and the owner's name. It does not give the horse power of the vehicle or the all-important engine number. To take a typical instance: Suppose John Smith loses his machine in New York and has reason to be suspicious about a car he discovers in Philadelphia. He can get no information about that car save the license number and the name of the man who is supposed to be the owner. Thieves, if the car has been really stolen, do not even have to take the trouble of obliterating the manufacturer's number, which is stamped on every engine. This obliterating process is an easy one, however, and the suggestion has been made that it would be an excellent thing to stamp it on the under side of each piston head. If this were done, the thief would be at a good deal of pains to eradicate the number and at the same time make a speedy "getaway."

However, wherever the number is carried, the Highways Protective Society contends that it should be part of the Pennsylvania public record, and it predicts that this will soon be the case, since Commissioner Bigelow will be petitioned to that effect in a resolution shortly to be offered, and if this does not have the desired result, attempts will be made to pass a law compelling this action.

There is to be an exhibit by the Office of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture in the Thirteenth National Automobile Show, which opens in Madison Square Garden and Grand Central Palace on Saturday. It is the first time such a good roads exhibit has been seen at an automobile show. It will at Space 845 in the Palace, and consists of a series of twenty-three models in miniature, illustrating the various types of road construction, including earth, sand, clay, gravel, macadam, both water-bound and bituminous; brick, concrete, and asphalt block, special foundations and drainage, concrete bridges and culverts, and also a historical series which illustrates the development of highway construction through a period of some 2,050 years. In addition, there are miniature models of a road roller, a rock quarry and crushing plant, operated by electricity. All of these models are made on a scale of one-twelfth actual size, so as to show each step in the construction.

The historical series begins with a model of the Appian Way, of the period of about 300 B. C. Then follows a model of the early French method of about 1775. The Tresaguet method, from 1775 to 1830; the Telford, about 1820; the early Macadam, from 1820 to 1845, and the modern Macadam, 1845 to 1913, are also shown. The first section of earth road model represents an unimproved road, improperly drained and cut to pieces by traffic. This same road, after being crowned up by the use of the road scraper or grader and well drained, is represented in the second section, and the third section shows the effect of traffic on the road after improvement and its repair by the use of the split-log drag.

Several of the large automobile companies are holding "private view" shows in their Broadway salesrooms, in which the various models to be seen at the coming exhibition are on view. One of these contains a number of examples of body building de luxe, in which odd colors, such as old rose and green and gray, as well as pillar lamps in the corners of the limousines, are features. At another, ten models of various powers and types, the result of the combined efforts of a staff of forty-eight engineers, are to be seen.

READJUSTING LA FRANCE CO.

Swartwout & Appenzellar have prepared a plan of readjustment for the American-La France Fire Engine Company which will permit the introduction of $600,000 new money, the need of which has been occasioned by the rapid growth in the company's business.

A year ago all of the assets of the American-La France Fire Engine Company were sold to a new corporation of the same name. The capitalization of the old company consisted of $900,000 of first mortgage bonds, $1,000,000 preferred stock, and $1,000,000 of common stock, besides which there was a floating indebtedness of $500,000. The new company has a capitalization of $2,000,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and $1,450,000 of common, the indebtedness having been paid from the sale of new stock. Earnings of the new company are said to be running at the rate of 10 per cent. on the common stock, after allowing for the preferred dividend.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

ACTIVITY IN DRESS GOODS.

Conditions Generally Satisfactory—Retailers Buying Frequently.

With the jobbers practically finished with their inventories and their salesmen on the road again, business in this branch of the dress goods trade is more active than it has been lately. Orders taken so far are in greater volume than those of a year ago, and conditions are generally satisfactory. While the retailers are not buying heavily, they are said to be placing orders more often, and there is a healthy demand for merchandise.

Prices continue firm with an upward tendency in both the primary and secondary markets. In the former, little activity is reported. Fall lines have not, as a rule, been opened, and few buyers are in town yet. Selling agents finished their year with the mills in a well-sold up condition on all kinds of desirable goods, and are looking forward to a good business when the next season's lines are shown.

UNDERWEAR BUYERS COMING.

Early Easter Bringing an Earlier Spring Trade.

So far as actual business is concerned, there is little fault to be found with conditions in the muslin underwear trade. According to Ben Birkenfeld of Birkenfeld, Strauss & Co., 31 West Twenty-seventh Street, the early Easter this year is bringing buyers in earlier than usual, and good spot business is looked for from now until August.

"Spring business has been very satisfactory so far," said Mr. Birkenfeld yesterday, "and, at least so far as this house is concerned, there is no reason to find fault with the outlook for the future. Indications point to a big white season, which will naturally help this trade immensely. Our December shipments for the January sales were the largest in the history of the house. The men are now starting out for Spring repeats and orders for the May and June sales.

"Princess slips have so far played a prominent part in the business done, with considerable attention also given to fitted golf skirts, combinations, and night robes. Crêpe underwear is in great vogue, and novelty colored crêpes in chrysanthemum and rose effects are moving well."

SHIRT MEN COMBINE.

Manufacturers Form Association to Combat Tariff Changes.

For the purpose of combating anticipated revision of the tariff, the shirt manufacturers of the United States have formed the National Association of Shirt Manufacturers, which will endeavor to convince the Ways and Means Committee in the latter part of the month that a radical revision of Schedule I. will work material injury to the industry.

The following tariff committee has been appointed to prepare data to be presented before the committee at Washington: Jules Levi of the Manhattan Shirt Company, Chairman; Nat Jacobson of the Excello Shirt Company, E. H. Betts of Earl & Wilson, George S. Brown of the Charter Shirt Company, and W. M. Steppacher of Walter M. Steppacher & Co.

The officers of the association are: President, Frank F. Peabody of Cluett, Peabody & Co.; Vice President, H. B. Tyson of the Quaker City Shirt Manufacturing Company; Treasurer, Jules Levi of the Manhattan Shirt Company, and Secretary, Herbert H. Maass.

WOMEN'S SPRING NECKWEAR.

Opinions Differ on Probable Best Sellers—Salesmen's Orders Good.

Manufacturers and importers of women's neckwear differ considerably in their opinions of what will be the best sellers this Spring. In most instances they say it is yet too early to tell much about styles, and the orders booked to date have been so diversified that no one article or design is in the lead. Salesmen have been out only a short time, but orders are in most cases satisfactory. Reports from retailers throughout the country tell of a large holiday business, and, as stocks are in a very healthy condition generally, manufacturers are looking forward to excellent business a little later on.

Business is rather quiet in the handkerchief trade just now, but wholesalers are apparently well pleased with present conditions. The Christmas trade was said to have been larger than in a number of years, and the demand was far in excess of the supply. At the moment the attention of the trade is turned to preparing goods for Easter and in taking import orders for next Fall.

PRINTCLOTH MARKET INACTIVE.

There was little activity in the local printcloth market yesterday. Most of the trading reported was for odd lots. The demand was largely for the wider goods, and narrow cloths continued very quiet. The day's quotations follow:

Twenty-seven inch, 56-52s, 3¼c; 27-inch, 56-56s, 3⅜c; 27-inch, 64-60s, 3 13-16c; 28-inch, 64-60s, 3 15-16c; 28-inch, 64-64s, 4 1-16c; 38½-inch, 60-52s, 4¾c; 38½-inch, 64-60s, 5¼c; 38½-inch, 64-64s, 5¾c; 39-inch, 68-72s, 5⅞c, bid; 39-inch, 72-76s, 6¼c; 39-inch, 80-80s, 7⅜c; brown sheetings, Southern standard, 8@8½c; brown sheetings, 4-yard, 56-60s, 6½c; brown sheetings, 3-yard, 7¼@7½c; brown drills, standard, 8@8½c; denims, 9-ounce, 14@16½c; tickings, 8-ounce, 13@13½c; standard prints, 5½c, and standard staple ginghams, at value, and 6½c.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The annual dinner of the Lace and Embroidery Association has been postponed until Jan. 22. It was to have been held to-day at Delmonico's.

On Thursday, Jan. 16, the second semi-annual convention of the Eastern Millinery Association will be held at the new Hotel McAlpin. A dinner will be held in the evening, at which leading men will speak. The Entertainment Committee is made up of Philip Berlinger, Chairman; Benjamin Rinaldo, Louis Adelson, Louis Fugazzy, and M. C. Hewlett. The business session will open at 2:30.

The Einstein-Wolff Company, laces, embroideries, and handkerchiefs, is now practically fully moved to its new building at Broadway and Twenty-fifth Street and expects to have all its departments ready for business there to-day.

A meeting of the Directors of the Dry Goods Alliance will be held at 75 Spring Street on Jan. 14.

The upholstery goods buyers of the Dry Goods Union will meet Jan. 14 at the office of the union, 55 White Street.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Dutch collars and jabots made of lawns and nets, with shadow lace trimmings, are selling well for Spring. Pleatings in white and ecru are also in good demand.

According to a prominent shoe wholesaler, several requests have been received in this trade to ship goods by parcel post. This practice is not looked on with favor because of the fact that practically no saving can be made in shipping small quantities of goods in this manner, and the shipper has not the benefit of getting a receipt or the insurance, as when the shipment is made by express.

Salesmen representing trimming houses are sending in a fair amount of orders for a general line of merchandise. Beltings are reported to be growing in demand. These are made of artificial silk and come in 1½ and 1¾-inch widths.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The wholesale clothiers of Huddersfield, England, are very busy, and there is a demand for more laborers, although about 4,000 are already employed. The older establishments are being increased in productive capacity and new ones are being put into operation. The export trade has developed to include the Continent, India, Australia, South Africa, Canada, and South America. The growth of this industry in Huddersfield may be partly attributed to the superior finish given to the goods in the web.

There was an increase of over $1,000,000 in the value of the principal exports of the products and manufactures of the United Kingdom from the port of Southampton during 1911, compared with 1910, but a decrease of over $2,000,000 in the shipments of foreign and colonial goods.

The Middletown Car Company has, by decree No. 9,855 of Nov. 6, been authorized to operate in the Republic of Brazil. The home of the company is in Pittsburgh, Penn. The object is to manufacture and sell iron and steel, build and sell cars and other rolling stock, &c. The capital is $5,000, divided into fifty shares of $100 each.

PURCHASERS TO PAY POSTAGE

Merchants' Protective Association Protects Parcel Post Shipments.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Merchants' Protective Association at their offices, 346 Broadway, on Jan. 7, the question of the effect of the parcel post upon the business of the merchants of New York was discussed, and it was pointed out that it had been the custom to ship goods free on board New York and for the consignee to pay express charges when samples and other merchandise were shipped by express. The parcel post requires the shipper to pay the postage.

A resolution was adopted unanimously that shippers should not be made responsible for the charges for transmission of samples and other merchandise by parcel post; that where the postage for such shipments is paid by the shipper the purchasers should be charged with that payment.

A committee was appointed, composed of Mr. Edmund Wright of Messrs. F. Vietor & Achelis, Mr. Wilmer A. Baldwin of J. W. Goddard & Sons, and Mr. Emil F. Griesmer of Mills & Gibb, to represent the association in the matter and to bring about the adoption of a general custom as above. The committee was authorized to seek co-operation of other mercantile associations.

WHEAT EXPORTS INCREASE.

Over Million Bushels Last Week—Less Than 500,000 Week Before.

Exports of wheat from the Port of New York gained sharply last week, aggregating 1,050,783 bushels, against 435,976 in the previous week. Beef shipments totaled 426 barrels and 501 tierces. Other shipments of important commodities were as follows:

Flour, 11,672 barrels and 65,000 sacks; oatmeal, 4,999 packages; pork, 674 barrels; bacons, 4,351,250 pounds; hams, 9,200 pounds; lard, 6,386,400 pounds; butter, 2,300 pounds; cheese, 18,780 pounds, and cottonseed oil, 4,415,601 pounds.

According to Customs figures issued yesterday, exports from New York in the week ended Jan. 4 amounted to $15,054,827, against $12,312,616 in the final week of 1912. Shipments to England continued to head the individual exports, this time being valued at $2,417,457.

COAL DEMAND SLOWS UP.

Mild Weather Helps Anthracite Trade—Bituminous Scarce at Tidewater.

"An easier tone has characterized the local anthracite trade since New Year's Day, thanks to continued mild weather," The Coal Trade Journal will say to-day. "The let-up in demand has to do with premium coal chiefly, since the companies are still behind on their orders, and the trade everywhere is showing a willingness to take all the tonnage that can be obtained at circular prices. Dealers are able to take care of current business, and in some sections stocks of fair proportions are being accumulated at retail yards.

"Bituminous coal has been scarce at tidewater, and prices have ruled high ever since the commencement of the holiday period. On Monday and Tuesday, however, there were signs of a moderate recession, due to the resumption of work at the mines and better car supply. Whether the change in the car situation is to be permanent, or is merely the result of the piling up of equipment while mines were shut down, cannot be determined for another week or more."

EXTENDING M. & ST. L. NOTES.

The Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad has arranged with Speyer & Co. to care for the $4,000,000 of 5 per cent. secured two-year notes, which mature on Feb. 1, by the payment of $1,000,000 of the amount and the extension of the remaining $3,000,000 for one year. New notes, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent., and maturing Feb. 1, 1914, will be exchanged for the $3,000,000 of maturing obligations, and the company will in addition pay a bonus of $15 in cash for each $1,000-note, making the new issue yield about 7½ per cent. Two years ago the Minneapolis & St. Louis had outstanding $5,000,000 of these notes, and paid off $1,000,000 of the amount at maturity.

The new 6 per cent. notes will be redeemable at par at any time on 60 days' notice, and will be secured by the deposit with the Central Trust Company of $6,000,000 of the same collateral now deposited behind the $4,000,000 notes. The company's net earnings from July 1 to Nov. 30 show an increase of 25 per cent., and the surplus for this period a gain of $435,185 over the same period last year.

Up-State Silk Company Bankrupt.

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 7.—The New Berlin Manufacturing Company of New Berlin, engaged in the manufacture of silk, filed a petition in bankruptcy this afternoon, with liabilities of over $42,000. The failure is the direct result of the looting last Spring of the New Berlin National Bank by the cashier, Frank T. Arnold.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

FUNDING COMPANY OF AMERICA.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Funding Company of America of 27 William Street. Judge Holt appointed Charles W. Littlefield receiver, with permission to continue business for twenty days. The assets consist of office furniture, $1,000; $93,000 capital stock of the Hudson Yacht and Boat Company of Nyack, against which a petition in bankruptcy was filed on Jan. 3; $29,000 capital stock of the Peabody Granite and Concrete Company, and $11,000 bonds of the same company. The actual value of the assets is stated in the court papers as $2,000. The Funding Company was incorporated on Jan. 8, 1910, with capital stock of $1,000,000, to underwrite and market stocks and bonds of industrial corporations and traction companies, but never had any rating in Bradstreet's. A year ago the company's financial statement showed assets of $726,229, of which $660,150 were stocks and bonds, and liabilities were $20,057. Among the Directors and stockholders were merchants, manufacturers, bank officials in Albany, Troy, Rochester, Utica, Buffalo, Philadelphia, and other cities.

A shake-up in the management of the Western Maryland Railway, which was begun at the annual meeting in Baltimore a few weeks ago, when several new Directors and officers were chosen, was completed at an important board meeting held at the company's new offices at 71 Broadway yesterday, when Jerome D. Greene, who is closely associated with John D. Rockefeller at 26 Broadway, was made a Director to succeed Alexander Robertson. Until recently Mr. Robertson was President of the company, and it has been commonly reported in the financial district that Mr. Rockefeller, who, with Blair & Co. and the Deutsche Bank, holds 60 per cent. of the company's stock, brought about the changes in management.

The board voted yesterday to omit the payment of the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, on the ground that the sum required had not been earned during the quarter. The profit and loss surplus of $841,000, shown in the last annual report, is not now available, according to a statement issued after the meeting, the money having been invested in the property.

It was said by an influential Director that the vote to pass the preferred dividend had been unanimous, although it was learned earlier in the day that the board was almost evenly divided on the question. According to a story current in financial circles, Mr. Rockefeller was one of the advocates of the declaration of the regular payment, partly because of the considerable amount of Western Maryland preferred stock in the General Education Fund and partly because his personal investment was largely in the preferred shares. Holders of the common stock were a unit against the payment of further dividends until the company's needs are cared for.

Edward D. Adams of the Deutsche Bank, who is Chairman of the Western Maryland, announced through the statement issued after the meeting that during the past twelve months the Directors themselves had provided $13,000,000 for the use of the company at a net cost, including commissions and expenses, of less than 6 per cent. per annum, taking short term notes for the amount. They first supplied $10,000,000 in return for 5 per cent. notes maturing July 1, 1915, for the special purpose of buying equipment, completing the new Cumberland-Connellsville extension, improving the Port Covington terminal in the harbor of Baltimore, and providing the facilities required, especially upon the old line, economically to handle the large increase in business provided for by the connection established with the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie at Connellsville. Subsequently the Directors supplied another $3,000,000 on 6 per cent. notes maturing Jan. 1, 1914.

"The Directors feel," said Mr. Adams, "that the situation of the greater Western Maryland, while making demands for the present upon the patience of stockholders and operating officials, contains even more definite elements of assurance concerning prospective business than were present when the construction of the new line was decided upon. It is with a full understanding of these circumstances and having before them the exact financial condition of the company that the Directors have provided the additional capital necessary for the efficient and economical operation of the enlarged property."

The old management came in for criticism in the statement issued by the board:

"The Western Maryland system is now in process of transformation and evolution, from a local railway, mainly tributary to and dependent upon the City of Baltimore, to a seaport terminal link in one of the largest railway systems of the country. Such a transformation necessarily involves large increases in operating expenses, alike (1) in the maintenance accounts by reason of the changes required to be made therein under the Inter-State Commerce Commission rules in respect to property abandoned or replaced in the course of improvements, (2) in traffic expenses through expenditures necessarily made in advance to promote traffic for the new line, and (3) in transportation expenses by reason of the innumerable difficulties of carrying on construction and improvement work and current traffic simultaneously. In the present case these difficulties have been augmented by the fact that the betterment of the old line did not proceed in due co-ordination with the construction of the new line.

"When the new line, still incomplete, was opened for through business in August last, the necessary betterments of the old line were not finished, traffic became congested, construction and improvements were delayed, and the management was obliged to decline a large amount of business offered and to instruct its agents not to solicit freight requiring prompt movement.

"The conditions that now obtain are unquestionably abnormal and temporary. Substantial improvement in operating conditions is not, however, to be anticipated until the betterments of the old line are near completion, which may be expected during the latter part of Spring, though it is the opinion of the operating officials that October will be found to have been the period of maximum expense."

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

Prices in the wheat market were again steady, but the market moved within the same narrow range in which it has been for the last two weeks, and there appeared to be an absence of confidence either way, traders being disposed to take small profits. Early in the day the market worked up ¼ to ⅜c, owing to reports of a better export demand than appears on the surface, as well as the probability of a smaller exportable surplus from America than had been estimated. The foreign markets were firm, with a continued good demand for cargoes abroad, and on further complaints regarding the condition of the crop in some of the European countries. Moreover, the European visible supply showed a decrease of 960,000 bushels for the week. Receipts in the Northwest were smaller and cash markets were steady, with little evidence of pressure of actual supplies. The less favorable developments in connection with the peace conference in Europe was also a bullish factor, which had some bearing on the early advance. Late in the day increased selling pressure developed, and prices gave way quickly, closing at only slightly above the low of the session, at a net decline of ¼ to ½c. Reports of a liberal snow covering over the Winter wheat belt, together with prospects of rising temperatures, removed apprehension regarding the probability of damage to the Winter wheat crop, while continued favorable weather in Argentina held out every prospect that that country will have a large amount of high-grade wheat for shipment to Europe.

Exporters were in the market, but total sales reported for the day at all positions were 20 loads. Bradstreet's world's visible showed an increase of 4,950,000 bushels, compared with an increase last year of 7,925,000 bushels. In the local market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at $1.06½ elevator and $1.07½ free on board afloat; No. 1 Northern Spring, 99¼c free on board afloat.

CORN.

Prices in the corn market followed much the same course as wheat, advancing early on continued buying on the part of several large commission houses, and easing off late under liquidation. Final prices were net unchanged to ⅛c lower. The cold weather which gave promise of heavier feeding as well as an interrupted movement had a bullish influence on sentiment as did further reports of export demand, but the predictions of warmer weather and export sales of only five loads caused longs to sell. Bradstreet's visible supply increased 939,000 bushels, compared with an increase last year of 363,000. Export corn in the local market was quoted at 55¾c free on board, afloat.

OATS.

The oats market was only moderately active, and after advancing ⅛@¼ early with the other markets, prices eased off, and closed net unchanged to ⅛c lower. Receipts were fairly liberal at interior points, but shipments were also large, showing a continued good distributing demand. Bradstreet's visible supply decreased 25,000 bushels for the week, compared with an increase last year of 993,000. The local cash market was firm; standard white quoted at 40c; No. 3, 38½@39½c; No. 4, 38@39c; natural white, 37½@39½c; white clipped, 38½@41c, all track.

PROVISIONS.

The delivery of about 10,000 tierces of January lard in Chicago after the close on Monday had a bearish influence on the whole provision market, and prices during the day were easy under liquidation. Receipts of hogs were also quite liberal at Western points, and the hog market was dull at a decline of 5 points. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 30,000, estimated for Wednesday, 35,000. Kansas City received 16,000 and Omaha 9,100.

COTTON.

There was further liquidation in the cotton market yesterday, but a better demand developed below 12½c for the Spring months, and prices rallied 9 or 10 points from the lowest in the later trading, with the close steady, net 5 points lower to 3 points higher. The selling movement was partly attributed to continued nervousness resulting from uncertainty as to the effect and application of Monday's Supreme Court decision with reference to corners in commodities, but local sentiment has become quite bearish, and in addition to the liquidation of old longs there was probably some pressure of short cotton. A little buying by trade interests, supposed to be against cotton called by spinners, helped to absorb offerings on the decline, but the chief support seemed to result from realizing on the part of recent sellers, and the covering became more active late in the day on reports that interior spot holders in the South were paying little attention to declines in futures and the leading spot markets were generally unchanged, which tended to confirm the private reports of firm holders.

The market opened steady at an advance of 6 points on January, but generally 1 point higher to 1 point lower, which was about in line with the cables. At first there was considerable buying, including undoing of straddles by houses with Liverpool and New Orleans connections, but this demand was readily supplied on a moderate bulge, and the market then became easier, with prices selling off to a net decline of from 13 to 17 points on the old crop months during the early afternoon. Just below 12.45c for March and May a better demand was encountered, while offerings became less active, and the market rallied quite sharply in the late trading.

Talk of bulling ginning returns next Thursday may have contributed somewhat to the covering movement late in the day, but items bearing upon the size of the old crop appeared to have lost force as a market factor for the time being, and the trade is already beginning to study the weather from the standpoint of coming crop prospects. Generous Winter rains are said to have put a good season into the ground, and while new crop months were relatively steady, bearish arguments count very largely upon the expectation of an increased acreage next season.

COTTONSEED OIL.

While the volume of business in the cottonseed oil market was comparatively small, prices were easier, closing at a net decline of 2 to 4 points. The decline in lard and cotton had a depressing influence on sentiment, and there was also considerable selling on the part of commission houses, prompted by reports of more liberal offerings of crude oil from the South, although the crude market was practically unchanged. Trade conditions were not of a character to encourage buying, but, on the other hand, the volume of crude offerings has not yet attained sufficient magnitude to encourage speculative risks on the short side.

COFFEE.

Timidity of speculators made it apparent that all branches of the coffee trade are waiting for the announcement of the valorization sales, due about Jan. 16. Prices started 6@7 points lower, but after showing a further loss of 1@3 points, rallied, and closed steady at 3 points net decline to 3 points advance. Total sales, 79,250 bags.

Havre declined ¼@½f, and Hamburg was unchanged to ½ pfennig lower. Brazil had a holiday Monday, but the special cable showed an advance of 100 reis for No. 4 Santos. Receipts at Rio and Santos so far this season are 9,132,000 bags, compared with 9,873,000 last year, and 9,022,000 two years ago.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Rapidly increasing ease in money again made its impression upon prices yesterday, and in a session of light trading stocks showed substantial improvement. Another influence was a readjustment of the point of view regarding Monday's ruling by the Supreme Court in the Union Pacific case. It was being argued yesterday that in fact a sale to outside interests of the Union Pacific's holdings of Southern Pacific would bear less on the market for that stock than a distribution to the Union Pacific's own shareholders. The latter disposition of the stock would largely increase the market supply of Southern Pacific, whereas if the stock were distributed only in part and the balance sold to a syndicate of outsiders, or the whole of it disposed of by a sale, any subsequent liquidation would be accomplished under more favorable conditions than would surround the selling of the stock by many individual Union Pacific holders. It had all along seemed to many that Wall Street was exaggerating the inconvenience of the possible failure of the plan which the Union Pacific management had devised and which the Supreme Court has now said would not meet the requirements of the case, and in its own way Wall Street seemed disposed yesterday to adopt this view.

Two special movements of the day which were much talked about, but which neither singly nor together made much impression upon the position of the market as a whole, were the further sharp decline in American Beet Sugar and in Western Maryland preferred. Apart from the direct explanation of the sharp decline in American Beet Sugar offered by the recent passing of the dividend the weakness of that stock must be viewed in the light of the tactics which had previously been employed in advancing the price of this issue to a figure considerably more than double that at which the stock sold yesterday. The manoeuvrings on the stock were frowned upon at that time even by some who are by no means unwilling ordinarily to join in speculative operations. The break in Western Maryland preferred was the market's response to the expectation, realized after the close of trading, that the dividend on the stock would be passed. The relative firmness of the common stock, which lost only a fraction, was in keeping with the understanding that an important interest in the common stock had strongly urged upon the management the wisdom of passing the dividend on the preferred, which is noncumulative. It was believed by that interest that the payment of the dividend under the circumstances in which the company temporarily finds itself would be detrimental to the holders of the common stock.

The cumulative ease in money was emphasized in several ways, but most forcibly perhaps by the announcement of the engagement of $1,000,000 of gold for shipment to Europe. It partakes somewhat of the picturesque that New York, within so brief a period of the time when borrowers here were paying a premium above 6 per cent. for time money, and were paying as high as 20 per cent. for day to day loans, should be the easiest market in which to obtain gold. Despite the rapid advance in the sterling exchange rate in the last week or ten days it had not yesterday risen to the mint parity, and it was clear that factors other than the mere money relations of this and the European markets entered into this gold engagement. While this gold was announced as intended for London it was thought likely that its ultimate destination would be some other market, either South America or Paris, or, at least, that it would in effect make good gold withdrawals in similar amount from either Paris or London. It was taken for granted that the ultimate consignee was paying a commission sufficient to cover the difference between yesterday's exchange rate and that at which a shipment under ordinary conditions would show profit. Even allowing for this assumption, this gold engagement was a striking commentary upon the degree of ease which within the last few days has developed in the New York money market.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2½@3 per cent., with the last loan at 3 per cent. Most of the day's loans were made at 2¾ per cent.

Time money rates were at 3½@4 per cent. for sixty days, 3¾@4 per cent. for ninety days, 4@4¼ per cent. for four months, 4¼@4½ per cent. for five and six months, and 4½@5 per cent. for one year.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 4½ per cent. for short bills and 4¼@4 9-16 per cent. for three months' bills; Paris, 4 per cent., and Berlin, 4½ per cent. Money was 3@3½ per cent. in London and 4½ per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25 francs 18 centimes, and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 46½ pfennigs.

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Treasury statement issued to-day gives receipts and expenditures for yesterday and for the elapsed periods of the month and of the fiscal year as follows:

	Jan. 6.	Month.	Fiscal Yr.

The condition of the United States Treasury at the beginning of business to-day was: Working balance, $90,272,057. In Banks and Philippine Treasury, $31,927,816. Total of general fund, $144,120,145.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Beet Sugar Down More.

Prospects for the beet sugar industry in the United States do not look any brighter with the approach of the time when a Democratic Congress will tackle the tariff. That thought, and the promised investigation into the company's affairs have disturbed the stockholders of the American Beet Sugar Company. Yesterday the shares sold down to 35, and at the closing price, which was made at 35½, they showed a net loss of 3½ points for the day. This is a decline from the high price of 77 made last year.

Clean Money Soon.

Work was started the first of the new year on changes in the Sub-Treasury's plumbing system, looking to the installation of the recently perfected machinery for laundering banknotes. The washing operations will be carried on upstairs, but the flat roof of the building will not be used for stretching clothes lines on which to dry the bills. In a few weeks millions of dollars, which would otherwise have gone to Washington for redemption, will be washed and ironed by the machines and put back into circulation.

Local Crop Conditions.

The ground conditions throughout the financial district appeared yesterday to be of a nature to delight the amateur farmers who tread its pavements for five days each week in order to make enough money to allow them to indulge their whim for agriculture on the sixth. There was a great abundance of moisture, and the excavations made in connection with various municipal contracts supplied a rich black layer of earth, which was spread over all the sidewalks by the hurrying pedestrians. Such a day is hard on the Oriental rugs that are found in many of the inner offices.

Wide Range in Lackawanna.

In yesterday morning's quotation sheet Delaware, Lackawanna, & Western, with the dividend off, was quoted at 418 bid, 444 asked. During the day a sale of 100 shares of the stock was made at the asked price, 444. The previous full sale, before the stock sold ex-dividend, was made at 570. The bid and asked prices on the tape after the close yesterday were 430 bid, 578 asked, a difference of 148 points between buyer and seller. Experienced readers of the tape said that the quotation was not an operator's error, for if he had intended to make the asked price 478 the quotation would have read 430—78.

Money for Europe.

The suddenness with which the money situation changes oftentimes is hard to explain. But a little more than a week ago call money was being quoted at 12 per cent., and people were talking about a possible stringency. Yesterday the prevailing rate was 2¾ per cent., with indications that the price would go still lower as more money returns to this centre. As a result of the ease in money conditions here, and the firm demand for funds abroad, where money is still worth from 1 per cent. to 1½ per cent. more than it is in this country, Lazard Frères have arranged to ship $1,000,000 to Europe this week. Money has been pouring into this centre from the interior in the usual volume for this season of the year, and Europe is supposed to have liquidated enough securities to offset most or all of her indebtedness to the United States. Bankers generally had been looking for gold exports to South America, but were surprised at the announcement of a shipment to Europe.

Steam Pump Business Grows.

In connection with the decision of the Directors of the International Steam Pump Company to continue the payment of the preferred dividend, in accordance with a recommendation of President Dickson, it was announced yesterday that the board felt particularly gratified with the immediate business prospects. The Steam Pump Company had an unsatisfactory year in 1912, but orders now on the books show an increase of 41½ per cent. for the first three months of the new fiscal year, as compared with the corresponding period of the preceding year. Prices obtained on the new business likewise show an improvement, and the Directors have expressed themselves as being confident that the ensuing year will witness much better results than were achieved in 1912.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Trading was in small volume in the Curb market yesterday and prices moved narrowly, with a downward tendency. United Cigar Stores reported transactions of only 2,500 shares, selling off from 107¼ to 106⅝ and closing at 107. Tobacco products preferred, on sales of 500 shares, advanced ¾ from the opening to 99. In the mining list there were declines of ¼ point from opening levels in Braden and British Columbia, although the former recovered ⅛ point of the loss before the close. Nipissing became active on the rising scale, advancing from the opening at 8¾ to 9⅛ and closing at 9 after sales of 1,600 shares. The bond list showed spirited activity. Brooklyn Rapid Transit 5 per cent. notes reported sales of $220,000 from 96 13-16 to 97⅛, closing at 97 1-16. Chicago Elevated 5s were also active and strong, rising from 98⅜ to 98⅝ and closed at the high figures after sales of $105,000.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 8.—The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"The market repaid the Bank what was due to it yesterday without difficulty and appeared fairly well supplied with money after the operation was completed. Discount houses slightly raised their rates for all bills except six months' paper, rumors of impending gold withdrawals being in circulation, which were not confirmed, but, nevertheless, not altogether ignored.

"The stock markets were very little affected by the announcement that the Balkan allies felt obliged to suspend the conference. For a brief period at the opening the tone was dull; but for the rest of the day the market was quite good, the Paris Bourse buying its favorite securities with great freedom. This, more than anything else, was the reason for the cheerfulness displayed here. In some quarters a moderate amount of investment business was reported; otherwise there was a general inclination to await developments in the foreign political situation before increasing commitments.

"Notable features of the day's business included the advance of 20 points in Peninsular and Oriental deferred, which was more actively dealt in than for some time past, in spite of the denial that any negotiations were in progress with a view to a combination of interests, the pronounced strength shown by Peruvian corporation preference and some leading Argentine railway stocks."

PARIS, Jan. 7.—Prices closed firm on the Bourse to-day.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

White, Weld & Co. have issued a circular on public utility bonds, which they recommend as especially suitable for investment at this time.

The Lawyers' Surety Company has elected J. Frank Supplee a Director to succeed Thomas J. McGuire, deceased. Other retiring Directors were re-elected as well as officers.

The J. G. White Engineering Company has elected these Directors: Harry Bronner, James Brown, F. Q. Brown, Douglas Campbell, George C. Clark, Jr., Bayard Dominick, Jr., A. G. Hodenpyl, T. W. Lamont, Capt. Marion McMillin, J. H. Pardee, E. N. Potter, Frederic H. Reed, Charles H. Sabin, Frederic Strauss, Moses Taylor, George H. Walbridge, E. N. Chilson, and C. E. Bailey. The officers are J. G. White, Chairman Finance Committee; Gano Dunn, President; E. G. Williams, A. S. Crane, H. A. Lardner, Vice Presidents; H. S. Collette, Secretary, and R. B. Marchant, Treasurer.

Kaufmann Brothers, owners of stores in Pittsburgh, and heretofore doing business as a copartnership, are about to organize a corporation under New York laws to be known as Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., which will take over the business of the copartnership. The Kaufmann Brothers and Edgar Kaufmann will continue their active identification with the business. Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. have organized a syndicate to acquire a portion of the stock.

Hecht, Stern & Co. Dissolve.

Judge Amend of the Supreme Court has appointed Harry Cahn receiver for the assets of Hecht, Stern & Co., manufacturers of jewelry of 561 Broadway, in a suit brought by Sigmund Hecht against the other three partners, Harry A. Stern, D. Dudley Gutman, and Jacob Nussbaum, to wind up the affairs of the firm. All the liabilities have been paid, and the assets are $25,000. They began business on Nov. 1, 1909, with $25,000 cash capital, and were previously salesmen in the same line.

Investors Demand Larger Income

Borrowers, especially corporations, recognize this demand and are gradually meeting it. The Public Utility companies that we have built up, largely with our own money, and control and operate, appreciated long ago the desirability of treating those who invest in these properties on a liberal basis. The securities that we offer are amply secured by both property and earnings, and as we are thoroughly familiar with the companies, having made them substantial and profitable enterprises, we recommend these issues unqualifiedly.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Apartment Investment Deals on Riverside Drive and Washington Heights — Tenements in Demand — Brooklyn Trade Involving $225,000 — Bryan Kennelly to Appraise Ferncliff.

Investment buying of apartment house parcels furnished three good sales on the west side yesterday, one of which involved a trade. Of chief importance was the sale to an investor of the large vacant plot on the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 144th Street, 100 feet on the Drive and 125 on the street. It has been sold by William A. White & Sons for the McLanahan estate of Washington, D. C., in whose family the property has been for over thirty years. Negotiations have been pending for the transfer of the property for several days. It will doubtless be improved with a high-class apartment house, as the corner is one of the few remaining in the upper Riverside Drive district available for a large building operation.

In the lower west side section there was another Riverside Drive deal, the six-story house on the northeast corner of Ninety-sixth Street being sold by the Palmer Realty Company, Leslie R. Palmer, President, to Harry Williamson. The plot is an irregular one, fronting 109.2 on the Drive and 50.5 on the street.

In the upper Washington Heights section the six-story house at 517 and 519 West 169th Street, covering a plot 50 by 81.7, was sold by the Herman Arns Company for Aaron Goodman. The house has lately been completed, and is well rented. The buyer was Edward B. Corey, and in part payment he gave a plot with a frontage of 100 feet by 81.7 deep on the north side of 169th Street, between Audubon and Amsterdam Avenues. This plot is just east of the property sold by Mr. Goodman, being 100 feet from Amsterdam Avenue. Mr. Goodman is preparing plans to improve the plot with two six-story apartments similar to the one sold. The combined value of the properties in the deal aggregated about $250,000.

Tenement Property.

Henry Brady has sold for the estate of Elizabeth J. Moneghan the five-story double tenement on lot 25 by 92, 417 West Eighteenth Street, to Mrs. M. Hogan.

Pepe & Bro have sold for F. Castellani, 92 West Houston Street, the three-story building on lot 19 by 100 to Joseph Personelli. The same property was sold by the same brokers about one month ago for William Buchan, Jr.

The Brown-Weiss Realties has sold the six-story new law house on plot 35 by 100.8, at 333 East Ninety-fifth Street, about 140 feet west of First Avenue. The buyer gave in part payment a farm on Long Island, located about a mile from Lynbrook.

Recent Buyers.

Dudley Olcott, second Vice President of the Central Trust Company, is the buyer of the five-story dwelling, 20 East Seventy-ninth Street, sold Monday by the Buek Construction Company. In part payment the buyer gave 16 East Sixty-fourth Street, a five-story American basement house, on a lot 20 by 100.5. Mr. Olcott's father purchased the dwelling at 4 East Fifty-third Street from Charles Buek of the Buek Construction Company over 30 years ago. Douglas L. Elliman was the broker in the transaction.

Bronx Borough.

An investor has purchased for cash from Mary S. White the southwest corner of Brook Avenue and 149th Street, a five-story building with stores, on a plot 85 by 90 by 44. This corner is only a few doors east of the new Cohan & Harris Theatre, which is in course of construction, and one and a half blocks from the subway and elevated stations at 149th Street. Eugene J. Bushar was the broker.

A $225,000 Brooklyn Trade.

A trade involving 140 lots in the Ulmer Park section of Brooklyn, two sixteen-family apartment houses in New Jersey Avenue, near Glenmore Avenue, and six cottages in East Seventh Street, between avenues O and P, was consummated yesterday by Fineberg & Co.

The Ulmer Park property was sold for the Fultonia Realty and Construction Company of Manhattan to the Purdy Construction Company of Brooklyn, which will immediately build dwellings on it. The deal involves about $225,000. The Ulmer Park lots are bounded by Cropsey, Bath, and Twenty-fifth Avenues. The Purdy Construction Company gave the improved properties mentioned as part payment for the lots.

Brooklyn.

The Jerome Property Corporation has sold 282 Fourteenth Street, a two-story and basement dwelling, on a plot 25 by 100, for N. Akeson to a builder. The same brokers also sold the adjoining house, 280 Fourteenth Street, on a lot 25 by 100, to the same client, who intends to erect a modern brick and stone apartment house.

Howard C. Pyle & Company has sold 51 Bainbridge Street, between Sumner and Lewis Avenues, a four-story and cellar brick and limestone double apartment building, on a plot 30 by 100, for D. Walter to an investor.

George L. Moore has sold 155-159 Lafayette Avenue, between Adelphi Street and Carlton Avenue, two five-story and cellar white stone single apartment houses on a plot 50 by 85 by 90, for Henry C. Wetzel of Plainfield to the Danzollo Realty Company for $70,000.

Frank J. Magerle sold for Mrs. Lohrey 28 Freedom Avenue, Brooklyn Hills, a one-family detached cottage, on a lot 50 by 100, to a client for occupancy.

Long Island City Sale.

H. Epstein has sold to A. Stutzmann the two buildings on the north side of Potter Avenue, 50 feet west of Purdy Street, being erected by the Potter Avenue Construction Company.

Kennelly to Appraise Ferncliff.

Bryan L. Kennelly has been appointed sole appraiser by John Quinn, attorney for the Controller of the State of New York, and Carter, Ledyard & Milburn, attorneys for the executors of the estate of John Jacob Astor, to determine the value of Ferncliff the Astor country estate at Rhinecliff, N. Y. The property consists of over 3,200 acres.

Dwellings Leased.

Pease & Elliman have leased for Edwin C. Hoyt 66 East Fifty-third Street to George W. Folsom for the Winter furnished. Also, for a client, 4 West Fifty-sixth Street to Mrs. J. P. Goin.

Park Theatre Leased.

Walter Rosenberg has leased from Frank McKee and William Harris the Park Theatre, at Fifty-ninth Street and Columbus Circle. The lease is for one year, with an option of eight years, at a rental of $35,000 per year, and taxes and insurance totaling $48,000 per year. Photoplays will be presented, with a symphone orchestra.

Realty Notes.

The New York Central Railroad Company has taken title to another parcel adjacent to its west side freight terminal between Thirtieth and Thirty-third Streets. The property is 369 Tenth Avenue, old frame buildings, on lot 25 by 100. Recently the company bought the two five-story flats, 50 by 100, at the northwest corner of Tenth Avenue and Thirtieth Street, so that yesterday's purchase indicates a plan to acquire the rest of the block front between Thirtieth and Thirty-first Streets.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination at the New York Custom House on Jan. 22 to fill a vacancy in the position of medical interne in the Government Hospital for the Insane at Washington, D. C., at $600 per annum, with maintenance, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications. The positions are tenable for one year, and pay $50 a month and maintenance. At the end of six months an examination is held, and promotions to the next grade, assistant physician, at $75 a month and maintenance, are made. Beyond this there is regular advancement for men whose services are satisfactory. As considerable difficulty has been experienced in filling vacancies in the position of medical interne in the Hospital Service during the past several years, owing to the limited number of eligibles available, qualified persons are urged to enter this examination.

Competitors will be examined in the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated: Letter writing, (the subject matter on a topic relative to the practice of medicine,) 5; anatomy and physiology, (general questions on anatomy and physiology, and histologic or minute anatomy,) 10; chemistry, materia medica, and therapeutics, (elementary questions in inorganic and organic chemistry, the physiologic action and therapeutic uses and doses of drugs,) 15; surgery and surgical pathology, (general surgery, surgical diagnosis, the pathology of surgical diseases,) 20; general pathology and practice, (the symptomology, etiology diagnosis, pathology, and treatment of diseases,) 25; bacteriology and hygiene, (bacteriologic methods, especially those relating to diagnosis; the application of hygienic methods to prophylaxis and treatment,) 10; obstetrics and gynecology, (the general practice of obstetrics, disease of women, their pathology, diagnosis, symptoms, and treatment, medical and surgical,) 15.

Graduation from a reputable medical college is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. Applicants must not have been graduated previous to the year 1910 unless they have been continuously engaged in hospital, laboratory, or research work along the lines of neurology or psychiatry since graduation, which fact must be specifically shown in the application. Both men and women will be admitted to this examination, although there are no vacancies for women at present. Applicants must be unmarried, aged 20 years or over on the date of the examination, which is open to all persons who are citizens of or owe allegiance to the United States and who meet the requirements.

HAMMERSTEIN TELLS OF STOTESBURY 'GIFT'

Impresario Accepted $40,000 as a Favor to the Financier and Duly Acknowledged It.

IT MADE UP A DEFICIENCY

The second day of the Stotesbury-Hammerstein case in Judge Mayer's court brought forward many witnesses for the plaintiff, and about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Oscar Hammerstein took the stand in his own behalf. He gave an account of his dealings with Mr. Stotesbury from the time he built the Philadelphia Opera House until he closed it.

Oscar Hammerstein said that he had been a resident of New York for forty years, and gave his business as "theatrical and operatic manager." He opened his season of opera in Philadelphia in 1908.

"I was advised by a lady named Mrs. Harrison to see Mr. Stotesbury, and I made an appointment to do so," he said. "I went to his residence. I had opened the house in November, and carried the season on for some time without a mortgage.

"I told Mr. Stotesbury this, and also that I had tried to place a loan on my property. I told him that I had applied to about every concern in Philadelphia for such a loan and invariably had been refused."

"'Why were you refused?' he asked me. 'Well,' I replied, 'I figure that all these institutions—banks, life insurance and trust companies—are more or less dependent on the Directors of the Metropolitan Opera Company. And as I had entered into competition with that company, both in Philadelphia and New York, they objected. Under such circumstances, if you want to make the loan, Mr. Stotesbury, it will redound to your credit.' He asked me how much I had spent on the opera house, and I told him a million and a quarter. He asked for my accounts, and I said I would get them ready.

"'Philadelphia,' he said, 'ought to be very grateful to you for coming here. Come to see me at my office.' We discussed the amount of interest. He first suggested 5½ per cent., but we finally settled on a trifle less. I told him he was a white man. A man who makes a loan under these conditions ought to be appreciated.

"During the season I purchased the two operas of Richard Strauss, 'Salome,' and 'Elektra,' and I also contracted for the production of 'Samson et Dalila.' I concluded to invest more money in costumes and scenery, and I went to Mr. Stotesbury, telling him that I wanted a further loan to benefit my performances. He would not accept the Philadelphia Opera House as further security. I had one mortgage of $350,000 on the Manhattan Opera House in New York, property which, including the land, had cost $1,500,000.

"He did not want to take that without further security. So I finally arranged to let him hold as security all the shares of the Hammerstein Amusement Company, which I own, and which represent the Victoria Theatre. For a second mortgage on the Manhattan Opera House and the stocks of the Hammerstein Amusement Company as security, he agreed to advance me $200,000. There was 6 per cent. on this loan, I believe.

"I got through the first season in Philadelphia with gratifying results. I did not lose any money. Without any aid, even that of Mr. Stotesbury, I managed to get through. Of course, I only paid my expenses; I don't mean that I could pay interest on my loans or anything like that out of the money I made.

"Early in the second season I learned that the Metropolitan Company, which was giving performances in Philadelphia, was being guaranteed. I told Mr. Stotesbury, as the mortgagee and President of my box committee, as well as at the head of progress in the city, that, out of fairness toward me, who had alone invested $1,500,000 in Philadelphia, giving performances such as Philadelphia had never before seen, I should be guaranteed against further loss. He promised to lay the matter before his friends.

"I talked with him many times on this subject, and finally there was a conversation in his office before several other men. I gave them several facts, and suggested that a circular be made up to pass around. At the time Mr. Stotesbury called up Mr. Widener on the telephone and asked him to subscribe. He turned around from the telephone and said that Mr. Widener would subscribe $10,000."

"Did he ever tell you that he would loan you any money?"

"Never."

"Do you remember the car strike?"

"Yes."

"They were nil. I lost thousands each week. Finally I decided to close the house, when Mary Garden in 'Louise' drew only $250. Her salary alone was $1,500 a performance. I told Mr. Stotesbury to put up the sign."

"Told Mr. Stotesbury?" exclaimed Mr. Smyth.

"I mean Mr. Carpenter; I beg your pardon. I closed, without any conference with Mr. Stotesbury, in my own interests. My contracts referred to strikes, and I could make money by closing. You see, all of my patrons did not come in automobiles."

"When did you see Mr. Stotesbury again after you had closed on Feb. 19, 1910?"

"At the beginning of the week after. We met on a train going to New York. He asked me why I had closed, and I told him. 'You might have come to see me,' he said. 'I should have liked to have seen you through this for a reason. This car strike is discouraging industries.'

"'If you didn't want the opera house closed,' I said to him, 'you should have done something. You knew that I wanted a guarantee. I can't afford to keep the house open under the circumstances.'

"I told him about half of my expenses each week. He wanted to know how many more weeks of opera there were to have been. And when I told him that $40,000 would cover the rest of the season, he said he would give it to me.

"'Well,' I said, 'there is nothing in it for me, but as a favor to you.' He argued with me, and in so persuasive a manner that I finally agreed. He told me to send him the books with the expenditures for each week, as he was going away. He would make an arrangement for his people to pay the deficit each week."

"Was there a loan?"

"It was not a loan. He said: 'Make a sort of acknowledgment in your own fine way.'"

The acknowledgment was made, it seems, in the newspapers, and copies of The Philadelphia Record, and THE NEW YORK TIMES of March 4, 1910, were brought into evidence to show that Mr. Hammerstein had acknowledged publicly at that time that he kept the house open, thanks to the generosity of Mr. Stotesbury. Mr. Stotesbury was in Mexico at the time of the publication of these acknowledgments, but Mr. Hammerstein asserted that he showed them to him on his return, whereupon Mr. Stotesbury asserted that he had already seen them.

HAVE PIE AND THEIR BALL.

They were 200 girls of the Vacation Fund Society, and they all had pie and a course dinner for 25 cents. One thousand girls met in the assembly rooms of the Metropolitan Building last evening for a grand ball, and the dinner was an afterthought; but it turned out to be one of the most important features on the programme, and they are going to try it now every month when the girls who are saving money for their Summer vacations come together for a meeting.

It was a wet night, and most of the 200 girls who came to dinner took the whole quarter's worth, as did Miss Anne Morgan, who dined with the girls; Mrs. Josephine Daskam Bacon, Miss Elisabeth Marbury, Miss Robinson-Smith, and a number of the members of the committee. And they all said it was very good.

They are going to do even better than that in a trip the girls are going ot take to the Zoological Garden Sunday, July 19. They will have the round trip, dinner included, for 25 cents. The dinner will be served at the Garden for 15 cents, warranted hot and good. They did not tell the menu last night, but there will be pie, anyhow.

Miss Marbury reminded the 1,000 vacation savers that she had previously told all the unmarried ones to get married as quickly as possible.

"I don't know whether any of you have done it since I spoke to you," she said; "but I suppose not, because no one ever takes good advice."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 7.—There is growing anxiety in naval circles for the safety of the repair ship Panther and the tug Sonoma, which sailed from the New York Navy Yard last Thursday afternoon, bound for Guantanamo, Cuba, to join the Atlantic Fleet and accompany it to Panama for the approaching manoeuvers. The Panther and the Sonoma must have got into the worst of the hurricane that broke on Friday. Efforts to get the Panther by wireless were begun on Saturday, but at a late hour to-night these were still unsuccessful.

The conclusion here is that the wireless outfit on the repair ship, which was small, broke down early in the storm, thus preventing her from relaying a message to the Navy Department. The department has been expecting every day to hear from the two vessels by way of some passing steamship that might have sighted them or picked up a wireless message from the Panther within a radius of twenty-five or thirty miles.

LAWYERS USE THEIR FISTS.

WHITE PLAINS, Jan. 7.—Hobart S. Bird of 605 West 181st Street, New York, and former Assemblyman Goodwin of this village met in the Supreme Court here this morning as warmly opposing counsel in an argument on a motion. With Justice Keogh watching, outward peace was preserved between the lawyers until they got out in the corridor, when they proceeded to "settle it right," in the words of one of the appreciative court attendants.

The battle was earnest and, to a very slight degree, gory. It took a policeman to halt it. A little later, at Police Headquarters, each combatant gravely charged the other with assault.

FIREMEN REJECT TERMS.

The General Adjustment Committee, representing the firemen of the fifty-two Eastern railroads, after a short meeting in the Engineering Societies Building in West Thirty-ninth Street yesterday afternoon, rejected outright the terms proposed by the Conference Committee of Managers in their reply on Monday to the second amended proposition of the locomotive firemen.

The firemen are willing to submit their case to arbitration under the Erdman act, and to meet the objections of the railroads that the time limit set by the act will not give enough time for testimony and findings, are willing to extend the time to sixty days.

PUT VINCENT ASTOR IN LEGION OF HONOR

Policemen Who Have Done Things Admit Him to Honorary Membership.

PREPARE FOR ANNUAL DINNER

Enthusiasm Over News That Fay, Who Led Attack on Fagin in Bronx, Will Be There.

The trial room at Police Headquarters, usually associated with dark hours in the life of a bluecoat, was festively astir last evening and packed to its capacity. The members of the Legion of Honor of the Police Department, assembled for their regular monthly meeting, were looking forward to the installation of Vincent Astor as an honorary member. The legion, which has a membership of 450 men from all ranks of the force, was formed early last Spring, and only those can be elected who have won some medal, honorable mention, or special commendation for bravery or other form of distinguished police service.

Young Mr. Astor was elected as one of the few honorary members at the December meeting. Prior to that his name had been associated with the police, for Commissioner Waldo appointed him to serve, in the place left vacant by the death of Col. John Jacob Astor, on the committees that award the department medals and select the names for the bronze honor tablets in the corridor at headquarters.

It was 9 o'clock and the meeting had been called to order when the patrolman on guard at the door announced that Mr. Astor was on his way from the office of Chief Inspector Max Schmittberger, on the ground floor. This gave a few moments for preparation, and some one suggested that the police cheer. So it was to a welcome of vociferous cordiality that Inspector Schmittberger, Capt. Day, and a group of lesser department lights threw the door wide and escorted young Mr. Astor to his seat on the platform.

President John W. Frazer, who in working hours is plain Patrolman Frazer, busy with the suppression of crime in the vicinity of the Flushing Avenue Station, Jamaica, greeted the new member in a ringing speech, and Mr. Astor heard himself described as "one of the most distinguished young men of the Nation," a sentiment that was greeted with thunderous applause.

"We especially revere the name of Astor," Frazer went on. "The family has given much of its valuable time to the department and young Mr. Astor has taken the same interest in our work that his father did before him."

There was more applause at that, and then the new member made his brief speech of acceptance.

"I will not detain you with a lengthy speech," he said, "for I know that you are too busy. But I do want to express my honest and sincere thanks for what you have done for me, and I only hope that never by word or deed shall I bring discredit on your organization."

The orator of the evening was Sergt. Higgins of the Brooklyn Telegraph Bureau, who announced himself "pleased with the Astor comradeship," and spoke his faith in any one of the stock of that man who stood aside when the word came down, "Women and children first."

Much talk was had last evening in preparation for the first annual dinner of the legion, to be held at the Waldorf on the evening of Jan. 27. Inspector Schmittberger warned the men that on that night they would be "stood up and looked at" by society, and that they must be able to look their part—that of the cream of the department. No one will have the excuse of police duty to keep him from the dinner, and all the men will be there in uniform, with their medals on. Cardinal Farley, Bishop Greer, and many other distinguished men of the city will be there to do them honor.

Announcement was made that Detective Martin Fay, who led the charge on the Elsmere Hotel on the night that Vogel, the Fagin, was cornered there, and who hovered between life and death from the wounds he received in that murderous close-in, would be sufficiently strong to appear at the dinner. And there was more applause for that.

After the meeting it was learned that Mr. Astor intended to present the legion with a set of colors on the night of the dinner.
